

ARE ENGLISH CHILDREN FAR BELOW STANDARD

Physically and Mentally, Experts Say They Are Losing Ground.

London, July 19.—About a year ago England began the systematic collection of statistics as to the physical and mental condition of her school children, and the first of the reports of the medical officers appointed under the new scheme are now being published.

To say that the country is shocked at the condition of things revealed by the first thorough inspection is putting the case mildly. She is aroused to the danger implied in the conditions, and the revival of the military spirit which has been going on for some time is intensifying the concern of the public. "Where are our soldiers coming from if we are more than a race of weaklings?" men are asking, and a strong public demand is going up for immediate measures to check the degeneracy which is revealed.

So far, it is not claimed for the statistics that they are more than partial, but as for as they go they are accurate. Some of the new medical officers, owing to the delay in getting the law into working order, have only six months' actual work to report on, but in nearly every part of England the same story is told: the children who are growing up today are nearly all handicapped by the conditions under which they are compelled to live, and many of them are actually diseased or mentally defective.

City and Country Compared.

The country children are better off in many respects than the children of the towns, but even in the agricultural districts a lamentable amount of under-development and neglect is found.

Somerset is almost a purely agricultural county, where the conditions for the growth and development of child life ought to be ideal, while West Ham is one of the great working class suburbs of East London, where the children are crowded into tiny houses in narrow streets, and subject to all the hardships resultant on the irregular and scantily paid employment of their parents. It might be expected then that Somerset would make a better showing in some respects than West Ham, and it does, but in others it is lamentably behind.

To begin with is the question of height and weight. The standards, of course, are averages, and it might be expected that in Somerset the height and weight of the children would be above the standard. It is not. At most ages it is just about the standard, while at some it is slightly lower. In West Ham, of course, both height and weight at all ages are greatly below the standard. Even in the small towns of Somerset the height and weight of the children are noticeably below those in the purely agricultural districts. In the matter of nutrition, too, there is a striking difference between the country and the town. Dr. Stevenson finds not a single child in the whole county who could be classed as distinctly badly fed, and he only finds 11 per cent who are below the normal. In Somerset 62 per cent of the children are normally nourished, and 28 per cent are distinctly well nourished. In West Ham, on the other hand, 11 per cent of the children are recorded as badly nourished, while nearly all the rest are below the normal.

Attention to Teeth.

In the matter of attention to the teeth there is not much to choose. In West Ham only 40 per cent of the children were found to have a full set of teeth, and practically all had some decayed teeth. In Somerset nearly every child had two or three decayed teeth, and in both districts evidence of the use of the tooth brush was the exception and not the rule.

Dr. Ker, the medical officer for the London county council schools, is advocating the establishment of school clinics, at which all the children would be treated for their ailments and imperfections by medical men, and in connection with this, he insists that school kitchens should be established by which the evil of underfeeding may be remedied. The astonishing thing about it is that the British public is not denouncing these proposals as socialism. It is taking them quite seriously, and even the London Times has condescended to bless Dr. Ker's proposals in an editorial.

STAGE TRAGEDY REAL

Actors Feel Jealousy Supposedly Played—One Kills Other. St. Petersburg, July 19.—A terrible tragedy was witnessed at the National Theatre in Saratoff.

In the third act of the play which was being given, the heroine is shot by a rejected suitor, and dies in the arms of her sweetheart, who arrives on the scene soon afterward. On a recent night, to the astonishment of the audience, Mr. Tashnakoff, who was acting the villain, made no attempt to shoot the girl, but put a bullet through the heart of her lover, who was waiting for his cue to appear, then shot the girl, and finally turned the revolver against himself and fired.

Several women in the audience fainted, and a great many other spectators sustained injuries in the panic that ensued while endeavoring to force their way out of the theatre.

A novelty in church hymnals is reported from Chicago. An enterprising advertising concern has started supplying poor churches with hymn books free of charge, the company getting its return from many pages of advertisements sprinkled through the books.

THE JAPANESE TURN TO OLD PUNISHMENTS

Gambling Is Being Stopped by—Playing the Culprits Alive.

Tokio, July 19.—Considerable surprise has been occasioned in the far east by the discovery that at times men are still being fayed alive in Formosa. It is said that such extreme measures have been resorted to with a view to stamping out the vice of gambling, which is an inveterate habit of the Chinese inhabitants of the islands, and does much to hinder the effective administration of government. Japanese officials appear to be convinced that occasional recourse to ancient native methods of punishment is the only way to discourage it.

