

use, and free of debt. Eleven were added to the church during the labors of our missionary, seven by baptism and four by experience. In closing his report, our missionary says: "It is a field that stands ready for the sickle, being ripe unto the harvest. In leaving Gravenhurst we part with people who are kind, hospitable, and generous.

In reviewing the work of the past summer, we realize what reason there is for devout thankfulness to our Heavenly Father who giveth us the increase."

Since the close of vacation both fields occupied by us during the summer have been taken up by the Home Mission Board, and are now supplied with pastors.

Thus we see that in every place where our missionaries have labored, God has blessed their efforts. This should inspire us with yet stronger determination to "go up and possess all the land, for we are able."
