

DECLARES WIFE CALLED CURSE UPON HIS HEAD

Milton Budlong Cross-Examined by Mate in Suit for Divorce

NEWPORT, R. I., July 8.—A curse was called upon the head of Milton J. Budlong by his wife, he testified yesterday in his suit for divorce on grounds of cruelty. It was his second day of cross-examination by Mrs. Budlong, who has dismissed her remaining lawyer and is conducting her own case. Budlong also said that Mrs. Budlong was determined to be "one of the real people" in Newport society and declared to him that she would leave within a year if she did not become so. The mysterious "Mrs. X" of Mrs. Budlong's earlier suits against her husband bobbed up again yesterday, and the wife questioned the husband at length as to relations with "Mrs. X." He admitted he kept up his friendship with her, took her to the theatre and went to her apartment "many times."

"I don't know what you would say so," was the reply. In the course of the trial Mrs. Budlong asked her husband: "Did you ever say your wife was crazy?" He denied this, adding that he had advised her to see a doctor because of her nerves. He said his wife's cruelties were more acute in 1918 than previous and Mrs. Budlong refused to have her meals with him.

PLEA FOR TRAINING OF MORE FARMERS

Canadian Officials in London
Would Divert Some of Workless Dole

By HERBERT BAILEY
British United Press

LONDON, July 8.—Strong pressure is being brought to bear upon the government here by Canadian residents of Canada to divert some of the money now being spent on doles towards extending the scheme for training young men at farms in the eastern counties of England as future settlers in Canada. So far the scheme has been an undoubted success and the resident British of the Canadian Pacific Railway visited one of the farms he was much impressed by what he saw, and told those in charge that he endorsed it strongly and was of the opinion that it should receive the support of everyone.

AMERY FAVORS IT

The attitude of the government so far has been to proceed slowly, but it is understood that Col. Amery favors the scheme and would like to see support forthcoming from the Canadian Government. Hitherto the British authorities have borne the entire cost. During his trip through Canada, Lord Clarendon will take up the question of enlarging the scheme and will personally visit some of those who have come out under the plan to see how the scheme is working.

OLD COLLAR BUTTON BRINGS RELEASE

Revere Prisoner Puts up Heirloom as Security For Bail

BOSTON, Mass., July 8.—An old gold plated collar button, worth perhaps 25 cents, but highly prized by its owner, was the means of releasing from his cell in the Revere Bench police station a prisoner held for drunkenness. All of his money had been spent and the prisoner faced the prospect of being held in a couple of days for the court session.

He sent for a professional bondsman. He told him he was without funds but would put up his collar button as security for any money the bondsman might risk and to guarantee his future appearance.

"But this collar button isn't worth anything," said the bondsman. "Perhaps not to you, but to me it's worth a great deal," he replied as he fondly handled it. "That was given to me by my grandmother many years ago."

"What is it really worth to you?" asked the bondsman. "I wouldn't take $100 for it," the man behind the bars said.

The bondsman, impressed with the sincerity of the owner, went bail for him and took the button. A few hours later the erstwhile prisoner, anxious to redeem his kepiase, called upon the bondsman, paid the charges and proudly replaced the cherished collar button in his neckwear.

DIVES OUT WINDOW TO ESCAPE POLICE

Patrolman Saves Quarry by Catching Hold of Coat
Sleeve

BOSTON, Mass., July 8.—In an attempt to escape arrest on a charge of charging assault and battery and non-support, Chesley Ford, 30, of Roxbury, so dived through a window on the fourth floor of his home and was saved from probable death by Patrolman Patrick Gierthy. Just as Ford was about to fall, Gierthy grabbed his coat sleeve and held on. The crashing glass brought a crowd to the scene and cries of terror went up as they saw Ford dangling from the window and fighting to free himself from the officer's hold. Five spectators secured a ladder and placed it against the third-floor window, and the five men mounted the ladder. They called to Gierthy to drop the prisoner, and as he did so they caught Ford.

MAN WITH BROKEN NECK MAY SURVIVE

Fortitude of Massachusetts
Patient Encourages Doctors
at General Hospital

BOSTON, Mass., July 8.—Manuel A. Lewis, of Charlestown, whose neck was broken Monday when he dived into shallow water at Billerica Pond, is still living at the Massachusetts General Hospital, where he was rushed for treatment. Although physicians say the boy's life is hanging by a slender thread, his condition is not yet hopeless.

Lewis is harnessed and strapped in a fixed position with weights and pulleys attached to his shoulders, head and neck in hopes the shattered vertebrae may knit. Realizing the desperation of his situation must not cause him to despair and hinder the surgeon's work, is putting forth all the strength of will and courage at his command. Doctors say his fortitude is marvellous.

Jockey's Son Jailed For Reckless Driving

PARIS, July 8.—The Court of Appeal has upheld the decision of a lower court sentencing Frank O'Neill, son of Jockey Frank O'Neill to three months imprisonment on a charge of reckless driving.

The court also has ordered Young O'Neill to pay $50,000 francs as damages growing out of an automobile accident in August 1924. The Higher Court's decision was rendered despite withdrawal of the complaint by the plaintiffs. Five persons were injured and one man killed when Young O'Neill, driving an automobile crashed into another machine.
