It has been learned that the King wishes to have his birthday observed. A cablegram received by the Governor-General states: "It is His Majesty's wish that the usual birthday dinner in the Colonies be given in 1901 and 1902 on November 9." During the early part of the year he preferred to have the observance take place on the birthday of his deceased mother. It is expected that a proclamation will be issued shortly making November 9th a public holiday.

Australia and New Zealand are sending military contingents to the King's coronation next year. It is expected that Canada will also be represented. Men who have seen service in South Africa are getting preference in these contingents and the Imperial government is anxious that Hon. Dr. Borden, the Canadian minister of militia, should have picked men in the contingent from the Dominion.

The Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York are due to arrive at London to-day, after an absence of eight months. Preparations for a grand welcome home have been completed.

A London despatch says:—
"The home coming of our future King and Queen, after their visit to the British colonies, will be no half-hearted event. It is desired to make it memorable in historical annals, since it marks the completion of the cementing of the Mother Country and her colonial possessions. There will be a great naval display at Portsmouth, and it will undoubtedly be a magnificent sight to see the great white ship pass through the lines of cruisers, battleships and torpedo destroyers, all manned and armed with their lusty-throated crews. It is expected that the King and Queen, with the little Princess Edward and Albert, will meet the Duke and Duchess at the premier naval port."

The war in South Africa is still dragging on and news in regards the situation has been very scarce the past few weeks. The Boers for their part have prolonged hostilities another stage and succeeded in eluding pursuit without striking a decisive blow in any quarter of gaining any material advantage. The British columns have been trekking over the veldt the past week without making at least one important capture. It is a long and terrible struggle between British grit and Boer obstinacy to wear out the patience and endurance of a superior foe. The British government is being severely criticised in respect to its failure in bringing the war to an end. The war has been a heavy expense to the country and the public sentiment is that the most rigorous measures be used in putting an end to this war.

A Dastardly Act

Some unknown party or parties of Kingsport, performed a dastardly act upon Mr. Roy's barge which has been at that place for the past week. A few nights ago some miscreants boarded the vessel and bored seven or eight holes in her. The vessel sank in time and the next morning all that could be seen of her were the masts and deck house.

We do not know the reason that called for this act but we presume that it was for the fear of the disease being contracted by those who ventured on or near this vessel. There was no fear of contracting the disease from the vessel, as the afflicted man was taken ashore probably before it had developed to the danger stage and as the owner intended to have the vessel thoroughly fumigated so that there would be no danger. The perpetrators if ever caught should be punished to the full extent of the law.

The death of Mrs. Leonard Palmer occurred on the 21st ult. at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. A. Woodworth in Windsor. The deceased was 90 years of age and was a daughter of the late Samuel Hamilton of Grand Pre. The remains were sent to Grand Pre on Thursday of last week for burial, which took place in the Methodist grave yard at Lower Horton.

BULLETIN

"I recently visited the town of Kentville, met the Board of Health, all the medical men of the town, and a number of representative citizens, and after a thorough investigation of the origin of the small pox cases, and the care and management of them, I find the following facts:

There are five places under quarantine which includes all cases and suspected cases.
The quarantine is very rigorously enforced and is full and complete in every respect.

The disinfecting process used is thorough and the best known to modern science.

The disease is under effective control and there is nothing whatever in the conditions with the buildings in which sickness is, or in the condition of the town to cause the slightest fear or danger from infection to persons visiting the town on business or otherwise or to prevent them doing so without perfect safety."

CANNING

Oct. 29th.—Rev. W. N. Hutchins has returned from his trip to the States and gave a patriotic sermon in the Baptist Church on Sunday evening. The discourse was very spirited and interesting. Mr. Hutchins does not agree with those people who consider the time and money recently expended on the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall, wasted. He has an exalted view of royalty and does not look upon the recent honor given as vain display. "Honor the King" is his motto. In honoring our representatives we are honoring and respecting ourselves. We would lose caste with other nations if we failed to show our future King and Queen proper respect.

The discourse aroused all the latest patriotism in the breasts of the listening congregation and at the close "God Save Our King" was sung with heart-felt ardor.

It seems right that we should welcome royally our rulers but there is a danger of going too far in this matter as in many others. It seems sinful to spend so much money on mere pomp and feasting when so many of our people are poor and starving. Is the sincerity of our welcome to be measured by the amount of money spent for the occasion?

The band gave a concert in Old Fellows Hall on Friday evening. A goodly number were present and the band was listened to with the usual interest it receives.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rand of Kentville, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fenwick Rand over Sunday.

The members of the Epworth League gave a very pleasant social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stark last Tuesday evening.

Mr. George Gaetz of Lunenburg Co., is a guest at the Methodist parsonage. The block of Potter Bros., is to be opened on Thursday. The block contains a meat shop, a grocery and a dry goods store. They present a nice appearance and are an addition to Canning.

The much longed for sidewalk in front of their block has made its appearance and is well worth the long delay. It is made of plank but is wide and smooth. We understand that we are to have a continuation of this nice platform along the entire length of the store.

Already some of our merchants are beginning to prepare for their Xmas stock. Mr. Fred Northup expects to have a specially large assortment of fancy wares and Xmas goods this year. Captain Nichols has also ordered a nice supply of fancy goods.

Rev. W. N. Hutchins gave a very interesting account of his trip to the Pan-American Exposition where all America is supposed to take part, at the B. Y. P. U., Monday night. There is a larger attendance than usual at the Union this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Cox have moved into the house which Mr. Cox has recently purchased from Mr. Silas Pattison who now resides at Woodside. The house occupied by Mr. Cox is now rented.

Czolgosz Electrocuted

Leon F. Czolgosz, murderer of President McKinley, was electrocuted last Tuesday morning in the State prison at Auburn, New York, paying the extreme penalty exacted by the law for his crime. He was hanged to death by 1700 volts.

He was placed in the electric chair at 7.12 30 o'clock, showing no signs of fear and talked with those about him until everything was ready. His last words were: "I killed the president because he was an enemy of the good people—the good working people. I am not sorry for my crime." As the pressure on the straps tightened and bound the jaw slightly, he mumbled:

"I'm awfully sorry I could not see my father."

The Divisible Strap.

He got the divisible strap on O. K. It was just exactly 7.11 o'clock when he crossed the threshold. But a minute had elapsed and he just had finished the last statement when the strapping was completed, and the guards stepped back from the man. Warden Mead raised his hand at 7.12 30, Electrician Davis turned the switch that threw 1700 volts of electricity into the living body. The rush of immense current threw the body so hard against the straps that they creaked perceptibly. The hands clinched up suddenly, and the whole attitude was one of extreme tension. For forty-five seconds the full current was kept on, and then slowly the electrician threw the switch back, reducing the current volt by volt for two or three seconds.

The Body, which had collapsed as the current was reduced stiffened up again against the straps. When it was turned off again Dr. McDonald stepped to the chair and put his hand over the heart. He said he felt no pulsation, but suggested that the current be turned on for a few seconds again. Once more the body became rigid. At 7.15 the current was turned off for good.

From the time Czolgosz had left his cell until the full penalty was paid, less than four minutes had elapsed. The physicians present used the stethoscope and other tests to determine if any life remained, and at 7.17 the warden, raising his hand, announced:

"Gentlemen, the prisoner is dead." The witnesses filed from the chamber, many of them visibly affected, and the body which five minutes before had been full of life and vigor, was taken from the chair and laid on the operating table.
