CALF WITH SWOLLEN LEG.

Calf, now three weeks old, had, when born, a swelling like a spavin on left The leg is weak, and apparently causes considerable pain. The calf appeared to be improving until this morning, when I noticed that the other hind leg was badly swollen and very painful. G. W. A.

Ans .- The "calf was congenitally weak on the left leg, hence the right leg was forced to practically carry all the weight. This continuing for so long was more than it could stand, hence the present conditions. Treatment should consist in placing in slings, bathing the legs frequently with warm water, and, after bathing, rubbing well with liniment composed of 4 ounces tincture of arnica, 4 ounces laudanum, 1 ounce acetate of lead, and water to make a pint. It is questionable if it would not be wise to destroy the calf.

 ${\bf FATALITY\ IN\ FOAL\ -\ WEAK}$ LAMB.

1. Mare produced a weak foal, but it was able to rise and nurse in four hours. When about eight hours old I turned out on pasture. The day was very hot. left them out five hours, and when I brought them in the colt showed signs of sickness. It lay down, rolled on back, etc., and died in four hours.

2. Lamb, six weeks old, when hurried, loses use of hind legs and falls down. J. H., Sr.

Ans.-1. The foal was weak, and five hours' exposure to the hot sun caused digestive and brain trouble, which caused death. If mare and foal had been in shade, it is probable the foal would have gained strength and lived, but it was too young and weak for the protracted exposure to the hot sun.

2. This is partial paralysis. Keep in small enclosure, where it will not be hurried, and give 3 grains nux vomica, three times daily.

BUNCH ON ANKLE-UN-THRIFTY HEIFER.

1. Yearling colt hus a soft bunch in front of ankle. This was probably caused by striking against sill.

2. Have Holstein cow that never has done well since she was born. Last year she produced a still-born calf. She did not give much milk, and appeared stiff. She became sick and went dry an abscess formed and broke at navel and another formed between navel and udder. I lanced this one. She will be due to calve in early winter. She weighs only alout 800 lbs. F. R. Ans.-1. The cause must be removed.

You will find this lump hard and tedious iodine and iodide of potassium, and mix with four ounces each of alcohol and glycerine. Rub a little well in, once

2. This cow is, no doubt, congenitally delicate. All that you can do is take good care of her, feed well and give tonics. Give her a tablespoonful of the following, three times, daily, viz.: Equal parts sulphate of iron, gentian, ginger and nux vomica.

CAPPED ELBOW - BURSAL EN-LARGEMENTS.

1. Three-year-old colt, shod two weeks ago, has a lump resembling a shoe boil on elbow.

2. Four-year-old mare has puffs on fetlocks. Give cause and cure. A. S. Ans. 1. This is called capped elbows, and is caused by the mare lying with elbow resting on shoe. Treatment conescape of the liquid it contains, and then carbolic acid solution in water. Of course, the cause must be removed, either by using a show-boil roll, which can be ciently large (say four inches in diameter, to keep the elbow off the shoe, or else getting her shod with light plates.

2. This puffs are caused by working or drivin. They are very hard to reeach of rodine and rodid of potassium, and 4 somes each of glycrine and alco-ted and into a little well in once daily.
