with white silk. She was attended by Miss Jessie Dunston and Miss Olive Mudge. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Hamilton, of the First Congregational Church. After the ceremony the guests repaired to the dining-room, where a dainty supper was served.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable.
Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by E. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surface of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and tes-

SOUTH LONDON CITIZENS DISCUSS
STREET RAILWAY EXTENSION
Meeting Was Not Unanimous— Mr. Carr Will Be Asked to Change the Route.

The ratepayers of South London met at Treblecock's Hall last night to discuss the proposed new railway belt in that neighborhood. About 60 persons were present. The meeting was a tension to be divided into two factions.
The east side, especially the residents of High and Emery streets, were in favor of the belt continuing west Wal-lington street line. A petition to that effect is being circulated, and has had many signatures. None of those present from that section were at the meeting.
The committee appointed, they, however, were perfectly willing that the west side should get what advantages they could.

The west side delegation was somewhat divided, although they got together on one proposition. Most of those present declared that it was impossible to run a line of railway along Garfield avenue. The street was too narrow, and it would incur a great deal of expense to the city in moving the sidewalks and the fences west of Wal-lington street. The alternative, and it suited the citizens much better. Then there was some difficulty about the Wharncliffe road. This road is a veritable canal, and in the winter the majority thought it would be impossible to keep the line in working order. However, a committee was appointed to wait on Manager Carr, and discuss the changes with him. The same committee will also interview the council, if an agreement is reached.

When the meeting was called to order, Mr. Thomas Spettigue was appointed chairman. Mr. William Jex was named secretary.
Mr. F. Westlake explained why the meeting had been called, and laid before them the matters to be discussed.
He had called them together because he wanted them to go to the council as a unit. They were not going to the council of railway company with propositions, but the street railway was coming to them. They were sure of the road. He did not like Wharncliffe road. He much preferred Edward street. "I found many people indifferent to the new line. They feel that our present belt line service is so bad, they don't care whether we get any added line or not." Mr. Westlake was also in favor of West avenue in preference to Garfield avenue. The latter was far too narrow.

Mr. Onn, who had circulated the petition found only one objection. Many, however, preferred Edward street.
Ex-Ald. Jex explained the causes that led up to the present situation. He declared that no personal consideration had entered into this matter at all.
He had no axe to grind. He was seeking to get better service for the citizens of South London and had alway done so. The Wortley road extension was a case in agreement between the city and the railway company, to give the latter ingress into the city for their Springbank line. The company had fought the Wortley road line inch by inch. Originally he wished to bring this line around to meet the High street line, but the city was not entitled to so much mileage. Now the railway company were compelled to build. According to their contract, the Wortley road line must be built by Oct. 1. "The council or the citizens are not in a position to demand anything but the Wortley road line," he said. "I want you to bear this in mind.

The proposal for the other line comes from the street railway," declared Mr.
Judd. He told about his meetings with Manager Carr. He had, when the plans were shown him, proposed Edward street, but Mr. Carr refused on account of the numerous curves. He wanted to bring the belt back by way of the Wortley road, but had consented to take it to Garfield avenue and Ridout street. Mr. Carr thought that the Emery street people were well provided for in the High street line, and the Southwestern Traction Company's line, and his proposed new line on Ridout street. Mr. Judd warned them against petty jealousies. The large western section should have a car service. If the different sections start quarrelling, they would get nowhere.
If they did not want the belt line, let the new line let them say so, and the belt line would be completed forthwith. Mr. Carr wanted until June next to complete the proposed line, as it was two miles longer than the Wortley road line. Mr. Judd thought that reasonable. "If the city service, he thought the company should be compelled to give at least a 15-minute service."

It was then moved by Mr. West and seconded by Mr. Davidson that the route as laid down be accepted.
Mr. Westlake, that he seconded by Mr. Campbell, that a delegation wait on Mr. Carr to ascertain whether or not he would change the proposed route to something more suitable to the wishes of the citizens. This amendment carried.
On the appointment of the committee, Mr. Wilson declared that Emery and High streets were opposed to the present scheme, and they would not go on the committee.
Mr. Dickson also said that High street had first claim.
Mr. J. B. McKillop thought it unfair for the east to oppose the line that would benefit the west side so much, especially since they could not get one of their own.

Mr. Judd thought that in the future a line would be built over to High street, as he thought the street railway would endeavor to cut in on all the revenue they could, and thus take the revenue from the traction company.
The following committee was then appointed: Messrs. Westlake, Lloyd, Spettigue, Westland, McKillop and Judd. Their instructions were to endeavor to get the proposed line changed to Edward street and West avenue.

at about $5,000. The question was, where is the money to come from?
Ald. Greenlee—We certainly ought to buy some of those vacant spaces right away, for soon they will be all gone.
It seems unlikely that the city will consent to sell the strip at the north end of Talbot street to Mr. Harvey, so great is the opposition shown by north end residents to such a proposition.
And Mr. Harvey says that unless he gets the said strip of the public highway his land will not be good for building purposes. Therefore, the mayor's proposal re the city's buying the property would be a solution to more than one difficulty.
The committee laid the matter over.
Several more letters of protest against the selling of the north end of Talbot street were filed.
A petition against the proposed double-tracking of Horton street was also filed for reference.

Miss Christina Ross, who was injured on the public street in some manner unknown to the committee, wrote requesting a visit from the mayor. The matter was left in the hands of his worship.
A communication from the National Savings Association was laid over.
Secretary Young proposed to address the council on behalf of the association's work.

"SONS OF BELIAL" ELLIOTT CAUGHT
BADLY WORSTED 100 MILES AWAY

at Hensal—Sandy Bawden
Too Much for Them.
Hensal Observer: On Saturday afternoon, four burly, husky Londoners, evidently of the sporting class, drove into town and without any unnecessary delay set to work on the place. glaring red. In their frantic efforts to kick up a row they insulted several of the citizens, but when they began the "Big Indian" act on Sandy Bawden, they discovered they had a foe man worthy of the steel of the entire party.
Seeing that the whole party were upon him, they decided to make a dash for it. They were not long in making their escape, but they left behind them a remarkable skill. Meeting the combined attack of the London mob with deft guards and landing beautifully with his fists and legs, he sent the whole party over like nincompoops. He felt for their optics and they felt for the ground. It was refreshing to the onlookers, the coolness, grace and dexterity with which Sandy handled these sons of Belial. Doc Chesney says he has seen for many a day. It revealed an intimate knowledge of the many art of self-defense. When Sandy had completed his task, the debris gathered itself together, got up, and started for London, to have the shames taken off their optics. In giving a sledge hammer knockout Sandy hurt his finger, but otherwise is as sound as a dollar.

We enjoy talking to the woman who is interested in furniture bargains.
This Sideboard comes under that heading.
Having purchased a tremendous number, cost is reduced and so is the price at which we offer them to you.
This sideboard is solid golden oak with a piano finish and British plate mirror. It sells regularly for $25.00.
This week for..... $21.00

One man's funeral often makes a frolic for another.
Though the photographer may make a specialty of negatives, he seldom says "no" when asked to take something.
For a young woman to begin to pick her off a young man's coat collar is said to be the first symptoms that the young man is in peril.
