OTHERWISE TO HELP HIM Tells Newspapermen Who Call That He Is Out of Politics.

[Associated Press.] June 11.—Yesterday CHICAGO. Charles Evans Hughes and Charles Warren Fairbanks were nominated for president and vice-president by the Republican national convention. Theodore Roosevelt was nominated for president and John M. Parker of Louisiana for vice-president by the Progressives.

Hughes accepted the Republican nomination, giving out a statement in which he made clear his position in national and international affairs. Justice Hughes in his telegram of acceptance attacked the Wilson administration, especially the foreign policy and particularly Mexico. Touching on the hyphen, Justice Hughes in his telegram said

"I stand for an Americanism that knows no ulterior purpose; for a patriotism that is single and complete. Whether native or naturalized, of what ever race or creed, we have but one country and we do not for an instant tolerate any division of allegiance." Roosevelt's Attitude. Col. Roosevelt sent a tentative declination of the nomination with the understanding that it was to stand if Hughes turned out to be sound on the issues of Americanism and preparedness, and that if Hughes turned out to be pacifistic, pussy-footed or pro-German, he would accept and make the race as the Progressive candidate. The Republican and Progressive parties have been united, according to the calm, sober judgment of the Progressive leaders who, although disappointed that their idol, Theodore Roosevelt, was not accepted by the Republicans, are prepared to follow the advice of their leader and work for the defeat of President Wilson through the medium of one opposition ticket. Piercing of Enemy's Line on Stripa Is More Important Than Lutsk Victory.

PETROGRAD, June 11 .- 5 p.m., via WINDSOR, June 11 .- Private advices announce the safe arrival in England of London.—The similarity between Gen. Lieut.-Col. T. B. Welch and a number Brusiloff's advance in the past week and the Russian drive against the Austrians at the beginning of the war is generally commented upon here. One difference, however, is pointed outthat Gen. Brusiloff's initial blow has been considerably more effective and the retreat of the Austrians before i more precipitate than during the initial events of 1914.

The military authorities regard the piercing of the Austrian line along the Stripa as perhaps of greater importance than breaking through at Lutsk. Assuming that the Austrians, even with the aid of the Germans are unable to push the Russians back here, it will mean that the Austrians themselves must fall back along the whole line northward and quickly in order to maintain a formidable front. It is pointed out that an orderly retreat with such gigantic armies is an extremely difficult task. Once they are on the move, and with the Russians pound-ing at their rear, it is contended the great drive of 1914 through Poland and Galicia is likely to be repeated.

Reserves Were Excited. Details of the fighting are still lacking, except for meager attempts filtering in from wounded officers, who have arrived at Kiev and Odessa.
