

Weekly Monitor.

BRIDGETOWN, APRIL 19, 1876.

PROSPECTIVE.

The melting influences of Spring are being felt—the time of the singing of birds has come—and the various outdoor industries, which were dormant during the frosty months of Winter, are about to be resumed. Before another Autumn shall have succeeded the season of verdure, and the harvest of the husbandmen shall have re-filled empty granaries, and an abundance of human sustenance shall have been drawn from myriads of cultivated fields, there will be much energy and toil put forth in every department of enterprise and activity. On land and sea—in crowded cities and rural regions—in the warehouse, on the farm, and in the factory there will be efforts put forth to increase wealth and realize prosperity. There may, too, be changes in the position and influence of rival statesman; and the condition of nations, both as respects internal arrangements and foreign relations, may have assumed materially changed aspects.—The Empire of Turkey and its outlying Provinces are in a state of ominous turbulence. The youthful king of Spain, there is reason to fear, has neither the administrative ability or experience to calm the troubled elements of popular discontent, which not long ago culminated in a civil war of blood-stained fields, and of protracted continuance. Verily, we live in a world of agitation, and during the remaining months of the present year there will probably transpire events that will add an interesting page to the diversified history of the world.

But perhaps the "Centennial" at Philadelphia will be the most extraordinary event of the year. There will be an immense gathering from every civilized country on the globe. The sages of the old world will meet and exchange civilities with those of the new. The brightest luminaries in the fields of science, philosophy and literature will impart a brightness to this cosmopolitan effort to bind in world-wide fraternity for a few days at least the representatives of many peoples, coupled with a desire by democratic America to commemorate the birth of nationality, is the idea of an exhibition of marvellous attractiveness. Works of art in variety,—the visible achievements of science, and the prodigious modern improvements in mechanical skill, the richest specimens of mineral wealth—and indeed all that is great, good, extraordinary or largely utilitarian either in nature or in works of art, or in the widening domains of science will be exhibited to the conglomerate assemblage.

Even our own Province, however small and insignificant it may seem in the eyes of unappreciative foreigners, will send specimens of Nova Scotia's productions. Dr. Honeyman has been delegated to convey thither various curiosities, among which are a few specimens of mineral wealth. Our coal fields and mines of gold are a source of pride to ourselves; but far-off strangers may regard them with stolid indifference, and at the exhibition, where so many other things are "arranged for show," our contributions of these minerals in samples will probably attract but little attention and scant admiration. Nevertheless, there are some things in Nova Scotia worth the seeing. The Centennial will be in full blast in July, and if our Annapolis valley, at that season of the year, could be transported to Philadelphia, it could not but be admired for its fertility and scenic loveliness. But the cost and impracticability of its safe transportation thither preclude the possibility of its exhibition at the Centennial. It has more charms, however, for ourselves and thousands more than any thing that will be admired at the Philadelphia gathering.

But while thus giving expression to our own views, we would not depreciate or undervalue the many wonderful things to be seen at the great exhibition on which we are remarking. Choice specimens of the works of the masters in the art of painting will be exhibited—statuary too, chiselled and polished in the old world, will be gazed upon with admiration in the new. But perhaps the exhibition of modern inventions and improvements in mechanics and in manufactures will elicit the most attention, and be followed by utilitarian results of more importance to the world than all the excellencies attained in the refined arts. Painters and sculptors may administer pleasure to people of high intellectual culture and taste; but they add nothing to the material wealth of the world, and contribute nothing to the physical wants of earth's teeming millions. Philadelphia itself is a locality rich in interesting historical associations. There the chief labors of Franklin's long and brilliant life were performed. His efforts in the fields of journalism, science and politics were there put forth with marvellous vigor and transcendent success. His genius, in its meridian splendor a century ago, imparted a peculiar and undying interest to the "Quaker City." There, too, the first American Congress laid the foundation of a nationality, which has since grown into prodigious dimensions, prosperity and power. The Centennial, we presume, will be the attractive event of the season now opening.

HOW A WOMAN CHEATED THE DEVIL.

