Up to the Measure.

For some time past, perhaps no man in this country has been subjected to more abuse by the Opposition organs than Michael P. Cashin, Premier of Newfoundland. The stereotyped attacks of those individuals are but the discharge of the pus of a festering grudge, because he has been successful through life as a citizen, a fisherman, a business man and a politician. Let us now take a brief sketch of the life of our present Premier. He was born and bred amongst fishermen, as his father was before him, and he never assumed to be anything else, as he has always associated and worked with them from his earliest years. He has sprung from a family whose name for hospitality has, for three quarters of a century, been a household word, and few there are in this country who have not heard of the whole-hearted welcome which the poor, needy and the wayfarer have received from the Cashins of Cape Broyle—where the gate was always open to the stranger. The Opposition press would have it appear that they are solicitous for the welfare of the fishermen, and that their whole object in life is to protect their interests and encourage them in their noble avocation, asserting, and with truth, that no person is so qualified to legislate for the benefit of our fishermen as the man who has a practical knowledge of his calling—and surely no man has more so than Michael P. Cashin, himself. Through life he is in entire sympathy with the fishermen in whatever line of duty he is working. He understands the problems of the fishermen, because he worked himself as such. He has no desire to treat others unfairly, and so is held in the highest respect by fishermen generally as their well-wisher and friend. When he speaks in the House of Assembly in the interests of the fishermen, he is well equipped by facts to prove his assertions from practical experience. Mr. Cashin is a blunt man, very warm-hearted and munificent, extremely undemonstrative and never speaks unnecessarily in the Assembly, but when he does speak, talkative to some purpose, full of common sense and large experience; a clean living man and a friend of all who need assistance. His speeches reveal the man. There is logic in the thought—majesty in the ideas, beauty and grace in the diction. He is possessed of an unblemished character and a disinterested love of country. His keen judgment and foresight, coupled with his inherent tact, has been of much value to his party in former Governments, and his services have been much appreciated by the general public. There is no amount of praise which we could put forth that would equal that of his present opponents of the press, provided he gave their masters leading and remunerative positions in the Government of which he is the head, and granted the newspapers which to-day so unfairly and maliciously abuse him, patronage to a sufficient amount of Government printing. We should no longer hear of his faults, which would be counter-balanced one hundredfold by his honesty, patriotism and manhood. M. P. Cashin has been successful in whatever sphere of life he has entered, either in the fishing boat, on the fishing stage, as a commercial man or a member of the House of Assembly. The best proof of success is the fact that he has succeeded. From the fishing boat to Prime Minister requires more than ordinary ability, and this ability has been fully recognized and publicly expressed in the past even by those who so maliciously and unjustly abuse him at the present day, and who will recognize his ability again if it should be in their interest to do so. Even his greatest political enemy, (for he has none in private life), dare not accuse him of anything that is not manly and above board. It may be that upon certain occasions he has to strike quickly in the various changes in the political life of this country, but he would be very dense and careless indeed if he did not, knowing well that the "other fellow" was watching with eagle eyes to take advantage of his indifference. But as a general rule through life, he believes, as far as possible, that there is a straight line in politics as well as in geometry, and has lived up to that standard socially, morally and in every other way. The day for mud-throwing and coarse vituperation has passed in this country to be effective, and no longer will the people be cajoled and tricked either by the plausible platitudes or the unwholesome and disgusting abuse of a section of the press, whose object is discerned by a discriminating public, who are well aware that they are actuated by a policy of smash and ruin, so long as they attain power and accomplish their ends. Until the present heterogeneous conglomeration of irreconcilables and misfits can produce a more accomplished and experienced leader and lieutenants than those already out for inspection, it is not likely that the intelligent people of this country will take their spasmodic outbursts seriously, but, with a wave of the hand, consign them to that political obscurity in which nature, lack of ability and inexperience have intended them to hide their heads. Up to the present the political abortion has neither a local habitation nor a name. It is a real rag-baby in to which a few political aspirants are

Big Drug Firm
Wins Agency for Famous Tanlac.

M. Connors Will Have Exclusive Control in St. John's and Throughout Newfoundland.

"The retail Tanlac agency for St. John's has been awarded to M. Connors, also the wholesale distributing agency for Newfoundland," was the statement made by the Tanlac Representative when seen yesterday.

"In awarding exclusive control to this well-known firm," he said, "I am only carrying out our established custom of confining the sale to but one or two thoroughly responsible and centrally located firms in each city where Tanlac is placed on sale in this connection. I will say that no matter where you go, in the United States or Canada, you will find the Tanlac stores to be the leading and most reputable drug-gists in the town."

"Just such firms as this," he continued, "are always anxious and willing to co-operate in promoting the sale of Tanlac, not only because of its superior merit, but because of the prominence and valuable publicity they receive from its sale as well."

"This firm has given their initial order for an entire carload of Tanlac (12,720 bottles), and a large shipment will be delivered and ready to be placed on sale to-day."

"This is without doubt the largest order ever given in St. John's for a single medicine, but having heard sold and distributed 125,000 bottles of Tanlac; Memphis, Tenn., dealers and jobbers, have sold and distributed over 432,708 bottles; in Seattle, Wash., over 80,000 bottles have been sold in five months; Denver dealers have sold 75,648 bottles in eight months; Dallas, Texas, dealers over 242,330 bottles in two years; Houston, Texas, 215,268 bottles, and Fort Worth, Texas, dealers have sold 122,204 bottles in less than a year."

"A little over two years ago Tanlac was placed on sale in Vancouver and Victoria, B.C., and to date, over 40,000 bottles of the medicine have been sold."

"While these figures may appear exaggerated and beyond all reason, the fact remains that they are absolutely true and correct and open to investigation. We challenge anyone, whether individual, dealer or competitor, to show where we have made the slightest discrepancy. And anyone doubting these statements is at liberty to write to any or all of our agents in these cities and they will gladly substantiate the above figures."
