

THE COURIER. THURSDAY, OCTOBER 2, 1851.

We understand that considerable dissatisfaction has been expressed among the Government people regarding the amount of money secured by them for the purpose of paying their expenses from Toronto to Quebec.

the bill of St. Sepulchre tolled almost every morning. There is only this difference, that the unfortunate culprit at Newgate was suffering their lives to a sanguinary law, which was hanging them for stealing or otherwise defrauding the value of a shilling; whereas the most reckless villains that ever disgraced the name of humanity, it is certainly not a very comfortable state of society, nor does it give a very alluring picture of the model Republic, to find eight men at once arraigned for murder in one city, and out of that number three already tried and condemned to death.

Mr. Gough's Lecture. This gentleman spoke to a crowded audience last evening, and the lecture was characterized by all the speaker's usual ability and force of argument against the indulgence of his particular vice of intemperance. It may be safely affirmed, we think, that intemperance has proved a greater enemy to human life and happiness than pestilence and famine-famine.

On Duty. The London Correspondent of the N. Y. Herald of Commerce says that, when lately he heard from a gentleman in the French Foreign Office, that Sir Henry Bulwer will be transferred from the United States to the Embassy at Paris; and that Lord Napier, the present Minister, will go out to India as Governor-General to replace him.

THE LITERARY GARDEN. We have just received the Literary Garden for October, which is got up this month in rather more than its usual form. It contains a continuation of "Pinaud" and "The Gleaner," with several other interesting articles on various subjects, both in prose and verse. The steady progress of his literary career, which has been so long and so successful, is a source of admiration to all who are acquainted with his name.

Competitive on Constitution was read, but no great effect was produced. There had been some scattered notices in the papers, but they were not in any degree of importance. It is only lately that the public mind has been brought to the consideration of this subject. There has been an improved opinion of the value of the human body, and there is a general feeling that the human body is a temple, and should be treated as such.
