

CHINESE FOOD.

A writer on China mentions that the modes of living among the Chinese are exceedingly curious, differing materially according to the rank and wealth of the people; but that the extremes of luxury and misery are no where more ludicrously contrasted. Those who can afford to purchase rare and expensive delicacies, grade no cost for them, as is proved by the price paid for edible birds' nests.

LORD JOHN RUSSEL AND THE WAR QUESTION.

It appears from the explanations made by Lord John Russell in the House of Commons, on Tuesday last, that the Turkish question is not yet so thoroughly settled as the world has been led to believe. There is however little or no reason to doubt that the dispute will speedily be arranged.

ON SAMSON'S CATCHING THE FOXES.

As to the Animal the Sacred historian has specifically in view in this passage, among naturalists, and also among commentators, there has been diversity of opinion. The original word is fox, which our translators have understood to be the same with "fox," and for the most part, they have so rendered the Hebrew; but there are passages wherein they simply transfer the original, i. e., Nab. 27. Hama; Shul. i. c. enclosure of the fox.

TEMPERANCE.

Dear Sir,—As my communication in answer to the great charges lately preferred against me by Mr. John J. Pippy, was not published in your last issue; perhaps it may be better to let it "remain in type," and substitute in your next, an extract from the Christian News on Mr. John B. Gough's Debts in Exeter Hall.

THE SUPPLY OF GUANO.—A correspondent of the Times states that an immense deposit of guano has been discovered in the Indian ocean. The deposit is reported to be immense, the island being 30 miles long by 7 broad, and thus 40 times the size of Ichnoboe.

STEAM POWER ON FARMS.—The Marquis of Tweeddale has succeeded perfectly in working ploughs by steam power. The distinguished English agriculturist, Mr. Mechi, in a late article says: "There can be no doubt but that very shortly every agriculturist must use steam-power if he is to stand his ground in the race of agricultural competition."

FALL WEB-WORMS.—This species of caterpillars has been very destructive this season; and, says the Boston Journal, their nests may now be seen in abundance in the cherry, apple, pear, and elm trees, in our orchards, pastures, and gardens—notwithstanding they may be easily removed, and the unsightly excrescence which their labours produce, plucked off.

APPLE.—An English publication of 1815, contains an article, entitled "An effectual method of retaining good apples in the country without grafting," from which we extract the following:—"In every perfectly ripe apple there will be found one, and sometimes two round seeds; the others will have one or more flattened sides. The round ones will produce the improved fruit from which they are taken; and those with flattened sides will produce the fruit of the crab, upon which the graft was inserted.

We mentioned the other day that the people in Iowa used Shanghai chickens to plough with. We have since learned that a gentleman in Ohio carries matters still further, and is now breaking a rooster to the saddle. He meets with very excellent success, having done on Friday last, a mile in 2.35. P.S.—There is an advantage the chickens possess over the horse; the latter you have to spur, while the former spur themselves.

Nearly every barrel of flour used in Cuba, is imported from Spain, the duty upon American flour being nine dollars a barrel.

THE REAL SMOKE NUISANCE.—We must confess that our objection to the Smoke Nuisance does not extend so much to the honest chimney pot or private life, or to the tall smoke evolving structure of manufacturing industry, as to that useless and disgusting object, the street smoker who puffs his "cheap and nasty" cigar in the faces of innocent passengers.

MOST MUSICAL, MOST DIPLOMATIC.—We are particularly happy in being the first to state that the Earl of Westmoreland, our illustrious ambassador at the Court of Vienna, is busily engaged composing a new March of Intellect for the Emperor of Austria.—Punch.

FUN AND FACT.—"Those sewing machines are great inventions," said a friend to a wag. "Yes, sir," said he, readily, "so it seems."

MR. J. B. GOUGH IN LONDON. Mr. Gough, the celebrated advocate of the temperance cause in America, invited to this country by the committee of the London Temperance League, arrived in Liverpool, on the "America," on Sunday week. On Monday he and his lady arrived at the Easton Square Railway station, where they were received by the gentlemen of the League Committee, and conducted to the private residence of George Cruikshank, Esq., where they were met by a large party of the temperance movement.

