Old World Topics

British Politics--Dissolution in the Air--Liberals Leaderless--The Effects of the Queen's Visit to Ireland--Review of the War Situation--Germany Friendly to Britain--Paris Exposition Still Incomplete--Notes From Duchess of Fife's Diary.

The Right Remedy.

The intention of holding a working-men's mass meeting tomorrow night in East London; the remarks at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday by Rev. Father Aylward; and the document we publish elsewhere, signed by Rev. Dean Innes, Rev. Father Aylward and Mr. T. H. Luscombe, naturally combine to attract attention once more to the general subject of the relations between capital and labor, employers and employees.

London, April 29.--Though the event of the week in England has been the resumption of parliament, it scarcely justifies even passing comment. Lethargy has marked and probably will continue to mark the debates.

LIBERALS DIVIDED.

The Liberal papers inveigh against this endeavor to secure peace first and announce the policy afterwards, maintaining that a frank announcement of the government's intentions towards the South African republics would greatly hasten peace.

ROSEBERY HANGS BACK.

Judging from Lord Spencer's speech, herculean efforts are being made by the old-time Liberal leaders to reconstruct the party. Lord Spencer blessed every Liberal section, but, in the same breath, declared himself for Lord Rosebery.

ST. GEORGE'S DAY.

The past week witnessed a weak attempt to celebrate St. George's day with the outward signs that marked St. Patrick's anniversary.

UNITED STATES VS. TURKEY.

The American complications with Turkey continue the topic of the day. The Outlook, after declaring the sultan and Isaac Gordon, the notorious money-lender, who died recently, were own brothers in matters of money, says:

"The sultan has now fallen back on the desperate doctor's last device of buying more, and has offered to place an order for a warship with an American firm, if only the American Government will accommodate him a while longer."

EXTRACTS FROM A DIARY.

Further extracts from the Duchess of Fife's diary throw interesting light on royal personalities. The Queen's entry reads: "God has been so good to me, and has given me so much to make me happy during my life, that now, in my old age, I want to confess that I have not any dislikes."

CURIOSITIES OF THE PARIS EXPOSITION.

The cosmorama, showing the earth, sun, moon and stars. Giant telescope, that makes the moon look only a mile off. Mareorama, a mimic sea voyage taken on dry land.

collection a most womanly confession: "I dislike," she writes, "every woman who thinks her children more beautiful than mine, I like everyone who loves the Queen."

DEARTH OF CLEAN LINEN.

A famine of clean linen is more disturbing to Parisians than the incomplete condition of the exposition grounds. Eight thousand Paris washerwomen have struck for higher wages and shorter hours, and serious inconvenience has already been caused.

SERIOUS POSSIBILITIES.

This ebullition of labor difficulties calls attention to the serious possibility of much graver disturbances arising from the throwing on the labor markets of thousands of workmen by the completion of the exhibition and of the central portion of the metropolitan railway.

WORK IN THE EXPOSITION.

The fortnight's work on the exposition since the opening has done much to bring order out of the chaos which obtained when President Loubet declared the exposition opened.

GERMANY AND THE WAR.

A Berlin correspondent cables: Interest in the South African war has flagged owing to the lack of exciting news. The semi-official Militar Wochenblatt says it is impossible to gain a clear idea of the present status there.

ANGLO-GERMAN RELATIONS.

During the week the German press paid great attention to the relations between Great Britain and Germany, and it was interesting to note that even such an Anglophobe paper as the Hamburger Nachrichten, which are usually "foolish to needlessly anger and provoke England," advised the German people to "use more wisdom and circumspection when criticising the English navy."

FRIENDLY TO BRITAIN.

The Vossische Zeitung came out with an editorial semi-excusing itself for previous utterances, and claiming that what the German press had been doing was only giving the British "good advice in criticising the war, otherwise remaining friendly to England."

A FEW WORDS ABOUT CATARRH.

How It Begins--How It Becomes Chronic--How It Is Cured by Dr. Chase.

Running at the nose, stuffed up nostrils, difficult breathing and headache are well-known symptoms of acute catarrh. It allowed to run on acute catarrh becomes chronic, and then there are small ulcers form in the nose, dropping into the throat, which cause hawking and spitting, and when the ulceration reaches the bone, foul breath.

THE KAISER'S POSITION.

Another reassuring sign is the warmth of the German emperor's friendship for Britain. He has never flattered since the outbreak of the war, but he had domestic policies of his own to work out, and for political reasons could not express his goodwill too openly.

the emperor has all along been pro-English. He regards friendly and even intimate relations between the two countries as one of the corner-stones of his policy.

THE WAR.

London, April 30.--Isaac N. Ford, in his cable dispatch, filed yesterday morning, reviews the South African war situation as follows: The war office gave out the casualty list of the Wepener operations Friday, but closed at midnight, without announcing the result of Friday's engagement at Thabanchu. The inference drawn by military men from Gen. Roberts' silence was that Dewet's forces had passed through Thabanchu before Colville, French and Huddle had come up, and that a rear guard alone remained in an entrenched position.

GOOD OMENS.

While there has been no second Paardeberg there have been many signs of better things in reserve for the empire. The morale of the British army has been restored, and the rank and file are now well led by officers who study and adapt themselves to the tactics of the enemy.

adapting themselves to British tactics. They learned how to take advantage of Gen. Methuen's frontal attacks and Gen. Buller's methods of warfare, and they have profited by Gen. Roberts' object lessons.

Londoners have considerable faith in the Mafeking relief column that is being organized at Kimberley under command of Gen. Hunter. Every town and hamlet in England is intensely concerned as to the fate of Col. Baden-Powell and his men, and elaborate preparations have been made to celebrate the relief when it comes.

FEDERATION.

Australian federation, instead of being a stumbling-block for the ministry, is likely to prove a stepping-stone to some comprehensive scheme of imperial federation, which will be the natural goal of British statesmanship after a costly war in defense of the empire.

THE AUSTRALIAN COMMONWEALTH.

The Australian Commonwealth will be altered, not as a concession to the mother country, but as a safeguard for the empire, since the confederation in the south seas must be kept in touch with the confederation in Canada and the confederation in South Africa, which will be brought about in the near future.

BOER TACTICS CHANGED.

The Boers have shown remarkable flexibility throughout the campaign in adapting themselves to British tactics. They learned how to take advantage of Gen. Methuen's frontal attacks and Gen. Buller's methods of warfare, and they have profited by Gen. Roberts' object lessons.

to obtain a clear perspective of the results of her mission of peace and reconciliation. She has not been a political agent of the Unionist party; her work has been a labor of love and good will, and she has found the way to Irish hearts.

MR. GLADSTONE'S IDEA.

and the Tories, in appropriating it, seem to think that they have made a fresh discovery. In any event, the English people have learned during the last six months that Ireland, instead of being a source of weakness in time of war, is a strong rock of defense.

STANDARD PURITY.

Our drug business is established on sound and healthy business principles. We give people just what they ask for, and guarantee all our drugs to be of standard purity.

Working Overtime.

Eight-hour laws are ignored by those tireless little workers--Dr. King's New Life Pills. Millions are away at work, night and day, curing indigestion, biliousness, constipation, sick headache and all stomach, liver and bowel troubles.

Want to Keep Your Nerve?

Of course you don't; so you should take Scott's Emulsion. It is a fact this remedy cures it; and it cures nervousness, nerve debility and insomnia 'also.

The board of supervisors of Santa Barbara county, Cal., by a unanimous vote has passed an ordinance to prohibit the killing of gulls, terns, pelicans and eagles.
