RUSSIA'S MAGNA CHARTAText of the Imperial Manifesto Which Emperor Nicholas Signed Yesterday, and Which May Bring Liberty to the Russian People.THE IMPERIAL MANIFESTO.

The following is the text of the Imperial manifesto:—

"We, Nicholas the Second, by the grace of God, Emperor and Autocrat of all the Russias, Grand Duke of Finland, etc., declare to all our faithful subjects that the troubles and agitation in our capitals and in numerous other places fill our heart with excessive pain and sorrow."The happiness of the Russian sovereign is indissolubly bound up with the happiness of our people, and the sorrow of our people is the sorrow of the sovereign."From the present disorders may arise great national disruption.
They menace the integrity and unity of our empire."The supreme duty imposed upon us by our sovereign office requires us to efface ourself and to use all the force and reason at our command to hasten in securing the unity and co-ordination of the power of the central government and to assure the success of measures for pacification in all circles of public life, which are essential to the well-being of our people."We, therefore, direct our government to carry out our inflexible will in the following manner:
"First--To extend to the population the immutable foundations of civil liberty, based on real inalienability of personal freedom of conscience, speech, union and association."Second--Without suspending the already ordered elections to the state Duma, to invite to participation in the Duma, so far as the limited time before the convocation of the Duma will permit, those classes of the population now completely deprived of electoral rights, leaving the ultimate development of the principle of the electoral right in general to the newly established legislative order of things."Third--To establish an unchangeable rule that no law shall be enforceable without the approval of the state Duma, and that it shall be possible for the elected of the people to exercise real participation in the supervision of the legality of the acts of the authorities appointed by us."The government should abstain from any interference with elections of the Duma and keep in view my sincere desire for the realization of my ukase of Dec. 25, 1904. It must maintain the prestige of the Duma and have confidence in its labors, and in no way resist its decisions so long as they are not inconsistent with Russia's historic greatness."We appeal to all faithful sons of Russia to remember their duty towards the fatherland, to aid in terminating these unprecedented troubles and to apply all their forces in co-operation with us, to the restoration of calm and peace upon our natal soil.

"Given at Peterhof, Oct. 30, in the eleventh year of our reign.

"NICHOLAS."

Witte's Report to Czar.St. Petersburg, Oct. 30--Count Witte's report to the emperor, who inscribed thereon "to be taken for guide" is as follows:
"Your majesty has deigned to indicate to me directions for a government in consideration of the actual state of Russia."The agitations of human society is not the outcome of partial imperfections in the social and governmental regime or of factions organized by the extreme elements. Its roots are much deeper. It took birth in the violation of the balance between the moral aspirations and the exterior forms of Russian society."Believing that Russia aspired to have based on civil liberty, the chief problem of the government consists in making effective even before approval by the state Duma, all elements of civil liberty in the elaboration of normal legislative measures giving equality before the laws to all Russians without distinction of race or religion."The problem existing consists in the establishment of legislative forms seeming to guarantee the benefits of civil, political and economic liberty. These benefits have been extended to the masses of the people under the reserves safeguarding the laws in all civilized countries."It must be realized, then, that these objects cannot be attained immediately as no government could suddenly prepare 135,000,000 men with a vast administration for new liberties. It is, therefore, necessary to have the powers of a homogeneous government, united in its aims, taking care to put in practice the stimulating principles of liberty and to display sincerity and uprightness in its institutions."It is necessary to respect the ideals of the great majority of society and not the echoes of noisy groups and factions, too often unstable. It is especially important to secure the reform of the council of the empire on an electoral principle."I believe that in the exercise of the executive power the following principles should be embodied:—"First--Straightforwardness and sincerity in the confirmation of the civil liberty and in providing guarantees for its maintenance.

"Second--A tendency in the direction of the abolition of exclusive laws.

"Third--The co-ordination of the activity of all organs of the government."Fourth--Avoidance of repressive measures in respect of proceedings which do not openly menace society or the state, such resistance being based upon law and moral unity."Confidence must be placed in the political tact of Russian society." It is impossible that society should desire a condition of anarchy which would threaten, in addition to all the horrors of civil strife, the dismemberment of the empire."maiden, is even greater than that of the dashing lover, Frank, who is willing to lose fortune, social position and family distinction for the love of one true homely woman.
The scenes between Frank and Uncle Si in the first act, and Ruth and Frank

(Moncton Transcript.)

Notwithstanding that the trunk is in an excellent condition the expense of the I. C. R. Maintenance of Way Department, since T. C. Burpee was given full and complete charge shows a marked improvement. For September it is said, notwithstanding the additional mileage on the Canada Eastern division recently taken over, the decreased cost of maintenance exceeded $20,000 for the month compared with either of the corresponding months in September 1903 or 1904. This is an excellent showing and highly creditable to Mr. Burpee's energetic management since full responsibility was given him. The full benefit of the improvement cannot be felt this year but it evidently will yield a substantial contribution to the general improvement.Governor Herrick, the Ohio executive, was telling of a Negro camp meeting in southern Tennessee the other day."A Negro exhorter had just made a great speech," he said, "and when he got through he went down among the congregation and asked each one to come and live de army of de Lord.""He done jelled," when this question was put to him, replied:

"What'd you just asked the exhorter."

"In de Baptist Church," was the answer.

"Why, chile," said the exhorter, "you all in de army of de Lord."
