"Royal Household" is in a class by itself.

Flour that gives half nourishment and double work to digest is not good flour.

Cheap and inferior flour gives the digestive organs double work and half pay—inferior flours contain indigestible waste—this waste must first be overcome by nature,—that means extra digestive work.

Indigestibles destroy the nutriment of flour, therefore poor flour gives more work and less nutriment to the system.

Royal Household Flour is in a class by itself—it is the only really pure flour—and it is pure because it is purified and sterilized by electricity.—it is the most easily digested and most nourishing because it is absolutely pure.

The moment a woman puts her hands into "Royal Household" she knows it is a finer flour than she ever used before.

ENGINEERING TRIUMPH

TRANSPORTER BRIDGE OVER THE ENGLISH RIVER MERSEY.

Took Three and a Half Years to Build—Traffic, Both Foot and Wheel, Carried on in a Car Suspended From the Underside of the Bridge—Cost of the Work Was About $600,000—Time in Crossing.

The Runcom-Widnes bridge, which has been building for three and a half years, is now completed, says London Sphere. The bridge is of the "transporter" type and in design is precisely similar to an ordinary stiffened suspension bridge, with the exception that the approaches to the bridge are at a level, thus dispensing with the costly high level approaches, and the traffic, both foot and wheel, is carried on in a car suspended from the underside of the bridge. The bridge crosses the river Mersey and the ship canal between Runcom, on the Cheshire side, and Widnes, on the Lancashire side, by a clear span of a thousand feet, this being by far the greatest span of any bridge in the United Kingdom designed to carry road traffic.

TRANSPORTER BRIDGE AND CAR.

The four towers are constructed wholly of steel, and each consists of four square braced legs, upon the top of which is built a lantern 7 feet 6 inches in diameter and 8 feet high to the eaves, in each of which are placed powerful arc lamps. There are two main cables, each built up of 2,413 steel wires, anchored into the solid rock from these cables are suspended two longitudinal stiffening girders, upon the lower flanges of which runs an electric trolley about 77 feet long, driven by two 35 horsepower motors. From the trolley is suspended the transporter car, 55 feet long and 24 feet wide, capable of carrying at one time four two-horse wagons and 300 people. On the top of the car is fixed the operator's cabin, in which is placed the controller and other apparatus, by means of which the operator has the car quite at command and can go about, reverse or put on the brakes at a moment's notice.

The time occupied in crossing the bridge is about two and a half minutes, so, with loading and unloading, it will be possible to make nine or ten trips per hour. The cost of the work has been about $600,000, which is about one-third the cost of an ordinary high level bridge with costly approaches.

The Boastful Swedes.

It is somewhat surprising to note the tone of disdain that marks the speeches of Swedish politicians and public men in their allusions to Norway and Norway's people. There is a supercilious curve of the upper lip, as though the speakers were representative of the world's culture and brains, while the Norwegians struggled along in the subcellar of medieval ignorance or hopeless stupidity. They thus make themselves absurd in the eyes of the world. For to-day there live in Norway:

Fridtjof Nansen.

Henrik Ibsen.

Bjornstjerne Bjornson.

Edvard Grieg.

These are men of achievement, whose fame has gone around the world, and whose work has influenced the life of two hemispheres. They have done great service in the fields of science, art and letters.

Sweden cannot point to a single contemporary within her borders who can match any one of them.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

When We Were Seven.

Judge Grosscup of Chicago said at dinner:

"As the world matures, it improves, just as we improve as we mature."

"A man of mature mind is an improvement on a child. He is in every way better. He is more generous, more kind."

"I have no sympathy with those who laud childhood and the virtues of children. I hold that children are only a little removed from savages, and, when I hear them lauded, I think of a boy I used to know."

"This boy's brother lay ill with a fever, a bad fever, so that it was feared he might succumb."

"To the well youngster the nurse said one morning:

"What will you do if your brother dies?"

"The child answered calmly:

"I'll have his Noah's ark, won't I?"

A Marshal's Advice.

Many queer blunders are attributed to Marshal MacMahon of France. It is related of him that once, when he visited the military school of St. Cyr, he encountered a negro cadet. The color of his skin at once attracted the worthy marshal, who said, with some surprise:

"Vous  tes n gre, n'est-ce pas?" "Oui, M. le Mar chal." "Ah, tres bien; continuez de l' tre." This might be rendered: "Ah, I see you are a negro." "Yes, M. le Mar chal." Here the marshal paused. Not knowing what to say, he added: "Ah, that is well; continue to be so."

Pandora Savings

Because the Pandora range utilizes all the heat in the fuel it does the work quicker and better. If a range sends half its heat up the chimney it must burn more fuel to do a given work. It takes longer to burn a large piece of wood or chunk of coal than a small one, also it takes a longer purse to pay for the large stick of wood or big chunk of coal.

The quicker you can get the necessary units of heat to boil the kettle or cook the roast, the quicker your work is done and the less it costs to do it.

Because of the scientific construction of the Pandora range it gets more units of heat from a given quantity of fuel than any other range. It keeps all the heat in the range where the work is to be done.

For these reasons the Pandora range lightens the labor of cooking—eases the drudgery of kitchen work; it helps to make life easier; it gives more leisure because it saves time; it saves worry because it is absolutely reliable, and thus it saves the nerves; it saves the muscles because it is so easy to handle; it requires less attention than any other range; it does its work uniformly; it is an A 1 range in every particular; it is an economical and a handsome range.

It makes Kitchen work easy.
