A SIN TO LET HAIR FALL OUT

35c "Danderine" Saves Your Hair—Ends Dandruff! Delightful Tonic

Hurry! It's your duty! Each day you see a little more hair falling out and you are making no effort to avoid baldness. What a pity. Falling hair means your hair is weak, sick—possibly—dandruff is strangling it, or the hair root pores in the scalp are not firm and tight, thus wasting the hair-growing oils.
Danderine almost instantly stops falling hair of men or women and keeps every particle of dandruff away, then the hair takes on new vigor and strength to grow long, thick and long.
Danderine is delightful—not sticky greasy. Go to any drug store now and get a bottle. Use it. Have healthy, heavy, beautiful hair and stop balding. Adv.

MAYOR RAVEN AGAIN ELECTED AT ST. THOMAS

Chief Magistrate of Flower City Returned by Acclamation Route.

LIVELY FIGHTS PROMISED

St. Thomas, Nov. 27.—At one of the quietest nominations on record, Monday morning, Charles E. Raven was re-elected mayor of St. Thomas for 1923 by acclamation. No opposition appeared on the scene and none was discussed. One prominent elector was heard to remark that there was unlikely to be any person enter the mayoralty field to get slaughtered.

The mayor's was the only acclamation, however. There promises to be lively fights for the vacancies on the hydro-electric and water commissions and the Amasa Wood Hospital Trust. Lieut.-Col. William J. Green, the retiring hydro commissioner, is in the race again and is being opposed by Michael J. McManus, Rosebery Place, a conductor in the employ of the Pere Marquette Railroad. For the water commissioner, three candidates were nominated, ex-Mayor George Geddes, the retiring commissioner; James L. Thompson, merchant tailor, Ross street, and Frederick C. Bell, lumber merchant, William W. Scott, Michigan Central Railroad engineer, was nominated to oppose ex-Mayor E. A. Horton for the vacancy in the Amasa Wood Hospital Trust.
It is believed that all the candidates who have been nominated will remain in the field. They have until nine o'clock Tuesday evening to qualify. City Solicitor W. B. Doherty reported.

Trades and Labor Party.
Officers and members of the St. Thomas Trades and Labor Council were largely responsible for the opposition that has been placed in the field, the president, Walter Peterson, being present throughout the meeting. The organization, however, will issue a slate of candidates, but will require all their candidates to run on their individual merits.
It looked very much as if ex-Mayor Horton would be returned to the hospital trust by acclamation. Mr. Scott's name being placed in nomination two minutes before the closing hour, and a second for Mr. Thompson's nomination for the water commission did not appear until the time limit had nearly expired. Aid. William Stokes seconded Mr. Thompson's nomination, which was moved by Mr. Peterson.

Ex-Mayor's Nominate.
A pleasing tribute was paid to Mayor Raven in his nomination. Ex-Mayor Horton was the first to sign the paper, while ex-Mayor William Trotter seconded it. The mayor's was the first nomination made.
For Mayor (Acclamation).
Charles E. Raven, shoe merchant, by E. A. Horton and William Trotter. For Hydro-Electric Commission. William J. Green, lumber merchant, by A. E. Horton and William Trotter.
Michael J. McManus, railway conductor, by Zack Rowland and Walter Peterson.
For Water Commission. George Geddes, insurance agent, by William Trotter and E. A. Horton. James L. Thompson, merchant tailor, by Walter Peterson and William Stokes. Frederick C. Bell, lumber merchant, by James P. O'Dell and Zack Rowland.
For Amasa Wood Hospital Trust. E. A. Horton, miller, by George Geddes and W. B. Scott. William W. Scott, railway engineer, by James P. O'Dell and Zack Rowland.

BAYFIELD STORES TOTALLY BURNED

Loss in Main Business Section of Village Totals $10,000.

