A Summary of the Distinguished Converts to Catholicity.

From the Boston Pilot.

Any person, Catholic or Protestant, who has watched the progress of the Church in Great Britain, and who has perused carefully the long list published by the Whitehall Review, of distinguished persons who have abjured the errors of Protestantism and entered the saving fold of Catholicity, cannot fail to be impressed by the eminent array of names thus presented. In the list already published by the Whitehall Review, of "Converts to Catholicity with the present generation," we find, among hundreds of others, the names of distinguished persons as follows:—Lord, 17; Bishops, 7; Doctors, 2; Marquis, 1; Baronets, 13; Counsellors, 14; Duchesses, 5; Marchionesses, 5; Lady (title), 61; D. L. D. (Doctor of Laws), 3; Ph. D. (Doctor of Philosophy), 2; M. D. (Doctor of Medicine), 16; D. D. (Doctor of Divinity), 4; M. R. A. M. (Member Royal Academy of Music), 2; F. S. A. (Fellow of the Society of Arts), 2; E. A. S. (Member Royal Asiatic Society), 2; B. A. (Bachelor of Arts), 63; C. B. (Knight Commander of the Bath), 1; F. R. S. (Fellow of the Royal Society), 1; Admirals, 3; Generals, 6; Colonels, 13; Majors, 3; Captains, 38; Lieutenants, 5; Judges, 2; Lawyers, 23; Honorables, 12; Authors, 32; Publishers, 23; Scientists, 13.

In addition to the foregoing, the list contains the names of many Protestant ministers, who, since their conversion, have become Catholic priests. This list is by no means complete as regards the number of Protestant clergymen who have been received into the Church during the present generation. It is, however, valuable as an index to the gigantic work of the Church in making the hearts and minds of these "wanderers from their Father's House."

Among the converts who have become priests, one, Henry Edward Manning, is now Cardinal-Archbishop of Westminster. Three have been raised to the dignity of Bishops, three have been made Papal Chamberlains, while seven have received the rank of Canon.

A large proportion of those entering the priesthood, have preferred the Society of Jesus; while many have joined the Dominicans, Franciscans, and other Orders. Among the more remarkable conversions may be cited that of William Bond and family, of Cornwall. This gentleman and eight children, all of whom have entered the religious state, the four sons becoming priests, and the four daughters nuns. Another remarkable conversion was that of the Superiress and six Sisters of a Protestant Priory, all of whom are now Catholic nuns.

Among the other notable converts may be mentioned the Hon. Mrs. B. H. Jones, a grand-daughter of Sir Walter Scott, a son-in-law of Marryat, the novelist, a sister-in-law, a niece, and a nephew of the anti-Catholic historian, James Anthony Froude, a cousin and a sister of the experienced Editor of the Standard, Mr. B. H. Jones, and the Hon. Mrs. B. H. Jones, the Editor of the Tablet, Freeman's Journal, Dublin Review, and several contributors to the Contemporary Review.

Jerry Mauley's Meeting.

From New York World.

All the little dens of Water street were yawning wide open last night, and the great throngs of people, Jerry Mauley's Mission Chapel, where a large congregation were celebrating the sixth Anniversary of Mr. Mauley's advent as a missionary in that benighted region. Every man who passed by his way to the chapel was attracted by the throngs of people of the region. The front door of the chapel was wide open, and for a distance of at least two blocks around the opening hymn, as sung by the whole congregation, could be heard.

There is a fountain filled with blood, Drawn from Emmanuel's side, And sinners plunged beneath that flood, Lose all their guilty stains.

The Chapel was well filled, and a few drunken sailors looked on from positions near the door. Some of them were induced by the polite ushers to go forward and take seats. Jerry Mauley sat behind the reading desk at the end of the hall and Miss Whittemore sat at the little organ, being flanked on either side by the members of the choir. The service was brief, the history of the work that had been done since the mission was opened in the old building which formerly stood on that corner, and after some more singing, said that the next half hour would be given up to converts to relate their past experiences.

"I suppose I was as bad a drunkard as there was in the Fourth Ward," said one speaker, a plain but neatly dressed Irish workman. "I never used to work until I was fagged to death, and when I got a dollar from me employers I went off and got drunk. Then me and me wife got converted, and the change that came over our home was wonderful. When lady Mauley first came to visit me I was a dirty ragged and living in a dirty little hole. She would not recognize the place if she came to see me now."

"I was a thafe an' a gambler an' a liar, an' a drunkard," said the next man, "but finally I got reformed, and I came here an' got converted. By profession I was a coachman, and was employed by Mr. Aspinwall and others. From driving rich people I saved up $2,300, but then I took to drinking and spent all me money. Then I had to state, an' finally I got reformed, an' what you calls the State's Prison, where I was sint for seven years. But now I've got a good home, good employment, an' it's the Lord that kapes me from drink and stealing."

The well-dressed intelligent-looking young man said that he had