The Japanese police arrested seven men charged with gambling. They asserted their innocence, but under a few strokes from the bamboo agreed to confess. Subsequently they admitted that the confession was conceded only to escape further flogging. But the miseries of the culprits had only begun, and each was sentenced to 90 strokes of the bamboo. The punishment was to be distributed over several days at so many blows a day.

The Japanese method administered the flogging is reported to have greatly exceeded the number of strokes imposed by the sentence. Apparently he acted on the theory that so long as he completed the number required by the court he was at liberty to inflict as many more as he felt like.

On May 16 the prisoners were released and sent home. That night two of them died. Two more are now in the hospital. The relatives of the prisoners are expected to be to the Japanese authorities for satisfaction.

This outrage is probably to be taken as an aberration of justice, and in no way typical of Japan's general policy in Formosa. Both in Korea and in Formosa Japan has abolished the system of torture she found in vogue upon her entrance to these countries. Flogging was banished by her as a form of punishment inconsistent with modern civilization, but it is said that in both Korea and Formosa there are times when the minor officials of the Japanese administration attempted to return to the old methods as the only way of deterring criminals.

GERMAN LOAN FOR MEXICO

Berlin, July 19.—German capital continues to find an inviting outlet in the Americas. The latest transaction is a loan of $2,000,000 which the Dresden Bank of Berlin has just made to the Mexican Tehuacan Railway Company. This is the first section of a total issue of $75,000,000, which the company will float. The loan bears 4½ per cent interest, guaranteed by the Mexican Government, the same as the 5 per cent loan of the same company, which has been listed for some time on the German stock exchanges. A heavy amount of German capital is also invested in the Mexican Central Railway.

The Deutsche bank and the Disconto Gesellschaft, of Berlin, have South America formally divided into spheres of interest. One of them has agreed to operate exclusively in Argentina, Chile and Peru, leaving Brazil, Venezuela and other sections of the country to the other.

BIBLE IN ITS ENTIRETY OR NO BIBLE AT ALL

Mr. S. H. Blake Makes Another Slashing Attack on "Modern Thought"

Toronto, July 19.—Hot weather and holidays have not affected the vigor of Hon. S. H. Blake's strong right arm, wherever he wields the pen mightier than the sword.

In his latest slashing attack on the higher critics he deals with the question, "Does Victoria College Compromise Bind the Methodist Church?" The writer styles the compromise "a healing plaster to conceal a running sore," and the answer is given: "Heating a big drum and crying, 'Peace, peace,' when there is no peace, will neither convey satisfaction or confidence to thinking people."

Further the writer says: "Victoria College was not entitled to speak for, and cannot, and does not represent the million Methodists in a body any more than the Five Talloirs of Tooley Street represented the people of England."

"You suggest that our theological professors have set themselves in array, rather to shoulder in all our colleges, to replace in the Christian churches the orthodox Word of God by these modern views."

"This is a serious statement for you to make, but, after much inquiry, I believe it is true. We know that it is going on in four principal centres; Montreal, Kingston, Toronto and Winnipeg."

"The laymen of the church, until within a few months ago, could scarcely be held responsible for the conspiracy which has thus been formed, and whereby it is sought to undermine the foundation of our common religion, but now that the recent utterances and acts have made plain the intention, we are responsible if we do not do everything in our power to disavow ourselves from this movement, and to refuse to countenance, financially or otherwise, those institutions which permit instruction that is dishonoring to God, and seeks to subvert His Word. Victoria has not alone thrown down the gauntlet. It is for the laity to take it up and boldly enter the lists, as those who know the incalculable value of the treasure which is our heritage, and determine that no inquisition shall be introduced into the faith of this twentieth century whereby under the tyranny of the professors we are compelled to abandon the Word of Life. This is our Magna Charta; if we allow it to be wrested from us, then we may bid farewell to that touchstone which has raised Protestants and Protestants alone to the position which they occupy in the world; and we leave the professors and their abettors with a garbled Bible to alter our faith, and our creeds, and to falsify our standards."

"What is covered by the term 'modern thought' involves the discrediting of some books, many chapters and much of the teaching of the Bible. I refer to this because the question now is whether we are to decide in favor of this teaching in our colleges or to stand fast by the old conservative view. In other words, is the Bible, as we have known it, to be subject in our colleges to the critical knife, without the absolute means of deciding how far the critic is justified in going? If we take the sum of the criticisms it is scarcely necessary to say that there would be no Bible left. A professor may take any position that he pleases. I simply refer to this in order to lead up to the immense importance of the question at issue. It is either the Bible in its entirety as we have it, or virtually no Bible at all."

"SARACEN'S HEAD" CLOSED FOREVER

Proprietors of the Famous London Hotel Give Increased Taxation as the Cause.

