lie service be placed as the dangling bait to encourage aspirants to undertake public weal work.

Without a change given to vicious minds we may yet have to place public service in the same category as our sporting life, having a professional and amateur class catering to public office.

Timber is essentially a poor-land crop. Steep slopes, poor soil, rocky land, unusual corners, gullied and wooded tracts—all these afford opportunities for growing timber profitably. A careful surveey of the average and the profitable of the survey of the average and the profitable of the survey of the average and the profitable of th ing a professional and amateur class catering to public office through the polls and yet be unable to place the amateur class above the lurking suspicion that is prevalent in the minds of those who are today responsible for seeing nothing but greed in the ing

That it is manifestly untrue of the many who go to the polls That it is manifestly untrue of the many who go to the polls, that self is the first thought can be proven and proven again, and it before you throw it away. the quicker this line of proof is presented the quicker will the call to public service be realized by the best qualified. There is all sufficient natural drawbacks to the problems of public service without impugning motives to those who are willing to make tor their unravelling and to get the of best there is the necessity of the cheer ringing out sufficiently loud to make the boo relegated to the point of extinguishment.

Anti propaganda, if you will, but this Labor Press prefers to have it called truth when placing service in its truthful plane and herewith presents a notable case:-

One of the busiest of London's citizens is Councillor W. H. Girling, Mayor of Shoreditch, who lives in Hoxton, where poverty, distress, and unemployment are so prevalent. Both the Mayor and Mayoress, the latter of whom is a Justice of the Peace and vicechairman of the Board of Guardians, have for years acted as general advisers to poor people in trouble. Posters are exhibited in the borough asking "What's your trouble? Your Mayor and Mayoress will be at the Town Hall every Wednesday, from 6 to 9 p.m., to sign pension and vaccination papers, etc., and give legal and general advice on Rents Act, etc." During the past twelve months Councillor and Mrs. Girling have dealt with over 20,000 cases. On several evenings, last winter, they had over 2,000 people asking for advice and assistance. Further, they have signed nearly 3,000 vaccination papers, and over 5,000 pension forms, and dealt with over 7,500 increase of rent cases and over 500 applications for legal advice. It has been a race against time for both of them, and out of a large number of invitations to attend receptions and dinners, they have only been able to accept one this year. It is nothing unusual for the Mayor to work 18 hours a day. Apart from being Chief Citizen, he is president of the Municipal Employees' Association, member of the Water Board, and chairman of the London Labor Mayers. Further, he holds an official position as inspector under the Public Control Department, L.C.C., the duties of which often keep him until midnight. During this year he has had over 300 prosecutions, and reported 500 serious infringements. Councillor Girling is very popular in the borough, and has been adopted as Mayor for the next twelve months. This will be his third successive year of office.

DESIRE FOR CORRECT SELECTION.

Finding the white-haired boy in the political arena was the difficult problem undertaken by the colored people of Montreal last Sunday. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Colored Political Club to determine which party the colored citizens of Montreal should support in the forthcoming Federal elections. This section of the metropolis inhabitants have quite a large number of legible voters and if they reach decision as to which party color looks best for the Dominion's good, passing it along the line to the color blind would be beneficial.
