MILL BURNED—Geo. W. Towse's saw mill on the road leading to Cook.

Saw mill on the road leading to Cook.

Just how the fire originated is a mystery as the men had not been about the premises for 10 days. It is supposed that members of some shooting party dropped a match in the dry wood in the building or some one raised the gate and when the rains came the water started the machifiery and the fire canght from iffiction. There were $1,000 insurance on the property; $400 on the mill and $600 on the machinery.

es that recalled Joseph to his recollecior which were made of spiritual application, Mr. Herdman said somewhat as follows: "In conclusion, my beloved brethern, on this to me the night of nights, the eve of my departure from a sympathetic people not disposed to be hyper-critical. This has been my first hyper-critical. This has been my first charge, and therefore I feel-the parting from you the more. We may meet again on earth, if not, beyond where partings give place to reunions. I have sought, however feebly accompolished, to set before you Christ and Him cracined, a theme, taken in its bearings, of wide application. I bear no grudge against one. I cherish the kindliest feelings towards all in the community. And you, if you use my suc liest feelings towards all in the community. And you, if you use my successor as well as you have done me, they at least will have no reason to complain. One soweth and another reapeth my prayer is that you may Grow. Mr. Herdman was somewhat overcome during the conclusion of his discourse, and several of the congregation showed feeling. At the close of the service nearly all present shook hands with him. Mr. Herdman has left this weck en route for Scotland to pursue his studies in the metropolis. Both diets of worship were largely attended on Sabbath notwithstanding the inclement weather. In the evening the church was filled.
