

THE TORONTO WORLD.

A One-Cent Morning Newspaper
OFFICE: 10 KING ST. EAST, TORONTO
W. F. MCGILL, Publisher.

Subscription Rates:
One Year, $1.00; Six Months, $0.60;
Three Months, $0.35. No charge for city delivery or postage.
Advertisements payable in advance.

Advertisements Rates:
Ordinary commercial advertisements 6 cents
Financial statements and notices 10 cents
Monetary, Amusements, etc., 10 cents
Confidential advertisements a cent a word
Deaths, marriages and births 25 cents
Special rates for contracts advertising or reading notices and for preferred position
Address "All Communications" THE WORLD, The World's Telephone Call 5th St.

SATURDAY MORNING, JAN. 30 1886.

A Respectful Suggestion to Two Premiers.

When The World assumed last night the position of a political organ, it was not without a certain amount of surprise. The fact that the Scott act was not reached, had water mark, and that the tide would soon set in, it was not without a certain amount of surprise. The fact that the Scott act was not reached, had water mark, and that the tide would soon set in, it was not without a certain amount of surprise. The fact that the Scott act was not reached, had water mark, and that the tide would soon set in, it was not without a certain amount of surprise.

The Buffalo Republic remarks that the Canadian government rules upon both sides of the border, and that all that is necessary to the inauguration of a reciprocity treaty is the list of Sir John A. Macdonald. The Globe knows as well as the Republic that the negotiation of a reciprocity treaty with a people possessing the kind of a vast extent of territory, and a people having such conflicting commercial interests, north, south, east and west, and a people not always entirely reasonable or greatly generous in their foreign policy, is one of the most delicate and difficult tasks that could fall to the lot of a Canadian statesman. But the Globe is not a statesman. It is a newspaper. It is a newspaper. It is a newspaper.

The Globe knows as well as the Republic that the negotiation of a reciprocity treaty with a people possessing the kind of a vast extent of territory, and a people having such conflicting commercial interests, north, south, east and west, and a people not always entirely reasonable or greatly generous in their foreign policy, is one of the most delicate and difficult tasks that could fall to the lot of a Canadian statesman. But the Globe is not a statesman. It is a newspaper. It is a newspaper. It is a newspaper.

The Globe knows as well as the Republic that the negotiation of a reciprocity treaty with a people possessing the kind of a vast extent of territory, and a people having such conflicting commercial interests, north, south, east and west, and a people not always entirely reasonable or greatly generous in their foreign policy, is one of the most delicate and difficult tasks that could fall to the lot of a Canadian statesman. But the Globe is not a statesman. It is a newspaper. It is a newspaper. It is a newspaper.

The Globe knows as well as the Republic that the negotiation of a reciprocity treaty with a people possessing the kind of a vast extent of territory, and a people having such conflicting commercial interests, north, south, east and west, and a people not always entirely reasonable or greatly generous in their foreign policy, is one of the most delicate and difficult tasks that could fall to the lot of a Canadian statesman. But the Globe is not a statesman. It is a newspaper. It is a newspaper. It is a newspaper.

The Globe knows as well as the Republic that the negotiation of a reciprocity treaty with a people possessing the kind of a vast extent of territory, and a people having such conflicting commercial interests, north, south, east and west, and a people not always entirely reasonable or greatly generous in their foreign policy, is one of the most delicate and difficult tasks that could fall to the lot of a Canadian statesman. But the Globe is not a statesman. It is a newspaper. It is a newspaper. It is a newspaper.

The Globe knows as well as the Republic that the negotiation of a reciprocity treaty with a people possessing the kind of a vast extent of territory, and a people having such conflicting commercial interests, north, south, east and west, and a people not always entirely reasonable or greatly generous in their foreign policy, is one of the most delicate and difficult tasks that could fall to the lot of a Canadian statesman. But the Globe is not a statesman. It is a newspaper. It is a newspaper. It is a newspaper.

The Globe knows as well as the Republic that the negotiation of a reciprocity treaty with a people possessing the kind of a vast extent of territory, and a people having such conflicting commercial interests, north, south, east and west, and a people not always entirely reasonable or greatly generous in their foreign policy, is one of the most delicate and difficult tasks that could fall to the lot of a Canadian statesman. But the Globe is not a statesman. It is a newspaper. It is a newspaper. It is a newspaper.

The Globe knows as well as the Republic that the negotiation of a reciprocity treaty with a people possessing the kind of a vast extent of territory, and a people having such conflicting commercial interests, north, south, east and west, and a people not always entirely reasonable or greatly generous in their foreign policy, is one of the most delicate and difficult tasks that could fall to the lot of a Canadian statesman. But the Globe is not a statesman. It is a newspaper. It is a newspaper. It is a newspaper.

Time urges that he would make an excellent president of the council and leader in the house of lords. But the Daily News, the leading liberal organ, goes further, and says that his responsibility as foreign secretary would "elicit a deep groan from the liberal party and from the country." And one cable dispatch says that "the entire press is opposed to the appointment of Earl Granville as foreign secretary."

