

REMAINS OF EARLY RACE

Peabody Museum Explorers Name Ancient People "Post-Basket-Weavers."

CLIFF-DWELLERS LATER

Older Inhabitants of Southwest Grew Corn and Lived in Caves.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 26.—(The Associated Press.)—The discovery of the remains of an ancient people who once inhabited the American Southwest and were intermediate in development between the Basket-Makers, the earliest race known to have lived in this region, and the Pueblo Cliff-Dwellers, whose remarkable stone villages along the Arizona cliffs have attracted wide public interest, has been one of the results of explorations made during the past year in the Marsh Pass region of Northeastern Arizona by the Peabody Museum of Harvard University. The "Post-Basket-Makers" is the name given the newly-discovered people.

The Harvard expeditions to this semi-desert region, over 100 miles from the nearest railroad, were begun in 1914 by V. V. Kidder and Samuel J. Guernsey of the Peabody Museum staff, and were later continued under the sole direction of Mr. Guernsey. Prior to 1914 commercial collectors had found traces of the Basket-Makers, but facts about the existence of a people who followed the Basket-Makers in point of time, but preceded the Cliff-Dwellers.

These expeditions have not only contributed a mass of information concerning the Basket-Makers, but now have the existence of a people who followed the Basket-Makers in point of time, but preceded the Cliff-Dwellers.

The "Post-Basket-Makers" resembled the Basket-Makers in many particulars, but they were clearly a distinct development. The Basket-Makers had no permanent dwellings, whereas these later people had stone houses in caves and in the open. They also had pottery, crude in some respects, but with the beginnings of decoration, and some of it was fired. This is the earliest pottery known to have been made in the Southwest.

Instead of burying their dead in caves, as did the Basket-Makers, they seem to have lived in the caves and to have conducted their burials in the open. Their more settled life is attributed to their success in agriculture. They grew corn of a primitive variety.

Skeletons found in the course of the excavations show that both the Basket-Makers and these successors had rather long skulls, whereas the Cliff-Dwellers who followed them were round-headed and always had the bones of the skull artificially flattened by the hard board heads of the cradles in which the babies were placed. The relationship of these various peoples is still a matter of doubt.

It is believed that the Post-Basket-Makers discovered during the Harvard explorations were descendants of the Basket-Makers, but whether they in turn were ancestors of the Cliff-Dwellers is not certain. The marked difference in the shape of the head, often aside from artificial flattening.

The Basket-Makers had dogs. The mummified remains of two were found during the Harvard explorations, and are now on exhibition at the Peabody Museum, along with a quantity of other objects illustrative of Basket-Maker life. One was a long-haired animal about the size of a small collie, the other was a smaller, black and white dog resembling somewhat a terrier, with short shaggy coat, erect ears, and a long, full-haired tail. These were clearly genuine dogs, and not bred from coyotes or other wild animals of the region.

Many of the objects found in the dry caves of this region are in an extraordinary state of preservation, on account of the dryness of the climate, despite their great age.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24 (By Canadian Press).—Moe Herscovitz, the Canadian welterweight champion, was off form in his bout with Barney Adair of Harlem last night at the Commonwealth Sporting Club and after twelve grueling rounds of boxing the judges declared Adair the winner.

Although Adair outpointed Moe in the earlier rounds, his showing in the latter rounds had earned him a draw, but the judges couldn't see it that way.

CANADIAN DOLLAR HITS HIGHEST LEVEL IN YEARS

Discount Rate On Currency New Being Quoted 1.87 Per Cent.

New York, Feb. 27.—(Canadian Press.)—The discount rate on the Canadian dollar fell today to 1.87 per cent, the lowest quotation since December, 1918. Saturday Canadian currency was quoted in New York at 2.62 per cent discount.

The Canadian dollar gained strength through the improved position of foreign exchange bills on London, Paris and Milan, which were today at the highest quotation in several years, presumably the outcome of Saturday's conference between the British and French premiers at Boulogne.

Demand bills on London rose to 44.32 1/2 during the morning, a gain of 2 cent from last week's final price. Paris demand bills rose 14 points to 92.11 1/2, and the Italian rate gained 18 points at 5.35. The German rate was depressed, however, selling at 45.

The steady improvement in the position of the Canadian dollar in the New York market, during the past few months is expected to be maintained, and the consensus of opinion in financial circles is that the current year will witness the return of Canadian money to a par basis.

SEES INEQUALITY IN INCOME TAXES

Commissioner Grant Claims Exemptions Unfair to Some Wage Earners.

DEFEAT END INTENDED

Ward Two Residents Commence Filing Reports On Earnings.

Residents of Ward Two are now receiving their call from the city assessment department to file their income returns with the city. They have until March 10 to comply.

Income forms for three have already been sent out. Wards Four and Three went out in the order named. The large majority of these have been returned, but there are still some delinquents and action against them may be taken any day, according to assessment department officials.

No 1 ward remains untouched as yet.

There are inequalities in the income assessment measure, stated Commissioner Grant Monday, when he accepted a return from a man whose exemptions were much greater than his income.

"The exemption was intended to relieve the wage earner, but few wage earners receive $2,000, consequently they have no exemption. Another man may earn $2,800," pointed out Mr. Grant, "and having four children, he is entirely exempt, while the man earning $1,200 or $1,300 may have six children and must bring them up as best he can. But worst of all, the exemption the other man has is based on the taxes on the man earning under $2,000."

REGRETS ADVISING DOUKHOBOR ACTION

Peter Veregin Apologizes For Theoretical Advocacy of Massacre.

PROTEST AGAINST TAXES

Christian Communists Claim Government Has Collected Exorbitant Revenues.

Nelson, R. C., Feb. 27.—(Canadian Press.)—Expressing the hope that he may escape lynching at the hands of the Doukhobors, Peter Veregin, president of the Doukhobor children and aged, and pledging his influence against the throwing of children into the Columbia River, Peter Veregin, president of the Christian Doukhobor organization in Canada, has personally taken his pen in hand and written to the Daily News, giving his account of the Doukhobor movement which he sponsored.

Mr. Veregin apologizes to the Canadian public, especially the women, for his cruel expressions and states that the Doukhobors have been greatly surprised at the seriousness with which the letter of Manager Kofinoff, reporting the Doukhobor mass meeting at Brilliant, B. C., on the economic situation, has been taken.

He states that the Doukhobor children are deprived of milk because all the milk cows were sold in 1920 to pay taxes and last year the fruit crop of $4,000 in taxes from the community, he declares, "contradicts the kind of law" the earnings of individual members all being far within the exemption limit.

Specifically, Mr. Veregin asks for a commission of inquiry and that the province reimburse the community for the roads it built, including a $20,000 bridge, which was the community's idea, and also that a loan of $50,000 be provided for irrigation.

"I want to say," concluded Mr. McIntosh, "that no matter how many sermons you read in the newspapers you do not get an ideal." He urged his congregation to obtain this ideal in what he characterized as the only way—public worship.
