

World Traveler Gives Tanlac High Praise

"Tanlac has restored me to such excellent health that I can recommend it most sincerely. It brought me complete relief after I had been in the hospital two months with neuritis, and built me up in a short time from a dreadfully run-down condition."

This emphatic statement was made by Mrs. Vivian Angelo Short, highly esteemed resident of 2139, 34th Ave., Calgary. Mrs. Short is a woman of exceptional education and refinement. She has traveled extensively, having been practically all over the world. She lived in London and Paris several years and has visited Smyrna, recently burned in the Turko-Grecian conflict, and Constantinople.

"About a year ago," said Mrs. Short, "I was attacked by neuritis. It caused terrific pain in my knees, ankles, arms and shoulders. The soreness and stiffness were exceptionally severe, and often my ankles and joints would be painfully swollen. I could not walk, every attempt causing me perfect agony and I was unable to rest day or night."

"On the urgent advice of a nurse I began taking Tanlac. Within two weeks I was so much improved I was able to walk about the house. I took four bottles, and at present I am totally free from any trace of my old malady. I will always feel that I am deeply indebted to Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

Department of Bee Husbandry

University of Saskatchewan Has New Course This Year

When the University of Saskatchewan opened its doors for the fall term it had a new department, a course in bee industry, optional with students taking the agrarian lectures. The novel feature is that this department is presided over by a woman, Miss J. H. Bayford, who has raised bees for fifty years. In 1921, she gathered 920 pounds of honey on her farm at Wawota, Sask., which she marketed at 70 cents a pound and the agricultural college decided to enlist her services when the new course was established.

Cheerful Yet Classical

"Cheerio" which has come into our catalogue of salutations mainly by way of the citizen army which came into existence during the great war, is a case of history repeating itself, being the old Greek salutation, "Be joyful" over again. Romans wished each "Good health," and the Greeks "Good spirits" in meeting and parting. We use both classical forms, and one of our own, "Good luck."—Montreal Gazette.

Would See If They Had It

The two ladies were very hot and tired as they seated themselves at the restaurant table and to the waiter who bustled up and asked for their order one said as she fanned herself: "Oh, just give us a little respite, please." The waiter looked puzzled. "Ah ain't shuah we got got any today, lady," he said after a moment, "but Ah'll ask de cook. An' will you have Tea with it or coffee?"

Britain Recapturing Trade

Will Soon Regain Pre-War Business With Foreign Countries

Trade's diversities were suggested by two of Canada's trade commissioners who met from widely different fields in Winnipeg. Dr. J. W. Ross, Canada "ambassador" of trade to China, was at the Royal Alexandra Hotel on his way back to his post at Shanghai, which he describes as the commercial metropolis of China, and Major G. B. Johnson, Canada's trade commissioner to Scotland, accidentally met him while on his way west, inquiring into industrial affairs in this country before returning to his post at Glasgow.

Dr. Ross thinks it somewhat of a pity that Canada is not more enlightened in its appreciation of the tremendous commercial development which is transforming China into a highly productive and of a quickly changing nation capable of tremendous absorption of foreign imports. Major Johnson sees a slow, but sure, return being made by Great Britain to its former supremacy, if not to its former volume of trade in the many foreign fields it has had to recapture and rebuild since the great war. And as its internal adjustment of such vital matters as labor and unemployment are being accomplished, the ability to produce exports for foreign markets yields the proceeds from which to revive trade, thus promising a return, in time, to the demand for Canadian products which prevailed under pre-war conditions.

World's Huge Gold Production

Over Eight Hundred Million Fine Ounces in 430 Years

Eight hundred and seventy-five million fine ounces of gold, valued at $18,000,000,000 have been produced by the world since Columbus discovered America. About $8,000,000,000 are in circulation as money or in the banks and public treasuries of the world—$2,000,000,000 in the United States treasury. The other $10,000,000,000 worth of gold has been used up in the industrial arts or has disappeared in the 430 years since the keeping of accurate gold statistics began.

Vancouver Grain Market

The development of grain trade from the Canadian prairies to the Orient and to Europe by the Panama Canal through the port of Vancouver has reached the point where it is proposed by the city to spend $500,000 toward the cost of another grain elevator. The capacity of the proposed elevator will be 750,000 bushels, and it is to be financed partly by the city and partly by private capital.

