THE DAY'S EVENTS REVIEWED

HE Italians have begun the third phase of their offensive. The lui lasted only a few hours, a day at most, according to the Austrian Rev. A. E. Armstrong Addresses communication of yesterday, and they then, to break it, directed a new and large assaulting column like a huge wave against the heights of Vodice and Monte Santo on their left wing. The whole sector of the Italian line advanced and engaged in hand-to-hand fighting. Reading between the lines of the Austrian report, it is seen that the Italians have won a considerable success at least, for the Austrians do not even claim the repulse of the Italians, but merely affirm that the entire extent of

The Italian bulletin on the war, issued at Rome yesterday, gives aportly only the first episode of the attack, the overcoming of the parently only the first episode of the attack, the overcoming of important progress on the southeastern slope of Hill 652 in the Vodice area. The enemy tried to forestall this advance by lauching an attack in felds of work, the address of the evening on the Italians established on the summit. In the Plava sector the Italians drove the Austrians to the end of the valley east of Globna, taking 100 prisoners. The Italians on the Carso Plateau have halted on their arms to consultate their new resultants. tenacious resistance of the Austrians hidden in caves and the making of their arms to consolidate their new positions, to move up their artillery and to make suitable preparation for their next attacks. They report the taking of a total of 23,681 prisoners on the Julian front since May 14, 16 guns, 148 machine guns and vast quantities of war material.

The terrific battering of the Italians at the western barrier, together with the prospect of further battering by the Russians at the eastern barriers, has awakened grave apprehension, not only among all shades of Austrian opinion at Vienna and of Hungarian opinion at Budapest, but, i is certain, among the personnel of the great German general staff, that Austria-Hungary may at last fulfil past predictions and collapse. This fear accounts for the hasty changes in government at both capitals, the semblance of setting up a more liberal constitution, the redoubling of the Austrian peace propaganda in allied countries, particularly in Britain and Austria-Hungary is striving for peace, because the German war party, which is in full control of affairs at Vienna, wants her to make peace. The German war party wants peace for Austria-Hungary because Austria-Hungary has become a weakness to Germany. Her man-power is approaching the vanishing mint with each Italian victory and Russia, despite her unorganized democracy, is preparing to attempt to smash her way thru to Budapest, while the Italians are marching on Trieste and on Vienna. The German war party is also striving to prevent the breaking T. W. Crothers will be authorized to scrue a settlement of the strike situation, and if it fails Hon. up of Austria-Hungary, because Austria-Hungary holds the keys to Asiatic take over the mines and operate them and European Turkey and the great empire dreamed of by the kaiser as by a government commission. extending to the Persian Gulf. Only if Austria-Hungary breaks up, tho the allies might even march to Berlin, would Germany consider herself as losing the war, for as long as she holds the corridor to the near and middle east with a subject and complacent Austria between, she can come out of the struggle with a certain degree of credit.

The first event of the new campaign season in East Africa has been the attempt of the Germans to escape the allied cordon. One party, under Major Wintgens, at least evaded the British columns and marched northward, but a rapid pursuit enabled the British to capture Major Wintgens in the vicinity of Lukalanka, 61 miles southwest of Tabora, whither the Germans were bound. Another party of Germans has moved rapidly towards the Portuguese, border. The German forces in the Rufiji Valley, coastal area, and Matandu Valley began a general movement southward carly in May, while further south German raiders entered Portuguese territory and approached the Nyassaland border, burning native villages and plundering the inhabitants of food for the German depots.

The French had nothing except artillery firing in the Champagne to report in last night's official communication. The Massif de Moronvilliers attracted a heavy fire from the German guns, and the French guns as energetically replied. The British front developed only a raid on German trenches east of Richebourg l'Avoue.

The Canadians are still waiting until their gunners do the dull and monotonous work of destroying German trenches, cutting German wire and blowing to smithereens the German gun positions southwest of Lens. ewart Lyon, in a despatch fromm Canadian headquarters, says that the Canadian batteries are battering at the Mericourt-Oppy line, that it is well constructed, and that it takes about ten shells per lineal yard to cut the barbed wire when it has a thickness of thirty feet. The Germans, finding the Canadian gunfire terribly destructive, have probably already cleared out of this trench of Mericourt-Oppy and have pinned their faith on the resisting power of a series of isolated strong posts equipped with machine gun positions. The most serious of recent Canadian losses occurred when a soldier kicked a shell, causing it to explode, killing five and

The Austrians report a further increase in Russian and Rumanian artillery activity at various points along the eastern front. The German official bulletin, reporting that in several sectors of the eastern front the in 1914. fighting activity has increased, says that Russo-Rumaian attacks are exnected. The enemy, foreseeing the outcome of the appeals of notable Russians to the army to fight, is preparing German public opinion for the resumption of heavy fighting in the east. The Russian bulletins record nothing unusual.

This publication, after quoting two English newspapers to the effect that the declaration of the provisional government and the pronouncements of the revolutionary leaders show that the Russian peace formula includes and coincides with the British and French war aims, says:

"You are deceiving yourselves, gentlemen, or rather you are vainly striving to delude your fellow-countrymen concerning the real policy of the Russian revolution. The revolution will not sacrifice a single soldier to help you repair the 'historic injustices' committed against you. What about the historic injustices committed by yourselves, and your violent oppression of Ireland, India, Egypt and innumerable people inhabiting all the continents of the world? If you are so anxious for justice that you are prepared, in its name, to send millions of people to the grave, then, gentlemen, begin with yourselves."
