"3-in-One" is a perfect lubricant for all light machinery. It goes right into the contact point of all bearings, removes dirt, reduces friction, makes every action part work better and last longer. It will not dry out, cake, turn rancid or collect dust and is the only oil on earth that positively will not gum.

"3-in-One" cleans and polishes wood or metal surfaces and prevents rust in any climate or weather. This good oil is indispensable for a hundred uses about home, shop or office. Ask any good hardvare dealer, druggist or general store. Try it yourself for:

Sewing Machines "3-in-One" lasts longer, costs less and lubricates better than any machine oil or cheap mineral oil. It won't turn rancid, gum, collect dust to soil the fabric. A little "3-in-One" will remove all dirt from the bearings and make the hand wheel, treadle, bobbin, foot, etc., of any machine, new or old, work exactly right. "3-in-One" saves time in sewing, saves the hard labor of pumping and expensive repair bills when the machine breaks down or parts wear out before they should. It's the best oil for any make of machine. Polishes the wooden case—prevents rust on all metal surfaces, particularly the nickel.

Typewriters "3-in-One" is just right for oiling all the delicate parts. It cuts away gum and grease, cleans the typefaces, prevents rust on all the metal and makes machine work faster and better. Your typewriter needs "3-in-One."

GIRS "3-in-One" makes trigger, lock and every action part work easily, accurately and without hitch. It cleans and polishes the wooden stock, prevents rust on metal parts, removes residue of burnt powder (black or smokeless) and keeps barrels bright and shiny—inside and out. Preserves the wooden stock.

Funiture Every housewife needs "3-in-One" for cleaning and polishing chairs, tables, beds, hardwood trimmings, bathroom fixtures, etc. Has no disagreeable odor and contains no grease or acid to soil or injure. One to the Porter.

He was merely a porter in the goods department. Whilst struggling to put a sack of wheat on his barrow, a clerk young enough to have been his son stood looking on. Seeing the clerk lolling against the door, the man said, "Will you please steady my truck not in the control of the control of lolling against the door, the man said, "Will you please steady my truck until I get this on?"

"I should say not!" contemptuously responded that gentleman. "I am paid for what I know, not for what I do."

Dropping the sack, the porter calmly surveyed him from his daintily-polished toe to his nicely-polished hair, and then said, quietly, "Then I'll bet you get a mighty small salary, mister."

Bobby's mother had taken him to church, to hear the evening sermon, and they occupied seats in the gallery, where there was more room than on the main floor. Bobby tried not to allow his attention to wander from the preacher, but it did. He seemed to be particularly interested in a family who sat in front of him, and when the sermon was about half over he whispered to his mother:

"Mamma, I never saw these people before but I know their name."

"Hush, dear.

"But I do," persisted Bobby. "Their name's Hill."

"Every time the preacher says his text, 'I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills,' those two big girls look at each other and smile."

Subsequent inquiry proved that Bobby was right in his guess.

A Barrack-Room Story.

Some time ago a certain regiment had an officer with a craze for gymnastics, who taught his brother subaiterns to walk round the billiard table on their hands. One evening while thus engaged the door opened, and the colonel, a martinet, appeared. Gazing attentively at the inverted company for a few seconds, he shook his head gravely, and, to the surprise of all present, departed without uttering a word. On the following morning the gymnastic omcer approached the colonel, expecting a verbal castigation.

"Hush, my dear fellow!" the colonel interrupted. "I would not let anybedy know for the world! The fact is, I was dining out with an old brother officer, and, 'pon my word, I had no idea the wine could have such an effect upon me, but when I glanced in to see how things were going on it seemed to me that I saw you all upside down!"

Tricks of the Trade.

name was Augustus Athrobald

His name was Augustus Athrobald Robinson, but in the business house where he had lately secured a position as office-boy everybody called him Jim, on the ground that his name was too long for business purposes.

He was very keen on retaining his position, so when a caller came in one day and made a violent complaint about a letter that had not been posted to him, Jim listened in terror.

"Where's that boy?" cried his employer, in a fury. "Here, you imp, take your hat and coat and get out! I'm ashamed of you! Go to the cashier and get your salary, and don't let me see you here again, you wretched little bungler."

at his home and the youth came to the door.

"You you donkey," exclaimed the visitor, do you suppose I really sacked you yesterday? Of course not! Come on back to the office; and every time a caller makes a complaint and I sack you, go round the corner till the customer's gone and then come back."

And that's how Jim started in business, grew up to be the manager of the concern, and now has an office-boy of his own whom he sacks regularly with every complaint that is made.

"Sir, I wish to marry your daughter," faltered the young man.
"You do, eh?" exclaimed the fond parent. "Well, I have been rather expecting this, and, to be thoroughly orthodox, I shall put a few questions to you.
"Do you drink?"
"No sir I abbor Mayor."

"Do you drink?"

"No, sir. I abhor liquor."

"You do, eh? Smoke?"

"I never use tobacco in any form."

"Well, I didn't suppose you ate it.

Do you frequent the race course?"

"I never saw a race horse in my life. 'I never saw a race horse in my life,

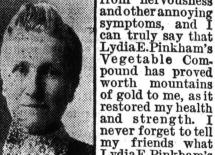

"Um-m-m. Play cards for money?"
"Emphatically no, sir."
"Well, young man, I must say you are heavily handicapped. My daughter is a thorough society girl, and I can't for the life of me see what she is going to do with you. However, it's her funeral, and if she wants to undertake the job why heaven bless you both!" the job, why, heaven bless you both!"

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine we know of has such a record of cures of female ills as has Lydia E.

Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For more than 30 years it has been curing female complaints such as inflammation, ulceration, local weak-nesses, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life. It costs but little to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and, as Mrs. Barclaysays, it is "worth mountains of gold" to suffering women.