THE REAL SMOKE NUISANCE.—We must confess that our objection to the Smoke Nuisance does not extend so much to the honest chimney pot or private life, or to the tall smoke evolving structure of manufacturing industry, as to that useless and disgusting object, the street smoker who puffs his "cheap and nasty" cigar in the faces of innocent passengers.

MOST MUSICAL, MOST DIPLOMATIC.—We are particularly happy in being the first to state that the Earl of Westmoreland, our illustrious ambassador at the Court of Vienna, is busily engaged composing a new March of Intellect for the Emperor of Austria.—Punch.

FUN AND FACT.—"Those sewing machines are great inventions," said a friend to a wag. "Yes, sir," said he, readily, "so it seems."

MR. J. B. GOUGH IN LONDON. Mr. Gough, the celebrated advocate of the temperance cause in America, invited to this country by the committee of the London Temperance League, arrived in Liverpool, on the "America," on Sunday week. On Monday he and his lady arrived at the Easton Square Railway station, where they were received by the gentlemen of the League Committee, and conducted to the private residence of George Cruikshank, Esq., where they were met by a large party of the temperance movement.

THE REAL SMOKE NUISANCE.—We must confess that our objection to the Smoke Nuisance does not extend so much to the honest chimney pot or private life, or to the tall smoke evolving structure of manufacturing industry, as to that useless and disgusting object, the street smoker who puffs his "cheap and nasty" cigar in the faces of innocent passengers.

MOST MUSICAL, MOST DIPLOMATIC.—We are particularly happy in being the first to state that the Earl of Westmoreland, our illustrious ambassador at the Court of Vienna, is busily engaged composing a new March of Intellect for the Emperor of Austria.—Punch.

FUN AND FACT.—"Those sewing machines are great inventions," said a friend to a wag. "Yes, sir," said he, readily, "so it seems."

MR. J. B. GOUGH IN LONDON. Mr. Gough, the celebrated advocate of the temperance cause in America, invited to this country by the committee of the London Temperance League, arrived in Liverpool, on the "America," on Sunday week. On Monday he and his lady arrived at the Easton Square Railway station, where they were received by the gentlemen of the League Committee, and conducted to the private residence of George Cruikshank, Esq., where they were met by a large party of the temperance movement.

THE REAL SMOKE NUISANCE.—We must confess that our objection to the Smoke Nuisance does not extend so much to the honest chimney pot or private life, or to the tall smoke evolving structure of manufacturing industry, as to that useless and disgusting object, the street smoker who puffs his "cheap and nasty" cigar in the faces of innocent passengers.

MOST MUSICAL, MOST DIPLOMATIC.—We are particularly happy in being the first to state that the Earl of Westmoreland, our illustrious ambassador at the Court of Vienna, is busily engaged composing a new March of Intellect for the Emperor of Austria.—Punch.

FUN AND FACT.—"Those sewing machines are great inventions," said a friend to a wag. "Yes, sir," said he, readily, "so it seems."

stood at Ashblen as he did at Gann and Ashblen. This golden supposition to exercise much influence over productions, and prosperity, in general, was propitiated for her blessing upon the labor of the husbandman, Cakes, bread, flowers, and libations, constituted her worship. Jer. 44: 17-19; and Chap. 7, 18. Samson then, by this one trick, turns themselves and their goddess into a state of starvation and disgrace. It is, may be, not fanciful, to suppose, that the peculiar nature of the slight cast upon him by his father-in-law, may have suggested this peculiar mode of punishment. If they would treat the wife of Israel's Chief so, and substitute in your next, an extract from the Christian News on Mr. John B. Gough's Debts in Exeter Hall.

TEMPERANCE.

Dear Sir,—As my communication in answer to the great charges lately preferred against me by Mr. John J. Pippy, was not published in your last issue; perhaps it may be better to let it "remain in type," and substitute in your next, an extract from the Christian News on Mr. John B. Gough's Debts in Exeter Hall.

MR. J. B. GOUGH IN LONDON. Mr. Gough, the celebrated advocate of the temperance cause in America, invited to this country by the committee of the London Temperance League, arrived in Liverpool, on the "America," on Sunday week. On Monday he and his lady arrived at the Easton Square Railway station, where they were received by the gentlemen of the League Committee, and conducted to the private residence of George Cruikshank, Esq., where they were met by a large party of the temperance movement.

