EDITORIAL.

We have been very much pleased to be able to publish the two very encouraging letters received from Dr. A. C. Page and Rev. Dr. Ambrose, which have appeared in Nos 4 and 6 of PUSH. Dr. Ambrose's especially should be very interesting to many of the scholars now attending school as well as to some of those who were the writer's schoolmates. We have lately received a letter from Inspector MacLellan, which is very complimentary both to the managers of PUSH and to the pupils attending the Truro schools, in general. It will appear in this issue.

We have decided to reduce the price of PUSH from three to two cents per single copy and hope that this move will be appreciated by our patrons and result in increased sales.

Letter from Inspector W. E. MacLellan.

MR. J. F. SMITH, EDITOR PUSH:—

Dear Sir,—I am today in receipt of No. 6 of PUSH; and, while thanking you heartily for your kindness in sending it to me, I am glad at the same time to be able to congratulate you warmly on its appearance, and its interesting and highly creditable contents. I sincerely hope that it may be a financial as well as a literary success. I am convinced, from what I have seen of Truro's public school pupils, that you will make it both. Push is all you want; and I knew, before I saw the name of your paper, that you had it. I believe it will do a great deal of good to all who take part in editing, managing and writing for it—more good, perhaps, than almost any other part of your school work. Writing, you know, makes an accurate man—or woman—as opposed to a mere smatterer. To write, one must think and make use of one's own words—a vastly more useful employment than committing other people's words and ideas constantly to memory.

Yours very truly,

W. E. MACLELLAN.
