MOTION MADE TO JAIL COUNCILLORS
West Nissouri School Case Is Again Warming Up.
The fight in connection with the West Nissouri continuation school case will come up before Mr. Justice Middleton in Hamilton Wednesday next and unless the school board members take steps immediately to reopen the school after the Christmas vacation, a motion, will be made, it is stated, to commit them to jail. W. R. Meredith of this city was in Toronto in connection with the case yesterday. He made a motion for the commitment of the councillors for their failure to obey a mandatory order by Mr. Justice Sutcliffe, but counsel secured an adjournment on the ground that a special meeting would be held Saturday to obey the court's order.

What's Doing in London Churches
Congregational News of Interest to All Denominations in the City.
The annual missionary campaign of the London Methodist district will be brought to a close tomorrow, when special offerings for missions will be taken in all of the churches.
A number of visitors from Toronto will preach in local churches, including Rev. Dr. James Endicott, general secretary of missions of the Canadian Methodist Church and his assistant, Rev. J. H. Arup. Rev. Dr. Endicott will preach in the morning in the First Methodist Church and in the evening in Askin Street Methodist Church. Mr. Arup is taking the morning service in Colborne Street Church and the evening in the First Methodist.
Rev. James Allen, general secretary of home missions, is preaching in the morning in Dundas Centre Church and in the evening in Wellington Street Methodist.
Rev. C. E. Manning, field secretary of the home department preaches in the morning in Askin Street Church and in the evening in Dundas Centre Church.
Rev. R. E. S. Taylor, returned missionary from West China, will be heard in the evening in the Empress Avenue Church.
Rev. D. N. McCamus, president of the London Conference, preaches in the evening in Ridout Street Methodist.
Rev. A. J. Elson, B. A., B. D., returned missionary from China, will preach in the morning in Lambeth, the afternoon in Hyde Park and the evening in St. John's.
ANSWERING FATHER RICHARDS.
In Hale Street Methodist Church on Sunday evening, Rev. B. Shell is preaching on a subject which will doubtless attract attention, "Where is God?" in answer to Rev. Father Richards.
Rev. H. Boyd will not let the sermon preached last Sunday evening in St. Mary's Church go unchallenged. Tomorrow evening, from his own pulpit, Adelaide Street Church, he is preaching on "Where is God? and Who Should Perform It?" This is an answer to "a recent sermon."

DEMAND FOR WAR BOOKS
AT PUBLIC LIBRARY BIG
Over 1,000 Volumes on Subject Issued in Month—More New Books.
London people are keeping well informed on the war, judging by the demand for books relating to the great struggle at the public library, where this class was issued to the number of more than 1,000 during the last month. There is demand for both the lively narratives of the soldiers who have come through and the more sober review of operations by writers like Hilaire Belloc and John Buchan. The war is already proving a source of material for the leading writers. Mr. Wells, in his "Mr. Britling Sees It Through" has produced what the New York Times declares is the leading book of the year. It is not a story of adventure or romance, but rather a study of the changes of mind in a sober Englishman who finds his social surroundings completely changed by war conditions. It is a book that will probably be read for a long time to come.
The following are the new books that have been added at the public library and that are now in circulation:
Philosophy, Religion and Society—Hilaire Belloc; The Evolution of Man, Palmyre For All; Schopenhauer's Essays; Law, The Grand Adventure; Law, The Grand Adventure; The Days of School; Tarbell, Teachers' Guide, 1917; Cleveland, Great Revival in the West; Great, Organized Labor in America; Drummond, True Detective Stories; Bourne, The Great School; MacMurphy, The Woman, Bless Her; Izet, Maori Lore; Reports of the Cleveland Educational Survey, 25 volumes that deal with all phases of the public school work of a large city.
Science, Useful and Fine Arts—Thompson, Elementary Lessons in Electricity; Rusey, Mineralogy; Fabre, Life of the Caterpillar; Anderson, Prospector's Handbook; Hamilton, High Explosive Shell Manufacture; Bek, Aerial Russia; Barton, Gun Dogs, Hounds, Terriers; Rexford, A B C of Gardening; Brimton, Impressions of the Panama Exposition; Wells, Jolly Plays for Holidays.
Literature—Alexander, Platform Sketches; Werner, Readings and Recitations (nine volumes); Guiney, Head of Living; Aldrich, Told in a French Garden; Smith, O. Henry Biography; Ashmead, Poems from the Press; Service, Rhymes of a Red Cross Man; Watson, Love and the Universe; Norwood, Witch of Endor; Leacock, Literary Lapses; Dobson, Collected Poems; Cornish, Memories of Robert Hugh Benson; Travel and History—Graham, Way of Martha and Way of Mary; Reade, Finland and the Finns; Bartlett, Last Voyage of the Karfik; Corbett-Smith, Retirement from Mons; Kitchin, Diary of a French Army Chaplain; Livingston, Under Three Flags; Simonds, They Shall Not Pass; Swetser, Roadside Glimpses of the Great War; Vachon, Napoleon at Work; Skelton, Canadian Railway Builders; Bridle, Sons of Canada; Porter, Campaigning with Grant; Porter, Along the Imperial Highway.
Fiction—Biggers, The Agony Column; Cannon, Three Pretty Men; Culnan, Men Who Wrought; Dodge, Skinner's Dress Suit; England, Pod, Bender & Co.; Gray, The World Mender; Gray, Riders of the Purple Sage; Hannah, Quaker Born; LeBlanc, Woman of Mystery; LeQueux, Zepplin Destroyer; Locke, Wonder Year; London, Turtles of Tasman; Martin, Emmy Lou's Road to Grace; Mordant, Park Wall; Orey, Leatherface; Radziwill, Because; The Written Roberts; The High Woods; Rome, Devil Doctor; Wells, Mr. Britling Sees It Through; Wharton, Xingu and Other Stories; Wiggins, Romance of a Christmas Card.

