The pure, the bright, the beautiful.
That surred our hearts in youth.
The impulse to wordless prayer,
The streams of love and justs.
The spurit's yearning cry,
The stream of the stream

The se things can never die.

The timid hand stretched forth to âid A brother in his need,
A kindly word in grief's dark hour
That proves a friend indeed;
The yles for mercy, softly breath d,
When justics threatens high,
The sorrow of a contrite hear:
— Theer things shall never die.

The cruel and bitter word
That wounded as it fell;
The chilling want of sympathy
We feel, but never tell;
The hard repulse that chills the heart
Whose hopes were bounding high,
In an unfading record kept—
These things shall never die.

These things shall never die.
Let nothing pass, for every hand
Must find some work to do;
Lose not a chance to waken love—
Be firm, and just, and true;
So shall a light that cannot fade,
Beam on thee from on high,
And angel yoices say to thee—
These thingssehall never die.

The oval canceleries, in high colors and enclosed in a border of flowers, represents "A Dream of Sammer" and is supported on either side by an admirably executed figure piece in delicate tints. The whole is a lightini sentiment and in general effect. Large or the many of the Companion, it is equally acceptable as a work of sr. As an ornament to thome it will take a prespinent place.

A Gifted Young Lady.

The following paragraph has reference to Miss Mabel Dixon, a daughter of Rev. R. F. Dixon, of Wolfville, late of Bed-ford and well known in Halifax:

ford and well known in Halifax:

A large and representative andience assembled in the opera house, last even ing, to greet the gifted young elocutionist, Miss Mabel Dixon, on the occasion of her debut in the west as a reader. The young lady at once won the hearts of her audience by her greceful, piquant and charming presence, and her flust number showed her to be possessed of those qualities that go to make a successful interpreter. The heautiful selections from Eugene Field were rendered in a most expressive style, and in "Rizpah" Mollie—Do you know, papa can't keep his feet still when he hears music. from Eugene Field were rendered in a most expressive style, and in "Rizpah" che evinced fine dramatic power. The cocasion was very pleasing to the audience and must have been gratifying to the young, lady herself in the town where her childhood's days were spent.— "Yes, he always buys his game in the where her childhood's days were spent.— "Yes, he always buys his game in the market house. Dead game is his specialty."

Mrs Hatch. Mother's Meetings of the lady until I get outside.

"You referred to your friend as a dead game in the where her childhood's days were spent.— "Yes, he always buys his game in the market house. Dead game is his specialty."
