

HANDWORK

"You might make them some paper Christmas stockings," said mother.

"Paper stockings! Why, mother!" cried Betty.

Then mother explained. She drew a pattern of a stocking like that on this page. Betty brought out a tablet of heavy paper and cut out two stockings from her pattern. With a darning needle she sewed them together, using bright red embroidery thread.

The next week every little girl and boy in the Primary Department made several paper stockings so that there were enough for all of the Beginners and the Cradle Roll babies.

Then how the pennies and nickels and dimes did find their way into those stockings! And how many little Armenian boys and girls were made happy!

Why not try Betty's plan in your Sunday school?
