"Prevention Is Better Than Cure!"

We are asked by the Board of Health to observe the rules now enforced to prevent the spreading of Influenza now raging in our midst. It is there fore the duty of every good citizen to follow as closely as possible the health rules laid down for his or her benefit. One of the most important rules essential to good health is "Keep the Feet Dry." Wet feet are often the cause of a break down in health. Dry feet day by day keeps the Doctor away therefore guard your health by wearing the best rubber footwear, the kind we sell "They Keep Your Feet Dry."

When Mr. Coaker first sprung into prominence, through the columns of the Fishermen's Advocate, then a weekly paper which he controlled with a rod of iron, he laid bare before his followers and the public generally. an outline of the many reforms which he considered necessary for the emancipation of the toilers. He pointed out to his followers that only through their following his leadership could they improve their conditions in life. By giving him their hard earned savings and their moral support only could they expect to raise themselves above the level of being mere "hewers of wood and drawers of water." Mr. Coaker was to teach the fishermen, laborer and farmer how to smash the greedy capitalist. He was to show them how to frame laws which were to bring the wealth of the country into a newer and saner distribution. He so that he will determine to run pointed out the folly of old ideas and infolded his "New Gospel" which he claimed he was sent from Heaven to spiked club ever reaching to swat him preach to the poor oppressed under- on the dome; from Belgium we must Co-operation was to be the means of turning this country into a veritable ome the real business men of the land with Mr. Coaker as their uncrowned King.
