The Treasurer Gets the Best of It, But the Collector is Content.

Mr. Coady, following up his point, termed it an outrage that honest men should be branded as embezzlers and defaulters, as had been done by an evening paper. Controller Leslie took similar, but even stronger ground. It was not right, he thought, that public orticials should be called defaulters and embezzlers and be tabooed, hounded and biackguarded before the public.

Would Ostracize the Paper.

Ald. Hubbard went still one better. "Because a man accepts a civic position, and because mistakes occur," said he, "it is no reason why he should be blackguarded as a thief. It is the most disgrateful journalism I have ever seen, and the paper which published it (The News) should be ostracised from the City Hall. When a man accepts a civic position it is the duty of the Council to protect that man's character so long as he is not found dishonest. These men simply made mistakes in book-keeping. They are not experienced book-keeping but the remuneration they get doesn't warrant it." He deprecated the idea of having the Treasurer run contra accounts with the collectors without the knowledge or sanction of the Board of Control. Upon his motion, the Treasurer

Facts, Not Falsehood, Wanted. Besides being at one in condemnation of the evening paper which so hungered after a sensation, the controllers thoroughly condemned the evident motive behind the manner of its leaking out. "I don't object so much to giving it to the papers," said Controller Hubbard, "but I do object to falsehood.

Besides being at one in condemnation of the evening paper which so hugered after a sensation, the controllers thoroughly condemned the evident motive behind the manner of its leaking out. "I don't object to faisehood."

There was no harm in a statement of facts in Ald. Lesile's opinion, but the sensational placard in the window about a scandar at the City Hall was worthy of an assassin. It was a stab in the dark.

Winnipeg, June 25.—Le Patterson Concedes Larger Points. There is in connection with the discussion on the draft by-law for the collection of this year's taxes fome disclosures as to the reasons for friction between the collector and treasurer. It transpired that they were entirely of a sentimental character. The bylaw, evidently drawn up under Mr. Coady's eye, provided that "the tax collector shall, under the direction and supervision of the City Treasurer, and with such assistance as he may provide from his permanent staff or if necessary from extra temporary clerks appointed by him or by the Board of Control, prepare and deliver all tax bills and tax notices." This was the first clause in which the au-

Night" at the Toronto. This was the first clause in which the authority of the Treasurer over the collector was recognized. Mr. Patterson here began to show a disposition to yield the main point. He simply asked that the terms "direction and supervision" be defined. One outcome of the resulting difference was that the power of appointing temporary clerks as finally left to read, "The tax collector shall, under the direction and supervision of the City Treasurer, have control of his assistants and such temporary clerks as are appointed by the Board of Control, and prepare and deliver all tax bills and tax notices."

Mr. Coady made the ominous threat that if he got the supervision of the staff he would make some changes.

A serious collision occurred on the Metro colitan Railway late on Friday night. Joseph Lappin, the motorman, was struck by the tengue of the wagon, which penetrated the vestibule and door of the car, and he was thrown out into the ditch at the side. When picked up he was found to be much cut and suffering intense pain. He was conveyed home and Dr. Spencer found him suffering from a broken wrist, fractured collar bone, cuts on the face, and probably more serious internal injuries. The rig that collided with the car was driven by Robert Pearson of Thornhill and belonged to Mr. Frank Muldoon. One of the horses attached to the wagon was killed in the accident.