Which seems to show that the nation has changed its foreign policy, and will permit no return to the anti-British and pro-Russian policy which prevailed under Gladstone.

The Buffalo Republic remarks that the Canadian government rules upon both sides of the border, and that all that is necessary to the inauguration of a reciprocity treaty is the list of Sir John A. Macdonald. The Globe knows as well as the Republic that the negotiation of a reciprocity treaty with a people possessing the kind of a vast extent of territory, and a people having such conflicting commercial interests, north, south, east and west, and a people not always entirely reasonable or greatly generous in their foreign policy, is one of the most delicate and difficult tasks that could fall to the lot of a Canadian statesman. But the Globe is not a statesman. It is a newspaper. It is a newspaper. It is a newspaper.

The Globe knows as well as the Republic that the negotiation of a reciprocity treaty with a people possessing the kind of a vast extent of territory, and a people having such conflicting commercial interests, north, south, east and west, and a people not always entirely reasonable or greatly generous in their foreign policy, is one of the most delicate and difficult tasks that could fall to the lot of a Canadian statesman. But the Globe is not a statesman. It is a newspaper. It is a newspaper. It is a newspaper.

The Globe knows as well as the Republic that the negotiation of a reciprocity treaty with a people possessing the kind of a vast extent of territory, and a people having such conflicting commercial interests, north, south, east and west, and a people not always entirely reasonable or greatly generous in their foreign policy, is one of the most delicate and difficult tasks that could fall to the lot of a Canadian statesman. But the Globe is not a statesman. It is a newspaper. It is a newspaper. It is a newspaper.

The Globe knows as well as the Republic that the negotiation of a reciprocity treaty with a people possessing the kind of a vast extent of territory, and a people having such conflicting commercial interests, north, south, east and west, and a people not always entirely reasonable or greatly generous in their foreign policy, is one of the most delicate and difficult tasks that could fall to the lot of a Canadian statesman. But the Globe is not a statesman. It is a newspaper. It is a newspaper. It is a newspaper.

The Globe knows as well as the Republic that the negotiation of a reciprocity treaty with a people possessing the kind of a vast extent of territory, and a people having such conflicting commercial interests, north, south, east and west, and a people not always entirely reasonable or greatly generous in their foreign policy, is one of the most delicate and difficult tasks that could fall to the lot of a Canadian statesman. But the Globe is not a statesman. It is a newspaper. It is a newspaper. It is a newspaper.

The Globe knows as well as the Republic that the negotiation of a reciprocity treaty with a people possessing the kind of a vast extent of territory, and a people having such conflicting commercial interests, north, south, east and west, and a people not always entirely reasonable or greatly generous in their foreign policy, is one of the most delicate and difficult tasks that could fall to the lot of a Canadian statesman. But the Globe is not a statesman. It is a newspaper. It is a newspaper. It is a newspaper.

The Globe knows as well as the Republic that the negotiation of a reciprocity treaty with a people possessing the kind of a vast extent of territory, and a people having such conflicting commercial interests, north, south, east and west, and a people not always entirely reasonable or greatly generous in their foreign policy, is one of the most delicate and difficult tasks that could fall to the lot of a Canadian statesman. But the Globe is not a statesman. It is a newspaper. It is a newspaper. It is a newspaper.

The Globe knows as well as the Republic that the negotiation of a reciprocity treaty with a people possessing the kind of a vast extent of territory, and a people having such conflicting commercial interests, north, south, east and west, and a people not always entirely reasonable or greatly generous in their foreign policy, is one of the most delicate and difficult tasks that could fall to the lot of a Canadian statesman. But the Globe is not a statesman. It is a newspaper. It is a newspaper. It is a newspaper.

they are given, it is one of their organs demands that their representatives shall resign, ostensibly because a half-breed and a native had been promoted from the consequences of the one approved aggression, but really, we are sorry to say, because they failed to obtain an office. Was it not the witty Dean of St. Patrick's who said that if you put an Irishman on the spot you could always find another Irishman to take his place?

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

FRIDAY EVENING, Jan. 29.
The week in business circles has been devoid of distinguishing features, and with the exception of the Ryan embarrassment was uneventful. Steady prices are being maintained in all lines, and prospects are considered bright. Dry goods orders are for small lots at close prices owing to the keen competition. There is only a fair trade in hardware, and the drug trade is dull at unchanged prices. In hides and leather a quiet trade is being done, and prices are fairly steady. A few more of the year's crops are quiet, with a growing demand for potatoes appearing. A pleasing feature, however, is the tendency of very prominent to advance prices of prime goods at the market.

The local breadstuffs and provision market has been quiet. Wheat is steady at 110 to 112, and flour is quiet at 110 to 112. Corn is quiet at 110 to 112, and meal is quiet at 110 to 112. The local stock market is quiet, with a few more of the year's crops are quiet, with a growing demand for potatoes appearing. A pleasing feature, however, is the tendency of very prominent to advance prices of prime goods at the market.