BEECHAM'S PILLS Sweeten the Stomach

Geography In Names

Many Every-Day Articles Take Name From Towns

Many things we use every day are named after the towns from which they originally came.

For instance, probably you have a pair of worsted socks, which were once made at Worstead, but which nowadays come principally from Huddersfield, England; or a Panama hat, which comes from Ecuador instead of the place from which it took its name. Cambric handkerchiefs are so-called from the town of Cambrai, in France. Tweed suits, Inverness capes, and Leghorn hats are examples of the same thing. The connection between damsons and Damascus is not so obvious, but damson is really only a contraction for Damascene plum. Cut-rants get their name from the fact that originally they were made from small grapes, which still grow near Corinth, in Greece; they were formerly called Corinthians.

Cherries came from the city of Cerasus, which once stood in Asia Minor, while chestnuts preserve the name of Castana, another city of the past.

The names of two cheeses, Cheddar and Silton, come from two villages, one in Somerset and the other in Huntingdonshire, England. Worcester, Dresden and Severs have all given names to different kinds of china, and Delft, a small Dutch town, is remembered by Delft pottery.

Not the Same William

A lady engaged a new gardener, and after breakfast one day she sauntered out among the flowers. Seeing the new man hard at work, she said: "Well, and how is my Sweet William this morning?"

"First rate, thanks, ma'am," replied the man of the spade. "But how did you know my name."

The Value of Reforestation

Proprietor of Estate in Scotland Received $180,000 for Standing Timber.

The great value of the systematic planting of young trees was fully demonstrated in Scotland during the late war, when thousands of acres of magnificent Scotch pines were available for the construction of railway ties and other military works in France and Belgium. Most of these trees were cut down and sawn up by Canadians. Whole acres of standing timber were of necessity commandeered by the Government, and the proprietors were paid good sums for the product. In one instance an area in the Highlands had been denuded of its trees to furnish material during the Napoleonic wars, only a tree being left here and there for self-seeding purposes. The result was that this forest, the forest of Glenmore, sprang up again more vigorous than ever, and was again cut down for the Great War, almost exactly a hundred years after its demolition, the proprietor receiving for the timber about $180,000.

Profiteering In Japan

Officials Say Noodle Sellers Must Reduce Their Prices

The man who sells noodles on the streets of Tokyo and who incidentally plays on a horn the original "Japanese sandman" while doing it, will soon have to find a different vocation if the present plans of the municipal authorities here are carried out.

The League of Noodle Shopkeepers has been accused of heartless profiteering. The league is made up of men who pull about the streets little covered steam table wagons with oil lamps pitched high on one end and who at all hours of the night blow familiar calls on their stubby, flute-like horns.

The noodle shopkeepers have been selling noodles for ten cents, which leaves them a profit of 4.4 cents, the officials say. In future they must charge only eight cents or get off the streets.

Few Horses In Cities

Of the 100,000,000 horses and mules estimated to be in the world today, the United States possesses between 26,000,000 and 27,000,000 head, of which 19,000,000 horses and 5,000,000 mules are on farms, and a little more than 2,000,000 are in cities.

World's Greatest Railway Depot

"Liverpool Street," London, England, Handles 76,000,000 Passengers a Year

Seventy-six million passengers, out and in, pass through Liverpool Street Station every year—that makes it easily the greatest station in the world, and the further it went into figures with which the Great Eastern statisticians presented me, the more tremendous Liverpool Street Station grew.

It is one of the most dazzling experiences in all London to stand on those great foot bridges, and watch the people pouring off and on the platforms.

Why do I not know—whether it is because of the London tradition of hurry and because Liverpool Street is, more than any, the city's own station—but all its passengers walk in and out at top speed, so that the hood, at its morning and evening fullness, produces an actual effect of blindness if you stare at it long enough.

Apart from clerks in the huge offices which, with their corridors enough for cycle races, remind one of the new County Hall, 873 of the company's staff are required to manage the station.

There are no fewer than 511 men on the platform and station staff, 331 handling parcels and 31 booking clerks!

For instance, the record figures were, on that day in 1920, when there were 52,070 passengers and £19,495 was taken in fares.