A happy couple in Wiltshire, in humble life, recently had their family enlarged by the addition of twins; but in a few days one of the babies sickened and died, and alarming symptoms forebode the speedy departure of the other. In these distressing circumstances the parents sent for the clergyman of the parish, in order that the dear little ones might be fitted for the kingdom of Heaven. On his arrival a sad state of things was disclosed. He, of course, soon made the living child "a member of Christ, a child of God, and an inheritor of the kingdom of Heaven," but what to do with the dead child was past his comprehension. The distressed mother first entreated him to let a few drops of the magic water fall upon the dead child's face, but that could not be; then she prayed that as they were both born together, so, in case of the second death, they might both be buried in the same coffin, or, at least, in the same grave. This very natural wish did not harmonize with the theology of the Wiltshire parson, and so it was not granted. The second child died, the funeral was arranged, the two coffins were brought forth, but only one of the babies was committed to the earth in "sure and certain hope of the resurrection to eternal life," and when the distressed parents enquired where the other child was to be interred the reply was to the effect that the other child must be buried at night in un consecrated ground, without service or ceremony, as it had not been baptised. Here, however, a new chapter opened for the mother, and the buried child was the unbaptized one, and that being now committed in "sure and certain hope" he was safe, while she claimed Christian burial for the other, on the ground of his having been made "a member of Christ," &c. In this dilemma the parson, in no measured terms, denounced the woman as a witch, and charged her with cheating God, cheating the Church, and cheating him also. The reply was a nonplus. "I am very sorry," sobbed the mother, "if I have done wrong, I did not wish to cheat God nor the Church, but I confess I have no scruples about cheating the devil."

THE "LENNIE" MUTINY.

PORTIONS OF THE BODIES OF THE MURDERED OFFICERS WASHED ASHORE. Portions of bodies supposed to be those of the murdered officers of the "Lennie," have been picked up on the sea coast at Rochford, near where the six Greek mutineers went ashore. The English Government having been communicated with on the subject, Constant von Hoydonck, the steward of the "Lennie," accompanied by Superintendent Williamson, of Scotland Yard, has been over to see if he could identify the remains found. The parts washed ashore consisted of three heads, and a naked headless body. The costumed bodies were being washed by the authorities were communicated with, buried the heads in the sand on the shore. Unfortunately, however, the sea having lately been so rough, the sands having been so washed away that when the men went to look for the heads where they buried them they could not find them. The headless body was preserved and shown to the steward. Sixteen stabs, as from a dagger, have been found upon it, one very severe one just above the groin. As it is the body of rather a tall man, a belief exists that it is the body of the captain. It is, however, much to be regretted that the hand upon which he had been tattooed is gone by decomposition, and that was the only mark by which those who have seen the body could have recognized it, the body remains unrecognised. Every effort is being made by digging along the sands of the French coast in that district to recover the lost heads, but, up to the last information, without any avail. Since Mr. Williamson has been over to the district where the alleged ringleaders in the mutiny were arrested, a large quantity of things taken from the ship, some of which will be evidence against individual prisoners, have been found.

THE LASH IN P. E. ISLAND.

The unfortunate man, Chappel, flogged in the jail yard, on Friday, by the Deputy Sheriff. Dr. Jenkins was in attendance, by order of the Government, to see that the prisoner should not receive any greater punishment than his strength could bear. When stripped it was seen that he was quite a delicate man. We are informed that he was the first two or three lashes with tolerable fortitude, but after that he wailed and moaned in a pitiful manner. When the sixteenth lash had been inflicted he sank down far as the post to which he was tied permitted, and the doctor after examining him, decided that he could stand no more. He was, consequently, unbound, and led to his cell. Those who had a good opportunity of forming an opinion declare it as their belief that he would have died under the lash if the full punishment—thirty-nine lashes—to which he had been sentenced had been inflicted. The instrument of punishment was a military "cat" sent here some time ago, when the soldiers were on the island, from the Horse Guards. There were from 150 to 200 persons present to witness the flogging. Some of these spectators, it is said, grumbled a good deal because the entertainment did not last longer, and was not sufficiently horrifying. The Deputy Sheriff exhibited a great amount of feeling on the occasion, and was almost as much to be pitied as the criminal himself; but he had a duty to perform, and, painful as it was, he determined to do it without flinching. It may be necessary to flog criminals, but the punishment is a dreadful one. Few have any idea of its severity. It is quite evident that Chappel had no notion of the suffering he was about to undergo. We trust that the lads in this town—and there are by far too many of them—who are walking in his footsteps, will be warned in time. They may rest assured that sooner or later they will, like him, find to their cost that the "way of the transgressor is hard."—Paris.

