

NIAGARA FALLS, ONTARIO.

THIS VILLAGE, formerly known as Clifton, extends along the Canada shore of Niagara River, from the Upper-Rapids at the Horse-Shoe Fall, to the railroad Suspension bridge, a distance of over two miles. The most interesting portion of the village lies in the immediate vicinity of the Falls, and a beautiful prospect can be enjoyed at almost any point on Main street, the only street along the river bank upon which buildings are erected. The Canada shore can claim one point over all other localities around the Falls, in being the only place, at present, where a good view of the Cataract can be had without the payment of admittance fees. It is, however, hoped that the creation of the International Park may take place at an early date, and secure similar privileges on the American side. From Niagara Falls station, the omnibuses and carriages of the Michigan Central Transfer Company convey passengers to any point on the Canadian or American side, at the rate of fifty cents for each passenger and usual amount of baggage. This Company has been organized for the protection of the traveling public, and from the gentlemanly agents in charge, every one can feel sure to receive courteous replies and most reliable information. The tourist, wishing to select a temporary abiding place on the Canada side, will find several well-kept hotels, at prices varying according to accommodations desired. The largest and most commodious of these is the Clifton House, which has been open to the public for more than forty years, and has an established reputation. The Prospect House is almost on the verge of the Falls being located at Table Rock.

The Brunswick House, located midway between the houses above mentioned, immediately opposite the Center Fall, furnishes a pleasant stopping place, with all its appointments complete, and well calculated to promote the comfort of its patrons. It is indeed a desirable stopping place, the terms being moderate and the fare excellent. It has ever been the aim of M. Kick, its present proprietor, to keep a first-class hotel, suited to the needs of visitors desirous of witnessing the grand spectacle of Niagara without incurring heavy expenses, and as such, "The Brunswick" has fully established its right to be regarded as a success. Seeing is believing