Special to The Advertiser.
Bayfield, Nov. 27.—Fire of unknown origin completely destroyed one of Bayfield's principal business sections on Sunday night.
The Bayfield postoffice, the store of Henry Drehmann, the bakery and confectionery of Thomas King and the vacant store, until recently occupied by George Greenslade, all fell a prey to the flames.
The loss is estimated at $10,000, partly covered by insurance.
The entire block of stores was frame construction and burned with great rapidity, the flames were fanned by a high southeast wind.
The heavy snow afforded protection for roofs of buildings nearby, and prevented the burning embers that were carried for rods by the wind from igniting these places.

Asks Railway Company to Slacken Speed of Trains at Level Crossings

Special to The Advertiser.
Woodstock, Nov. 27.—The occurrence of a serious accident on the level crossings of the St. Thomas branch of the C. P. R. here last Friday has aroused a protest from the city council at the speed at which the C. P. R. trains go over the crossings, and at tonight's meeting the council passed a resolution asking the railway company to take steps to have their trains slacken speed at the crossings.
A telegram was read from the Northern Ontario Fire Relief Committee asking that the council raise a sum equal to half a mill on the assessment as a contribution for the relief of the fire sufferers. The mayor pointed out that the contribution already sent would be deducted from this amount, and that the half-mill would produce a sum of $3,300, and the city had already sent over $2,000, a balance of $700 only remained. The matter was referred to the finance committee of the council.
A request by the G. W. V. A. for a remission of the taxes on the building was also referred to this committee.

BRITISH HOUSE APPROVES OF IRISH MEASURE

Antagonism Against Constitution Bill Is Quickly Dissipated At Quiet Session.

London, Nov. 27.—The House of Commons tonight, without division, passed the second reading of the Irish constitution bill after a debate in a single sitting without striking incidents.
That it has fallen to the lot of a Conservative government to put through parliament final legislative action to measures granting Ireland such complete autonomy is one of the ironies of political fate. The Conservative party for two generations has stoutly resisted the granting of self-government to Ireland, in even the mildest form, and no political question during that long period has provoked anything like the bitter animosities and conflicts in parliament, on platform and in the press which accompanied the fight around Irish home rule.
Now the fight is apparently ended, and parliament, with a large Conservative majority, quietly accepts the principle of the new Irish constitution without even challenging discussion. This is all the more remarkable, as it was mainly the revolt of the "die hard" section of the Conservatives against the Coalition government for setting up a treaty with the Sinn Fein which led to the rebellion of the Conservatives against the Lloyd George leadership, and so overthrew the Coalition government. Antagonism hardly took a serious form. Its rejection was moved by a newcomer in parliament, the Laborite, S. Saklatvala, who represents Battersea. He opposed the bill on the ground that the Irish treaty was signed under duress, and was therefore a greater mockery than was the act of union.
Predicts Undoing of Act.
The Communist, J. T. W. Newbold, seconded the motion, which was negatived without division after receiving no support whatever from any quarter of the house. Mr. Saklatvala, in the course of his speech, predicted that within five years parliament would find itself under the necessity of undoing this act.
Colonel Wedgwood, one of the Laborite leaders, appealed to Mr. Saklatvala not to press his motion to a division, arguing that whatever the circumstances of the signature of the treaty, parliament could not go back on it.
Premier Bonar Law, in his speech, dealt in an interesting way on the question of the relations between the mother country and the dominions. He moved the second reading of the bill and set the pace for the house by the frank adoption of the standpoint that no matter what opinions were held, parliament could not go back on the treaty.
J. Ramsay MacDonald, for the Laborites, and Sir John Simon, for the Independent Liberals, expressed complete concurrence in the prime minister's attitude. Thus, all the great parties in the house found themselves on common ground in favor of ratifying the constitution.
Mr. MacDonald said he thought the less said about the bill the better, because to criticize it was useless and to sympathize was dangerous. He hoped the time would never come when any attempt would be made to define in rigid legal formulae the regulations between the different parts of the empire. The safety of the empire depended on the free relationships remaining organic rather than legal.
Voices "Die-Hard" Dislike.
Colonel Gretton voiced the "die-hard" dislike for the treaty, but admitted it was too late to challenge its terms. He criticized some points in which he believed the constitution did not comply with the treaty.
Sir John Simon expressed the opinion that the constitution was finally within the terms of the treaty. Ronald McNeill, another "die-hard," took the same position as Colonel Gretton, that while he regarded the treaty policy as disastrous he had to recognize that the mischief was done beyond repair and that parliament had no choice but to carry it to a conclusion, and the treaty could not be abrogated. Parliament's duty now was a pure formality.

