The plantiff, Mr. John Livingstone, of this city, brought the action against Messra. The parties to the action came to a settlement, which includes the payment of $150 by the defendants and an undertaking by them to carry off such gases as may be generated in the course of their manufacturing operations from the neighborhood of the plaintiff.

MANITOBA LEGISLATURE.

How Governor Cauchon Proceeded in State to Open It-A Sick Show. (From the Winnipeg Bun, April 28.)

At 3 p.m. the lieutenant-governor pro ceeded in state from his residence to the house of assembly. He was attended by the adjutant-general and his aides-de house of assembly. He was attended by the adjutant-general and his aidea-decamps. He arrived punctually at the palatial pile of public buildings on Main street and having ceutiously picked his footsteps up the rickety stairs burst in full gubernatorial glory upon the assembled crowd. The provincial members having scraped the mud off their shoes and threw it over the stair landing were in their seats and prepared to receive his honor. Upon the floor of the house were seated many of Winnipeg's fairest maidens and most gracious matrons, whose radiant beauty and sunny mien lit up the dingy old room, which despite the forethought of Warden Lawlor in replacing the newspaper with white paper patches over the cracks and holes in the plaster did not of itself look ornate. His honor advanced through the throng that filled the auditoriam outside of the sacred floor and took his seat upon the big red throne, beneath a canopy which was several shades more glaring than the regulation color. The mace bearer, it should be noted, preceded his honor and performed the various gymnastic exercises appropriate to the occasion with an agility and neatness of finish that would have made that paragon of legislative club swingers, Mr. Glackmeyer, turn pale for fear of losing his laurels. The Sun man, having forgot to part his hair in the middle, was adjudged a person of unsettled intellect and was consigned to a seat on the stove, and as he could not hear wha his honor said, the sound of the grinding, as it were, being low in the land, he straddled the stove and thought of the hereafter
