

"B" COMPANY

During its stay at Rockcliffe Camp the 77th Battalion marched in every direction into the country about Ottawa and old and young turned out from the countryside at the echo of the marching songs and cheered the dusty soldiers as they tramped by. To many quiet countrysides the ringing calls of the bugler brought the first call to duty and the calls were never in vain as the splendid recruiting results attained by the battalion amply testify.