

THE NEW Buffalo Incubators

Combine Low Cost with Quality

IN designing the new Buffalo Incubators every factor known to successful artificial incubation has been taken advantage of to secure as many chicks as it is possible to coax from the shell, fully appreciating the fact that, as compared with results obtainable by the use of other incubators, the last five, ten or fifteen per cent. of chicks that are hatched in our incubators is clear profit. Hatching with an incubator is, however, no longer merely a question of "how many" chicks, but also of "how good." The New Buffalo, by conserving the contents of the egg, is certain to hatch a chick or duckling from practically every well-fertilized egg, and these chicks or ducklings will come out of the shell large, strong and vigorous. They are the kind that live, thrive and grow rapidly to a profitable maturity.

Concert at Job's Cove.

A concert was held at this place on Friday, April 22nd, under the auspices of St. Patrick's Club. The troupe was composed of local artists, and Job's Cove is fortunate in having such a talented company. The audience was the largest ever seen here, the spacious school being filled to its utmost capacity. At 8.45 Mr. R. English announced the opening chorus, "The Bells of Shandon." The musical part of the programme was well selected and admirably rendered. Misses Nellie and Frances Kinsella sang a duet, "Schoolhouse on the Hill." Each of these young ladies is the possessor of a full rich voice. Their singing was one of the most popular items in the evening's entertainment. Messrs Power and Kelly did well with "My Little Irish Rose." Rev. J. Lynch was warmly applauded in "The Sword of Bunker Hill." Messrs. P. and J. Murphy sang well, and in the comic songs elicited much applause. Miss Clara Kelly and Master T. Power sang "My Old Kentucky Home," accompanied by Mr. P. Murphy on the zither. The quartette, "When it's Moonlight, Mary Darling," by Misses M. Bates, C. Kelly and Messrs. P. and J. Murphy was excellent. Other songs by the entire troupe were decidedly a success. In the dialogues and farces the parts were well sustained by Misses M. English, E. Colbert and M. Bates,

NATURE'S REMEDY

Dr. Bovel's Herb and Gum Salve is Nature's ideal skin cure and healer. It is free from the objectionable features of ordinary salves, ointments and embrocations. To produce it, medicinal plants and herbs were taken, and from them were extracted gums and juices possessing considerable healing and curative powers. Careful experiments at last secured the right blending of these juices, and to the first product, a preparation virtually capable of growing new and healthy skin, the name of Dr. Bovel's Herb and Gum Salve was given.

It is a remedy for Eczema, and Salt Rheum, Pimples and Blackheads, Old Sores and Bed-sores, Chilblains and Frost Bites, Itching, Ingrowing Toe Nails, etc.

while stage adjustments should be more easily acquired.

Perhaps the greatest success of the evening was the step dancing of Miss May Bates. Miss Bates has all the attributes necessary for stage success; her dancing, singing and acting are of a superior quality. With Mr. P. Murphy, too, we were well pleased. His song, "I love a lassie," rendered in Highland kilt, made a good hit. He gave as an encore "Loch Lomond." The recitations by Messrs. B. Colbert and L. English pleased the audience. "Kate's Birthday Gift," a one-act drama, was a fitting climax to an interesting programme. Miss Bates starred in the role of "Kate." Her song "Love me and the world is mine" was much appreciated. Mr. P. Murphy as "George Dane" sang the "Heart Bowed Down." Mr. L. English was "Jack" to perfection.

After the concert a dance was held. The music was rendered by Messrs. J. English and A. Oliver. The proceeds of the entertainment go to the building fund of the new hall now in course of erection by the members of St. Patrick's Club.

Welcomes Peary and Bartlett.

Special to Evening Telegram.
LONDON, May 3.

London is making much of Commander Peary. The interest in his visit is not confined to scientific circles, but is very general. The Royal Geographical Society, entertained him at luncheon at their club house today. Peary's arrival there was awaited by a great crowd that literally filled the streets, and as he passed he was accorded a very hearty reception. Entering the club house he was received with a noisy demonstration of welcome by the distinguished party of scientists and explorers. When a few moments later Captain Robert Bartlett, the Commander of Peary's steamer Roosevelt arrived, the cheering was renewed.

Lord Halsbury, President of the Club, presided, with Commander Peary seated at his right. Captain Percy Scott, the leader of the British Antarctic expedition was at the head of the lower table, with Captain Bartlett occupying the seat of honour. Sir George Nares, one of the oldest surviving Arctic explorers, was among the notable guests, others being Lord Strathcona, Lord Roberts, Sir George Reid, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, Sir Hiram Maxim, Dr. Scott Heltie, Secretary of the Royal Geographical Society and many explorers and naval officers. The United States Embassy was represented by Secretary William Phillips, and Commander Edward Simpson. Toasts to King Edward, President Taft and Commander Peary, were drunk.

The British newspapers treat the visit of Commander Peary as one of the leading events of the day, and extended to him an enthusiastic welcome. Lengthy articles, editorials and interviews are printed by them, recalling his successful expedition and expressing keen pleasure that the British people can meet him in London.

Attack on Prince Buelow.

Special to Evening Telegram.
LONDON, May 3.

A remarkable attack on Prince Von Buelow, the former Imperial Chancellor to the German Empire, in connection with the memorable interview with Emperor William, published in October, 1907, by the London Daily Telegraph, is contained in a lengthy volume which is about to be issued by the ex-Government Councillor, Rudolf Martin. The Chancellor is accused of treason towards the Emperor.

The book asserts that the interview never occurred, and that the table talk, the gist of which the Premier communicated to Prince Von Buelow, was put into the form of an interview by the German Foreign Office, reaching the Telegraph from the hands of a journalist. Herr Martin gives the names of prominent personages to support his assertions, one of the chief of whom is the former Councillor of the German Embassy in London. Both he and Herr Martin have left the Government service.

Resignation Disrespectful.

Special to Evening Telegram.
LIMA, Peru, May 3.

The note of resignation, which the Minister to the Argentine Republic, Derival Arguco, presented to the Government, has been returned to him by the Council, because of its alleged disrespectful terms. In resigning, the Minister said that the direction of Foreign Affairs in Peru has been characterized by many mistakes during the past thirteen months.

Monkeying With Elections.

Special to Evening Telegram.
HAWANA, May 3.

The House of Representatives today passed a bill postponing the Municipal election from July to December, when they will be held concurrently with the Congressional Elections. A bill also was passed denying recognition to political parties based on radical lines. President Gomez signed both bills. The postponement of the Municipal Elections is of importance as it indicates the extreme reluctance of the Government to hold elections under existing political conditions.

Sir C. Furness Unseated.

Editor Evening Telegram.
LONDON, May 3.

Sir Christopher Furness who, as a Liberal, has been representing the constituency of Hartlepool since 1900, was today unseated by the court and his recent election declared void, on the ground that he had illegally employed demonstrators and made improper payments through agents. The Court emphasized that Sir Christopher was not personally guilty of any corrupt or illegal practice, but he must suffer for the acts of his agents.