London, July 19.—The Saracen's Head Hotel, Snow Hill, which celebrated its 40th birthday not long ago, has closed its doors forever, the proprietors giving as the reason for the closing the new fashionable and popular one of "increased taxation."

The old hostelry had many claims on public interest and was a favorite resort of tourists. In the days of mail coaches it was of considerable importance, being one of the recognized stopping places. Coaches passed through the archway under the hotel and visitors stopping in the house were in the habit of gathering on the balconies surrounding the courtyard to watch the arrival and departure of passengers.

Lord Nelson, when he left his home as a youth to join the navy, broke his journey at the Saracen's Head and stopped the night in the historic building.

But when Dickens, who really immortalized the hotel, it was there that he had Squeers interview the students who were to be "accurately educated" at his school. It was there he met his pupils and took them down to Dotheboys Hall, with Nicholas Nickleby in attendance as teacher, already regretting that he had accepted the position.

The hotel will be torn down, to the despair of Dickens lovers, who bewail the yearly destruction or public loss of places the novelist brought to the notice of England by weaving them into his stories.

BOYS ON FOOT WILL SEE BRITAIN

Twenty German Lads Begin Four-Hundred-Mile Tramp—Sleep in Haystacks.

London, July 19.—Keen interest was taken in the recent visit of British boy scouts to Germany. A return visit is being made by a party of 20 German lads, who, while not exactly scouts, have an ambition to become such.

On July 6 the Germans began a 24 days' tour of England and Scotland, under the guidance of British boy scouts. Their ages range from 12 to 18 years, and they wear a costume consisting of Norfolk jacket, knickerbockers, green cap and the distinctive cord of the rambling club to which they belong.

The purpose of the visit is to gain a better knowledge of the life lived by English boys, and to promote a better understanding between the youth of the two nations. A letter from the club officials in Germany to the headquarters of the boy scouts made this request:

"In all your preparations on our behalf you will remember that we wish to tour your beautiful country as 'Wandervoegel' (literally 'wandering birds'), as far as possible, in the way in which we are accustomed to do so here. In addition to this we wish to demonstrate our German method of doing so, which will certainly not give rise to any objection on your part, for there is something charming in touring on these lines."

"It is our endeavor here in Germany to show men brought up in luxurious habits how it is just by this method of touring that a man feels himself at his best and happiest. So in towns modest night's lodging in beds; in the country abundance of straw and hay."

The ramblers will walk about 400 miles during their visit, starting from Edinburgh and ultimately reaching London. At Richmond, Yorkshire, they will be entertained by General Baden-Powell, and they will also visit the camp of boy scouts which General Baden-Powell will hold at Southampton in August.

CHANGING THE NAME

The Town of Rockefeller Decides To Change Its Name.

Chicago, July 19.—A high sense of ethical duty as they see it and in the belief that opportunity may knock but once at their door, the 500 villagers of Rockefeller, Ill., 32 miles northwest of Chicago, have decided to change the name of their town.

As the village is only waiting for the sanction of the postal department at Washington to make the action complete, A. F. Sheldon has agreed to establish a commercial university on the 600 acres he has purchased near the town. He proposes to teach salesmanship, as it is taught in his school in Chicago.

Visions of "rah, rah" boys buying elaborate outfits of fall, winter and spring clothing, have filled the trade merchants with joy. A football team that will bring fame and glory to the village is one of the hopes of the half-thousand men, women and children.

"Is there a feeling that Mr. Rockefeller might have endowed a university here himself, or at least have given the town that bore his name a library?" was asked one of some of the inhabitants who lounged in the shade of "Main street."

"Far be it from us to 'knock,' was the answer. Sheldon declared that 'Rockefeller methods of business' were not those that might add honor to a name, and that he would not have the name of his town changed to honor a name, and

that he would not have the name of his town changed to honor a name, and

that he would not have the name of his town changed to honor a name, and

that he would not have the name of his town changed to honor a name, and

that he would not have the name of his town changed to honor a name, and

that he would not have the name of his town changed to honor a name, and

that he would not have the name of his town changed to honor a name, and

that he would not have the name of his town changed to honor a name, and

that he would not have the name of his town changed to honor a name, and

that he would not have the name of his town changed to honor a name, and

that he would not have the name of his town changed to honor a name, and

that he would not have the name of his town changed to honor a name, and

that he would not have the name of his town changed to honor a name, and

that he would not have the name of his town changed to honor a name, and

that he would not have the name of his town changed to honor a name, and persuaded the villagers that Area was nice and short and appropriate for a title place.