FIELD PUNISHMENT GIVEN IN LIEU OF DEATH PENALTY
Severe Because Only Used in Extreme Cases of Misbehavior by Soldiers.
Field punishment in the army is a practice which meets with the disapproval of a great many people, who usually are not very familiar with its details or the circumstances under which it is administered.
It is adjudged necessary only in the rarest instances, and is really given often in lieu of the death sentence. A man who has been guilty of drunkenness in the presence of the enemy, or who refuses to obey the command of a superior officer, who assaults a superior officer, gives away information to the enemy, or who is guilty of any one of a number of equally culpable offences in the presence of the enemy, may suffer the death penalty. But if the court-martial or commanding officer sees fit in the particular circumstances, the man may be given No. 1 or No. 2 field punishment in lieu thereof. In any case, it is a sign that the man has been guilty of a very serious offence, and one that he has no reason whatever to be proud of.
If the man has been awarded No. 1 field punishment, he may:
(a) Be kept in irons;
(b) Be attached by straps, irons or ropes for not more than two hours in any one day to a fixed object. Must not be attached for more than three out of four consecutive days, or for more than 21 days in all;
(c) May be made to labor as if he were undergoing imprisonment with hard labor.
If the man is awarded No. 2 field punishment he may not be treated as in "b."
Soldiers, as is usually the case, have their own name for the practice. It is known as "conclusion," owing to the fact that the man is tied standing up with his hands extended. While it is a most uncomfortable attitude, the man is generally satisfied to endure the discomfort rather than accept the extreme penalty.

Over 1,000 Volumes on Subject Issued in Month—More New Books.
London people are keeping well informed on the war, judging by the demand for books relating to the great struggle at the public library, where this class was issued to the number of more than 1,000 during the last month. There is demand for both the lively narratives of the soldiers who have come through and the more sober review of operations by writers like Hilaire Belloc and John Buchan. The war is already proving a source of material for the leading writers. Mr. Wells, in his "Mr. Britling Sees It Through" has produced what the New York Times declares is the leading book of the year. It is not a story of adventure or romance, but rather a study of the changes of mind in a sober Englishman who finds his social surroundings completely changed by war conditions. It is a book that will probably be read for a long time to come.
The following are the new books that have been added at the public library and that are now in circulation:
Philosophy, Religion and Society—Hilaire Belloc; The Evolution of Man, Palmyre For All; Schopenhauer's Essays; Law, The Grand Adventure; Law, The Grand Adventure; The Days of School; Tarbell, Teachers' Guide, 1917; Cleveland, Great Revival in the West; Great, Organized Labor in America; Drummond, True Detective Stories; Bourne, The Great School; MacMurphy, The Woman, Bless Her; Izet, Maori Lore; Reports of the Cleveland Educational Survey, 25 volumes that deal with all phases of the public school work of a large city.
Science, Useful and Fine Arts—Thompson, Elementary Lessons in Electricity; Rusey, Mineralogy; Fabre, Life of the Caterpillar; Anderson, Prospector's Handbook; Hamilton, High Explosive Shell Manufacture; Bek, Aerial Russia; Barton, Gun Dogs, Hounds, Terriers; Rexford, A B C of Gardening; Brimton, Impressions of the Panama Exposition; Wells, Jolly Plays for Holidays.
