Advices from West Africa, dated January 14, state that the King of Kinjaboo had assembled troops to resist the Anglo-French commission for marking boundaries. The English commissioner had sent for assistance, and French men-of-war were landing troops at Assinee. Lieut, Thompson, the special commissioner, had been surrounded. Serious riots had occurred at Accra and Quetta, and had been attended with considerable loss of life. Smallpox is raging at Coomassie.

The disaster to Gen. Baker has been followed by another defeat, Tewfik Bey and four hundred men having been surrounded ing to fight their way from Sinkat to the coast. The force which defeated Baker's army was far inferior numerically, but the Egyptians were panic-stricken and made no attempt to fight, throwing down their arms and making piteous appeals for mercy. A number of European officers are reported killed or missing.

Sinkat Taken by the Rebels, Suakim despatch says for a fortnight the heroic garrison at Sinkat had been eating roots and tree leaves. It was an enfeebled band which sortied to e amidst the rebel hordes. Tewfik Bey harangued his men, saying that by fighting they might save themselves, but by remaining they must die from hunger in a few days. Flight was impossible. The men, animated with Tewfik's spirit, destroyed the military stores, exploded the magazines, filled their pouches to the utmest with cartridges, and issued forth six hundred strong. Osman Digna's men rushed to the attack. Tewfik Bey and his men fought nobly. For a long time they repulsed every attempt to break their ranks. Finally superior numbers prevailed, and with a tremendous rush the rebels burst through one of the sides of the Egyptian square. A general massacre ensued, and not a soul escaped, according to the latest reports, only four sick men who were unable to take part in the sortie. Healy, member for Monaghan, publishes a pamphlet entitled "Loyalty plus murder," containing extracts from vituoerative Orange speeches, and articles and descriptions of scenes of violence in Ulster in which Orangemen participated. In the introduction Healy attacks Earl Spencer, the Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland. The pamphlet is issued in orange-coloured covers.

A Newcastle-on-Tyne despatch says:-Michael Davitt is lecturing here on Irish Problem and its Solution." The lecturer was received with persistent howling and was received with was made for the platform. Thirty policemen interposed. Davitt drew a revolver, which he held in his hand for some minutes. He summoned the occupants of the gallery to eject the disturbers from the hall. They did so being assisted by the police. There was some fighting while the disturbers were being ejected, and several persons were severely wounded.

A Matamoras despatch says that the Indians at Omitlan have risen against the whites. Seven of the principal merchants have been killed and their bodies kicked about the streets by the mob. Many buildings have been burned.

Arkansas Assassins, Hor Springs, Ark., Feb. 9 .- While three brothers, Frank, Jack, and William Flinu, were proceeding home in a hack this mornng seven men armed with double-barrelled hot guns and Winchesters stepped out of a saloon and opened fire. The Flinns were med, but the attack was unexpected. Jack Flinn was shot through the forehead and died in a few minutes. Wm. Flinn was shot n a few minutes. Wm. flinn was shot the vehicles followed each other too closely, through the breast, probably fatally. Frank and the ice gave way, enguiring the whole Flinn was shot through the hand. Frank Hall, the driver of the hack, was shot through the neck and died. Robert Hargreave, a by-stander, was shot through the breast and will probably die. J. H. Craig a prominent lum-erman, received a charge of buckshot through his back : his condition is precarious. The difficulty originated in an attempt of Frank Flinn to prevent Doran from opening a gambling-house. At the time Doran tried to assassinate Flinn, and fled the city. He returned a few nights ago, but Flinn was una ware of his presence till the volley was fired. Intense excitement prevail, and strong threats are made of mobbing the prisoners, seven of whom are now in gaol, S. A. Doran, two Pruitt brothers, Howell, and three others. Judge Wood has been telegraphed to by leading citizens to come here and hold a special session of the court to try the murierers. If he consents, the law will probably be allowed to take its course.
