AN ECONOMICAL LUNCH

Take a few Oxo Cubes and save the expense of lunching out. A cup of Oxo and a few biscuits, or a sandwich, make a light inexpensive meal which will keep you satisfied and clear-headed until your next repast.

A cup of Oxo is always good. It can be made with an Oxo Cube and hot water with very little trouble. When you reach home after a hard day at the office, a cup of hot Oxo will do you ever so much good, and lessen the risk of a chill.

An Oxo Cube in a glass of hot milk makes a pleasant change.

TURKISH TRENCHES CAPTURED.

LONDON, Jan. 26. Eleven hundred yards of the Turkish first line of trenches, southwest of Kut-el-Amara and portions of the Turkish second line of trenches in Mesopotamia, have been captured by British forces after heavy fighting in which the Turks suffered heavy losses, according to a British official issued to-night. The communication says, by a determined assault on Friday morning under cover of an intense bombardment we consolidated 1,000 yards of enemy first line trenches on the right bank of the Tigris, southwest of Kut-el-Amara and a considerable length of the second line sustaining only slight losses. Turkish forces west of the Hai River thereupon delivered four counter-attacks, the first and third being broken up by our artillery and machine gun fire. The second and fourth attacks gained momentary success, but our troops returning to the offensive regained much of the ground from which they had been temporarily dislodged. Throughout the day the Turkish losses were extremely heavy. Seventy prisoners were taken.

The enemy suffered many casualties, and a number of his dugouts were bombed and destroyed. We captured 18 prisoners. We entered enemy trenches northeast of Vermilles early this morning and again took several prisoners. We bombarded enemy positions north of the Somme during the day with good results. Elsewhere artillery activity was normal. Yesterday our airplanes successfully bombed a number of places behind the enemy's lines. There were many air fights, in the course of which five