WATFORD PASTOR SENT TO HOSPITAL

Rev. W. K. Hager To Undergo X-Ray Examination in London Institution.

Special to The Advertiser.
Watford, Nov. 27.—As there was no improvement in his condition the Rev. W. K. Hager, B.A., pastor of the Methodist Churches of Watford and Zion, Warwick, was sent by his physician to Victoria Hospital, London, yesterday morning, to be examined by a specialist and have X-ray photos taken.
The regular services were held in the Presbyterian Church yesterday, when the pastor, Rev. H. V. Workman, gave two helpful and inspiring discourses.
The various young people's societies in the village are withdrawing their regular meetings on Tuesday evening in order to give their members an opportunity of attending the lecture by Jack Miner in the Lyceum.

Warns Citizens To Secure Supply of Substitutes, Fearing Shortage of Coal

Ottawa, Nov. 27.—(By Canadian Press). In a statement issued this evening the federal advisory fuel committee once more warns householders that there is little anthracite coming into Canada from the United States, and that it is important to lay in a supply of substitutes. Dealers as well as consumers, it is said, are facing a situation which may lead to difficulty and possible hardship "unless the attitude of the public towards substitutes greatly alters."

The shortage of anthracite, according to the statement, is likely to continue throughout the winter, and in the United States the public has been warned to lay in a 20 cent emergency supply of either bituminous coal, coke or the smaller sizes of anthracite, such as pea and buckwheat. It will be the middle of February before the shortage of anthracite can possibly be caught up with, it is said, by which time winter transportation difficulties are generally at their worst.

offer an original version of an old act, with a picturesque singing number as a feature.
"Connelly and Radcliff," and "Vento and Nina" provide two adequately enjoyable numbers.
"Seeing's Believing," the film feature starring Viola Dana, offers this sparkling youthful star an excellent vehicle for the display of her effective talent, telling an interesting and at all times plausible story.
The star is cast in the role Diana Webster, a charming millionaire orphan, who makes her home with her aunt. When Diana and her aunt's suitor are caught in a storm on their way to the city, they are involved in a situation which leads to a maze of complicating circumstances, chief of which is the fact that they are obliged to register at a country hotel as man and wife. The resulting difficulty of explaining away a seemingly inexplicable situation leads to near-tragedy, and withal on the part of the spectators, a great deal of mirth.
A clever and animated young star, with one of the silver screen's most charming personalities, Viola Dana is immensely satisfying as the much misunderstood young lady.
Completing this splendid bill is a Pathe Review, a reel of Topics of the Day, and a screamingly funny one-reel Roach comedy, "The Bride to Be."
RESUME LAKE TRAFFIC.
Sault Ste. Marie, Nov. 27.—The vessels at this end of Lake Superior do not appear to have been much affected by yesterday's snowstorm, though some took shelter at Whitefish. Today, with clear weather, traffic is moving freely.

Three unusual methods of transportation are shown in these pictures from different parts of the earth. Above is a photo from China, showing the use of bullocks to tow river boats when shallow water is reached. British soldiers (right) have devised a novel train to carry their battery from Spurn Head to Kilnsea, England. A sail attached on a hand-car or motor, travels speedily by means of this propeller whenever a fair breeze is blowing.