THE REAL SMOKE NUISANCE.—We must confess that our objection to the Smoke Nuisance does not extend so much to the honest chimney pot or private life, or to the tall smoke evolving structure of manufacturing industry, as to that useless and disgusting object, the street smoker who puffs his "cheap and nasty" cigar in the faces of innocent passengers.

MOST MUSICAL, MOST DIPLOMATIC.—We are particularly happy in being the first to state that the Earl of Westmoreland, our illustrious ambassador at the Court of Vienna, is busily engaged composing a new March of Intellect for the Emperor of Austria.—Punch.

FUN AND FACT.—"Those sewing machines are great inventions," said a friend to a wag. "Yes, sir," said he, readily, "so it seems."

MR. J. B. GOUGH IN LONDON. Mr. Gough, the celebrated advocate of the temperance cause in America, invited to this country by the committee of the London Temperance League, arrived in Liverpool, on the "America," on Sunday week. On Monday he and his lady arrived at the Easton Square Railway station, where they were received by the gentlemen of the League Committee, and conducted to the private residence of George Cruikshank, Esq., where they were met by a large party of the temperance movement.

THE REAL SMOKE NUISANCE.—We must confess that our objection to the Smoke Nuisance does not extend so much to the honest chimney pot or private life, or to the tall smoke evolving structure of manufacturing industry, as to that useless and disgusting object, the street smoker who puffs his "cheap and nasty" cigar in the faces of innocent passengers.

MOST MUSICAL, MOST DIPLOMATIC.—We are particularly happy in being the first to state that the Earl of Westmoreland, our illustrious ambassador at the Court of Vienna, is busily engaged composing a new March of Intellect for the Emperor of Austria.—Punch.

FUN AND FACT.—"Those sewing machines are great inventions," said a friend to a wag. "Yes, sir," said he, readily, "so it seems."

temperance that could be won. (Cheers.) Other men had had statues erected to their memories because of the thousands they had slain. Mr. Gough had the merit of being instrumental in the extinction of thousands. (Cheers.) In the name of that large audience, as well as in his own name, he welcomed him to the metropolis. And if, as a nation, we rejoiced in breaking down every barrier in the way of free commerce, how much more should we rejoice when meeting to promote reciprocity of feeling and of heart. They (the audience) could not but be proud of that opportunity of welcoming a man who had been so signally successful in the land of his adoption, and who had come to render benefit to his countrymen on this side of the Atlantic.

TEMPERANCE.

Dear Sir,—As my communication in answer to the great charges lately preferred against me by Mr. John J. Pippy, was not published in your last issue; perhaps it may be better to let it "remain in type," and substitute in your next, an extract from the Christian News on Mr. John B. Gough's Debts in Exeter Hall.

MR. J. B. GOUGH IN LONDON. Mr. Gough, the celebrated advocate of the temperance cause in America, invited to this country by the committee of the London Temperance League, arrived in Liverpool, on the "America," on Sunday week. On Monday he and his lady arrived at the Easton Square Railway station, where they were received by the gentlemen of the League Committee, and conducted to the private residence of George Cruikshank, Esq., where they were met by a large party of the temperance movement.

THE REAL SMOKE NUISANCE.—We must confess that our objection to the Smoke Nuisance does not extend so much to the honest chimney pot or private life, or to the tall smoke evolving structure of manufacturing industry, as to that useless and disgusting object, the street smoker who puffs his "cheap and nasty" cigar in the faces of innocent passengers.

MOST MUSICAL, MOST DIPLOMATIC.—We are particularly happy in being the first to state that the Earl of Westmoreland, our illustrious ambassador at the Court of Vienna, is busily engaged composing a new March of Intellect for the Emperor of Austria.—Punch.

FUN AND FACT.—"Those sewing machines are great inventions," said a friend to a wag. "Yes, sir," said he, readily, "so it seems."

MR. J. B. GOUGH IN LONDON. Mr. Gough, the celebrated advocate of the temperance cause in America, invited to this country by the committee of the London Temperance League, arrived in Liverpool, on the "America," on Sunday week. On Monday he and his lady arrived at the Easton Square Railway station, where they were received by the gentlemen of the League Committee, and conducted to the private residence of George Cruikshank, Esq., where they were met by a large party of the temperance movement.

