PAID SUPREME SACRIFICE

Mr. C. N. Pearson, of Brownsville, whose son, Erwin, was reported killed in a battle a few days ago, has received the following letter written by his chum describing the sad event.

Somewhere in France, June 2, 1917. Dear Mr. Pearson—"It is with a heavy sorrowing heart that I write you concerning the death of your son Erwin, of which you have been advised before this. It was his wish while well and strong that if anything happened I should write to you and his wife. He and I were the only two of C Co. of the old 168th here, and we have been chums since our arrival in England and remained so to the end. We spent our leave in Scotland together. Yourself and Mrs. Pearson, and his wife and family have my deepest sympathy in your hour of trouble, (and may the good Saviour above give you all health and strength to bear your heavy loss and deep sorrow, and may we all meet in the end at the pearly gates above.

Erwin was well liked by all in the camp, and they all miss him, as well as myself. He was wounded on the night of May 29th, between 11 and 12 o'clock, and lived only a few minutes after being struck. He was immediately rushed to the nearest dressing station, but passed away before reaching there. He was struck in the side by a piece of shrapnel from a German shell. At the time between acting as escort on one of our ration wagons, and they were on the way back to our billets, when the poor fellow was caught. He was buried on the afternoon of May 30th, and was given a military funeral with a service at the grave. It was a military grave, and a couple of hundred yards distant from the village church. The grave is marked and his name and number are recorded there.

It is well looked after at all times, I myself, just came from the trenches as they were leaving and went in and planted a spray of flowers on my dear comrade's grave. I will often visit the spot as long as I am here. His personal belongings were returned to his wife and I am sure it was all sent. The mail will also be returned. I wish you would take this letter and go and see Erwin's wife instead of me writing to her too. I think it would be the better plan. You will kindly extend her and the family my deepest sympathy. Would like to know if you receive this letter, you have the address except my number, which is 675884. Hoping this finds you all in the best of health, I remain, your sincere friend, Pte. A. S. Reavely.

BEAN PROSPECTS FOR A BIG CROP

There is business being done in domestic beans at Toronto, for the simple reason that the crop was cleaned up months ago. A heavy crop of beans is in prospect not only throughout Ontario, but all over Canada and the United States, given good weather for maturing and ripening the crop.

At many points in Ontario seed was sown which did not come up at all, or which on coming up proved so sickly that practically nothing need be expected of it. This proved to be the kiln-dried Rangoo beans which, while fairly good for eating purposes, were absolutely useless for seed in Canada. A warning was given against this seed earlier in the season, but, evidently some of it was used without knowledge of the risk being run. It has proved a costly experience for those concerned.

What of the future of beans? Two widely different opinions are held, the choice of which must lie with individuals in sunning up the situation. There is no doubt but that there will be a heavy production of beans this year. Some people expect an over-production, which would mean low prices after threshing, and in consideration of the cost of seed and the labor required to produce, this crop might not exactly prove profitable.

On the other hand it is pointed out that beans are a valuable and a valued food, and that there will always be a good market for it no matter how large the crop. With a large cheap crop on the market it would be used more largely for the soldiers, and in addition to this, when people frequently, and good prices would be found beans selling more cheaply than realized. In weighing these two sides of the other staples, they would add the low-ly vegetables to the menu more free-question, the balance of reasoning