It is heavy going at Liverpool Street Station on all other days, except, perhaps, Sundays. The station covers 16 acres and has 20 roads at its 18 platforms. One of the platforms is 996 feet long, and to deal with the 1,264 trains that are dealt with each day, there are two great signal boxes—the west with 24 levers, and east with 136—and these are magic boxes.

Yet Station Superintendent Joslin, a jolly man, with that same air of solidity which I had noted in the signalmen—nervous railwaymen would be a public peril—was going about as calmly as if twenty trains an hour, each capable of carrying a thousand people, was rather an idle achievement.

This, too, considering that he and his men have, after that only a mere 16 other roads to handle.

In came engine after engine hustling its train, uncoupling its train, while another engine joined up to the other end; puffing out into the "dock," then puffing back when another train had come in, and hustling off with that.

We hear a lot of American railways, but American experts who stand where I stood exclaim: "Well, that's taught us something!"

"And passengers do ask the most extraordinary questions," he said, "and make the most extraordinary requests. They want you to do everything from telling them what trains they can catch from Wigan to Pudsey to minding the perambulator and the baby."

"There was one elderly woman who took a ticket to Globe Road, two miles away, and when she had got in a non-stop train to North Walsham, and arrived there, 110 miles away, said: 'I haven't noticed we've come to my station yet!'"—"W.M.," in the London Evening News.

New Industry For Belgian Colonies

Demand For Monkey Glands Booms Chimpanzee Trade

Chimpanzee raising has become a new and unexpected profitable industry in the Belgian colonies of Africa, where several farms are being prepared upon which to breed them on a large scale for the purpose of securing their glands for grafting.

The price of the chimpanzee has multiplied ten-fold and more within the past few weeks. Poor specimens sell readily for 3,000 francs. Two weeks ago they brought only from 250 to 300 francs.

Big Output of Gold

In a report after a survey of the mines of Northern Ontario, Mr. John McLeish, Director of the Mines Branch of the Dominion Government, states that the production of gold this year will reach at least $20,000,000. Next year he was of the opinion that the output would be even greater. The production in 1921 amounted to $16,000,000.

Japanese Using Chairs

The age-old custom of the Japanese of sitting down on their folded legs on a cushion or mattress is going out of fashion. All the schools are using chairs and benches of the western style. Public gathering places now have benches, even the Buddhist temples, and in many families chairs and tables are in regular use.

Memorial to British Sailors

An Engineering Wonder

Tower Which Spreads Concrete Over Ten Acres

The Inslay Concrete Chuting Tower in the grounds of the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley raises concrete by means of a lift and distributes it over ground anywhere within a radius of about 450 feet—over ten acres.

Concrete is hoisted up the framework of the tower, which is 160 feet high, and thrown into position without handling. The distance which it is thrown can be altered according to requirements.

In this way hundreds of tons of concrete can be laid daily.

Hoactzin A Remarkable Bird

Claws Disappear When Wings Grow Strong Enough for Support

The Hoactzin of British Guinea is one of the most remarkable birds in the world. Almost as soon as it is hatched the young hoactzin crawls out of the nest by using its wings as forefeet. The "thumb" and "forefinger" of the wings have claws with which the young bird climbs about the branches. As soon as the wings grow strong enough to support the bird in the air the claws disappear.

Considerable success has been achieved in Alberta with longanberries and some excellent plums and crab apples grown in sections of the province.

Kaiser's Memoirs Inaccurate

Sir Valentine Chirol, once Berlin correspondent of the London Times, finds the Kaiser's memoirs full of inaccuracies. He says they seem to bear out the somewhat bitter words which the Empress Frederick had once the occasion to use in speaking of her son: "The trouble with Willy has always been that he could never tell the truth, even to himself."

A WOMAN'S WORK IS NEVER DONE

It Seems So in Many Cases and Good Health is Always Necessary

Viscount, Saskatchewan—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weakness of the female organs. I had pains in the back and bearing-down pains in the abdomen and was in a general run-down condition. I could not sleep, rest or work and was quite unfit to do even slight household tasks. A friend told me about your Vegetable Compound and I in my turn truly recommended it, as my severe symptoms vanished and I am better in every way. I do my own work, look after my children and see to chickens, cow and my garden. I also recommend it for young girls who are weak and run down, as my 16-year-old daughter has taken it and is quite her own gay self again."—Mrs. FRED. WILEY, Viscount, Saskatchewan.
