

Art. 55.—The scholastic year begins on the first of September.

Art. 56.—The scholars take their meals out of the School, in houses approved of by the Director. They are allowed but the time strictly necessary for that purpose. The remainder of their time is spent in the School, on the farm or in the workshop attached to the School. They sleep in the school house.

Art. 57.—Every one without distinction of family or fortune takes part according to his strength in the farm labours.

Art. 58.—The Scholars' time is divided between study and the practical labors, viz: in summer, 6 hours of study and lessons, 7 hours of manual labour. This arrangement may be modified on certain occasions, according to the state of the weather.

§ 2nd.—Purses.

Art. 59.—The purses destined to the School will be appropriated to the use of those Scholars who, not having the means of defraying the expenses of their board or their instruction, will have given sufficient proof of their ability at the examination for admission, or at the general examination.

Art. 60. The purses are divisible into fractions of purses, unless arranged otherwise by the founders.

Art. 61.—The division of these purses is made by the Corporation on the proposition of the Director of the School, and according to the classification made in conformity with the article 38, above mentioned.

Art. 62.—If a Scholar appear by his conduct, unworthy of being allowed a purse or a fraction of a purse, the Director informs the Superior's Council of it, and they decide finally.

By order of the Corporation,

F. PILOTE, Prst.,

Superior of the College.

St. Ann's College, }
Decr. 4, 1859. }

We approve of the present regulations of the St. Ann's Agricultural School.

Given at the Archbishopric of Quebec, on this the 11th day of December, 1859.

† C. F. BISHOP OF TLOA.

It is but two months since this School has been opened. On the 10th of October last the inauguration took place. The following is the account given of that imposing ceremony, by a correspondent of the Courrier du Canada, published a few days after:

"It is to procure to our beautiful plains the precious advantages of the practical study of an improved tillage, that the Corporation of St. Ann's College has established an Agricultural School, to which a model farm is attached. This farm is but one year in operation and gives already the assurance of the greatest success.

"On Monday last, (10th October,) the citizens of St. Ann's assisted in crowds at an imposing solemnity. His Lordship, the Bishop of Tloa, has been pleased, in person, to bless, in the name of Religion, the edifice destined for the education of our young farmers.
