

Stores differ ! One has taste; another has not. One has versatility; another has not. One has credit; another has not. The one is sought after eagerly by the best sellers of everything; the other may seek the best but has to content itself with the worst, and pays slowly and dearly for that.

You'll go amiss if you take for granted that stores are alike, that clothing is alike, that the ways of selling are alike. Years of honorable, fair storekeeping and persistent, steady growth go to prove that this business is on the right side of every comparison. We've worked hard to maintain a principle for integrity and a reputation for liberality that can't easily be discounted; and we make this our business-that it shall be to your interest to deal with us and keep on dealing.

Sometimes we almost think you don't know how good a store we've got. It may be still better before you find it out.

We use old methods. We invent newones. We've honest goods and we face the people with strong words and guarantees. What we mean to emphasize is that you run no possible risk in buying here. We feel we can afford to look after our customers' interests as well as our own