THE REAL SMOKE NUISANCE.—We must confess that our objection to the Smoke Nuisance does not extend so much to the honest chimney pot or private life, or to the tall smoke evolving structure of manufacturing industry, as to that useless and disgusting object, the street smoker who puffs his "cheap and nasty" cigar in the faces of innocent passengers.

MOST MUSICAL, MOST DIPLOMATIC.—We are particularly happy in being the first to state that the Earl of Westmoreland, our illustrious ambassador at the Court of Vienna, is busily engaged composing a new March of Intellect for the Emperor of Austria.—Punch.

FUN AND FACT.—"Those sewing machines are great inventions," said a friend to a wag. "Yes, sir," said he, readily, "so it seems."

comprising every species that is to be found upon the globe; and willing to go to the best account, in every respect. It is shown that with an annual, the possession of a day of more importance than the United States; and that we can possibly not but be generous in us to participate in it. Now, Republic in us, perhaps, the last among governments, generous sentiments are therefore, yet, we justly expect a just principles of justice; a sinner ourselves safe from lation of the treaty, on States. Like Holland, like England, like the United States, like that of an exclusive character, will be and not to concede remaining to be seen who of free trade, which in first commercial nation desired equally applied America. And of this, only is required for it. In the mean time, the Duke Shubrick will be, almost importance to of mutual and reciprocal United States and on with him, will have a judging how much it is the Republic, under w upon a free and unres growing people, who articles in the latest exchange for those nee life, to foster and encour manufacturers of which with the States. The cannot be discussed too for it will in the en one, objections, hither will be surmounted, an been standing in the p removed, with an ease under whose auspices place.

TEMPERANCE.

Dear Sir,—As my communication in answer to the great charges lately preferred against me by Mr. John J. Pippy, was not published in your last issue; perhaps it may be better to let it "remain in type," and substitute in your next, an extract from the Christian News on Mr. John B. Gough's Debts in Exeter Hall.

MR. J. B. GOUGH IN LONDON. Mr. Gough, the celebrated advocate of the temperance cause in America, invited to this country by the committee of the London Temperance League, arrived in Liverpool, on the "America," on Sunday week. On Monday he and his lady arrived at the Easton Square Railway station, where they were received by the gentlemen of the League Committee, and conducted to the private residence of George Cruikshank, Esq., where they were met by a large party of the temperance movement.

THE REAL SMOKE NUISANCE.—We must confess that our objection to the Smoke Nuisance does not extend so much to the honest chimney pot or private life, or to the tall smoke evolving structure of manufacturing industry, as to that useless and disgusting object, the street smoker who puffs his "cheap and nasty" cigar in the faces of innocent passengers.

MOST MUSICAL, MOST DIPLOMATIC.—We are particularly happy in being the first to state that the Earl of Westmoreland, our illustrious ambassador at the Court of Vienna, is busily engaged composing a new March of Intellect for the Emperor of Austria.—Punch.

FUN AND FACT.—"Those sewing machines are great inventions," said a friend to a wag. "Yes, sir," said he, readily, "so it seems."

MR. J. B. GOUGH IN LONDON. Mr. Gough, the celebrated advocate of the temperance cause in America, invited to this country by the committee of the London Temperance League, arrived in Liverpool, on the "America," on Sunday week. On Monday he and his lady arrived at the Easton Square Railway station, where they were received by the gentlemen of the League Committee, and conducted to the private residence of George Cruikshank, Esq., where they were met by a large party of the temperance movement.

THE REAL SMOKE NUISANCE.—We must confess that our objection to the Smoke Nuisance does not extend so much to the honest chimney pot or private life, or to the tall smoke evolving structure of manufacturing industry, as to that useless and disgusting object, the street smoker who puffs his "cheap and nasty" cigar in the faces of innocent passengers.

MOST MUSICAL, MOST DIPLOMATIC.—We are particularly happy in being the first to state that the Earl of Westmoreland, our illustrious ambassador at the Court of Vienna, is busily engaged composing a new March of Intellect for the Emperor of Austria.—Punch.

FUN AND FACT.—"Those sewing machines are great inventions," said a friend to a wag. "Yes, sir," said he, readily, "so it seems."

Advertisement for Equitable Fire Insurance, including details about capital, policies, and contact information for the company.