THE SEAL FISHERY IN NEWFOUNDLAND.

The reports from St. John's, Newfoundland, up to the last of March, were very discouraging in regard to the annual hunt for the seal, upon which that section largely depends for its revenue. The seal fleet, consisting of eleven steamers, three sailing vessels and 2,440 men, left St. John's, on the 13th of March, the earliest date at which it was permitted to depart, but the start was most unfavorable. A heavy ice pack caught the fleet before it was out of sight of land and held it fast, and this impediment continued for nearly two weeks. The young seals are in the best condition about the 20th of the month and the hunt is not successful before the last of it is regarded as a failure, but not until the 24th of March did the vessel reach the open water, with many perils, risks and desperate chances "still to encounter." In less than a month good luck attended the last seven days in March, and skin will be more expensive and more fashionable than ever. We note that four steamers have arrived with small flocks.

ITEMS.

Large floating ice-fields are reported in the vicinity of Newfoundland.

In time of peace the Turkish forces consist of seven corps d'armes, of an effective of 120,000 men.

"Snow a hundred feet deep" is the report from the gulches of the Sierra Nevada Mountains.

The New York World describes the Canada Pacific Railway as "a line from a desert through a wilderness to a swamp."

Manchester, Eng., is to have a new art gallery, at a cost of $500,000, the whole amount of which has been given by a citizen who prefers to have his name remain unknown.

The remains of a Roman theatre have been exhumed at Pisoles. It does not appear to have been on a gigantic scale, but its decorations are said to be remarkable for their richness.

The inhabitants of Puceria have built, mainly at their own cost, parapets of dried mud, alternating with granite towers. These entirely surround the town, and outlying villages have been converted into elaborate redoubts.

The Maine Central Railroad will run two refrigerator cars between Boston and St. John, N. B., next summer. Strawberries, vegetables and green stuffs will be carried from Boston, and in returning will be sent from St. John cargoes of salmon.

A meeting was lately held at Augusta, Maine, of parties interested in building a railroad from Quebec down the valley of the Kennebec, to the seaboard of Maine at Wiscasset, which would be a most convenient route, and that State now lying an untrodden wilderness.

Notwithstanding the Centennial the Philadelphia papers contain columns of advertisements for boarders the price when started being from $5 to $10 per week. This includes lodging and three meals per day. People of moderate means will find no difficulty in suiting themselves for the next six months by consulting the advertisements.

SINGULAR DEATH.—We learn that a boy named Brove 9 years old was found on the beach Thursday last. It appears that he had been practising jumping, and had performed quite a feat a few days before by jumping from the wharf upon the beach without sustaining any inconvenience, and it is stated that another boy saw him jump off the "Bluff" on the day on which he was found dead.—Berwick Star.

The Temescal tin mines in San Bernardino County, Cal., are among the richest in the world, but have not been worked much for the last ten years on account of a disputed title but a rich Amsterdam company has effected an arrangement with the various claimants and five hundred miners are to be set at work immediately.

MINING IN CUMBERLAND.—It is encouraging to observe Halifax capital flowing more freely into mining speculations of Cumberland. The enterprising J. M. Hay, Esq., of Amherst, recently purchased at New York, the consideration price of which was $6,000. Mr. Hay is understood to be largely interested in other ventures.—Chignecto Post.

SINGULAR ACCIDENT.—Mr. David Missel, of Montreal, who recently conducted a picture sale in this city, met with a singular and serious accident on the train from St. John for Montreal on Friday last. A car coupling broke or became unfastened, and the bell-rope snapped in the cars parted, the brass weighted end of the rope whirling back and smashing the window at which Mr. Missel sat, and filling his eyes with fragments of glass. It is not known whether the injury to his eyes will be permanent or not.

WESTERN RAILWAY PROGRESS.—We understand that there are only five or six miles of the line between Weymouth and Yarmouth yet to be graded and not more than a third of the distance between Weymouth and Digby. The railway bridge across Meteghan river will be ready for the rails in a few weeks. The four cargoes of rails already landed here this spring, with the other two to arrive from New Orleans, will extend the track from Yarmouth to Weymouth. As soon as the frost laid out and the ground sufficiently settled, track laying will be resumed. The contractors are pushing the work through vigorously, and there is every prospect that the line will be open from Yarmouth to Digby before next Christmas.—Yarmouth Herald.
