

Castillo V., Gustavo D., and Vega C. The Politics of Free Trade in North America. Carleton University, Centre for Trade Policy and Law, 1995. Examines the process and institutions that facilitated negotiation of NAFTA; role of the private sector in consolidating free trade in the region; and obstacles that had to be surmounted to reach an agreement. Whether and how NAFTA can be expanded to include other countries, deal with labour issues, or facilitate recovery of the Mexican economy are addressed.

Dobell R., and Neufeld M. eds. Beyond NAFTA: The Western Hemisphere Interface: A Forum Sponsored by the North America Institute, Querétaro, Mexico, 28-30 May 1993. Lantzville, B.C.: Oolichan Books, 1993. Presents visions of an "enterprise of the Americas"-a growing structure of institutions linking Latin America and the Caribbean with the increasingly integrated economies of Canada, USA and Mexico.

Fatemi K. ed. North American Free Trade Agreement: Opportunities and Challenges. New York: St. Martin's Press, 1993. The volume, consisting of 5 parts and 23 chapters, is designed to provide a balanced view on this very broad and controversial subject.

Hart M. Trade, Why Bother? Centre for Trade Policy & Law, Carleton University, 1992. Discusses the role of trade in Canada's economy. Canadian interests and GATT, FTA and NAFTA are discussed.

Hart M. with Dymond B. and Robertson C. Decision at Midnight: Inside the Canada-US Free Trade Negotiations. Vancouver: UBC Press, 1994. An interesting account of the negotiations, why the negotiations took place, and what happened.

Hufbauer G.C., and Schott J.J. NAFTA: An Assessment. Institute for International Economics, Washington, D.C., 1993. The book assesses the potential impact of NAFTA on trade, investment and employment for the three partner countries. It covers the major sectors (energy, autos, steel, textiles, agriculture and financial services) involved in the negotiation. Labour market adjustment and environmental issues are given a fair treatment. It compliments the volume by the same authors titled North American Free Trade: Issues and Recommendations, published in 1992. The latter provides a detailed assessment of the key issues underlying NAFTA.

Lipsey R.G, Schwanen D., and Wonnacott R.J. The NAFTA: What's In What's Out. What's Next. Toronto: C.D. Howe Institute, 1994. Provides a non-technical review of the actual provisions of the Agreement. The authors support the view that NAFTA is useful for trading nations such as Canada and Mexico.

Lipsey R.G. "Canada at the US-Mexico Free Trade Dance". Commentary, Toronto: C.D. Howe Institute, No. 20, August 1990. An interesting analysis of a model for trilateral free trade.