The local stock market is quiet, with a few more of the year's crops are quiet, with a growing demand for potatoes appearing. A pleasing feature, however, is the tendency of very prominent to advance prices of prime goods at the market.

The local stock market is quiet, with a few more of the year's crops are quiet, with a growing demand for potatoes appearing. A pleasing feature, however, is the tendency of very prominent to advance prices of prime goods at the market.

The local stock market is quiet, with a few more of the year's crops are quiet, with a growing demand for potatoes appearing. A pleasing feature, however, is the tendency of very prominent to advance prices of prime goods at the market.

The local stock market is quiet, with a few more of the year's crops are quiet, with a growing demand for potatoes appearing. A pleasing feature, however, is the tendency of very prominent to advance prices of prime goods at the market.

The local stock market is quiet, with a few more of the year's crops are quiet, with a growing demand for potatoes appearing. A pleasing feature, however, is the tendency of very prominent to advance prices of prime goods at the market.

The local stock market is quiet, with a few more of the year's crops are quiet, with a growing demand for potatoes appearing. A pleasing feature, however, is the tendency of very prominent to advance prices of prime goods at the market.

The local stock market is quiet, with a few more of the year's crops are quiet, with a growing demand for potatoes appearing. A pleasing feature, however, is the tendency of very prominent to advance prices of prime goods at the market.

The local stock market is quiet, with a few more of the year's crops are quiet, with a growing demand for potatoes appearing. A pleasing feature, however, is the tendency of very prominent to advance prices of prime goods at the market.

The local stock market is quiet, with a few more of the year's crops are quiet, with a growing demand for potatoes appearing. A pleasing feature, however, is the tendency of very prominent to advance prices of prime goods at the market.

The local stock market is quiet, with a few more of the year's crops are quiet, with a growing demand for potatoes appearing. A pleasing feature, however, is the tendency of very prominent to advance prices of prime goods at the market.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

To Purchasers of FURS.

We are holding a very Important Clearing Sale of all our stock of Manufactured Furs consisting of SEAL MANTLES, DOLMANS, ULSTERS, SEAL MUFFS, CAPS AND GLOVES, GENTS' FUR COATS, CAPS, CAPO AND GLOVES, AND A LARGE LOT OF LADIES' ASTRACHAN MANTLES, SHOULDER CAPES, ETC., ETC.

We carry the Finest Stock in Toronto---made on the premises and warranted. Every article has been reduced 50 to 75 per cent. to clear out by the end of January.

During next week we offer Special Reductions in a lot of Fine Mink Muffs at $5, $7.50, $10. These are very fine new muffs this season, and is much below cost.

Seal Muffs--We offer some very fine Muffs at $15 and $16.50, nicely trimmed and made up, can't be bought wholesale for less than $18 and $22.50.

We offer a lot of Men's Persian Lamb Caps at $4, $5, $6. Men's Astrachan Dogskin Caps at $2, $3, all reduced.

Boys' Imitation Lamb Caps, 50c. and 75c. Men's Fur Coats in Coon Skin, Dog Skin, Persian Lamb, at less than wholesale prices.

Robes! Robes! Piles of every kind, large Black Robes, large Grey Robes.

Fur Gloves and Caps and adjustable Collars and Cuffs to match all made up, prices reduced.

A lot of Misses' Black Fur Capes, reduced to $2.50, sold all season at $4. Ladies' sizes, satin lining and quilted throughout, only $5.

Dog Skin Mantles reduced to $25 and $30, our own make. All Furs reduced to cost.

Children's Fur Jackets in White and Grey Lambskins at cost. Ladies' fur-lined Cloaks and Circulars with various kinds of fur linings, all reduced.

We take stock on 1st February, and want our Furs cleared out by that date. The public can depend upon getting what they want at prices that will pay them to buy now.

W. & D. DINEEN,
CORNER KING AND YONCE STS.

CHINA HALL.

41 King Street East, Toronto.

The Undersigned begs to inform his Customers he has now on hand a beautiful assortment of Breakfast Sets in China and Stone Ware.

Ranging from $10 to $20. Also in Tea Sets and Tea and Coffee Sets, all of the best quality.

China Ware from $4.50 to $7.50 per set, ranging from $10.00 to $20.00. Dessert Sets with Canadian, English, and other designs.

And flower centers in every shade of color, description, Kitchen Crockery of every kind, Lamp Glass, etc.

GLOVER HARRISON, Proprietor.

JOHN CATTO & CO.

Commence to-day a sale of HOUSEHOLD FURNISHINGS, CLEARING AT REDUCED PRICES.

Canadian All-wood Blankets, Comfortables and Mattresses Quilts, Sheetings, Towels, and Dressing Gowns, Table Linens, Napkins, Lace and Madras Muslin Curtains, Closets, Shaws, and Hostery, Dress Stuffs, Bedsteads, Pillows, Gray Gravel, etc., and Sixth Marvellous.

King St. Opposite the Postoffice.