GEOLOGICAL HONORS. Fortunately the university affords a means for doing some honor to be bestowed indiscriminately, or the conferring of degrees would defeat its directed against the selections made degrees this afternoon. The list could easily be extended from the ranks of the eminent visiting geologists, but all are representative men who have been singled out to bear the compliments thus indirectly paid to their colleagues. Greece but of seven other representative nations, Great Britain, France. United States, Germany, Finland Russia, and Canada, being represented in the honor roll. Mr. Aubrey Strahan, F.R.S., is assistant director of the Geological Survey of England and Wales. M. Termier is directeur du service de la Carte Geologique de la France. Prof. Chamberlain has attained prominence for his novel theories of the origin of the planetary systems. Prof. Saderhohn is director of the Finland survey and a specialist in archaean rocks. Our own Dr. Willett G. Miller is the man who put the alt in Cobalt, and worthily represents Canadian science. Messrs. Richard Beck and Theodosius Tshermyschew are equally representative of Germany and Russia. The occasion is one of the most inina's of the city, and there should be a brilliant' gathering this afternoon at Convocation Hall.

THE JAPANESE BOGEY. When the United States manufacturers are given to blowing, as is not at all unusual, they boast that the higher efficiency of their workers more than offsets the difference in wages. When they argue for the maintenance of a lofty tariff wall they are equally insistent on the plea that without it they are unable to compete with the "pauper labor" of Europe and much less with the much smaller wage earner of the orient. Of course the arguments are mutually destructive, but that matters little when proper pride and self-interest come into con-

And now comes Mr. E. F. Crowe, commercial attache to the British embassy at Tokic. Japan, who tells the world that what hampers that country in her chances of competing with her goods in the world market is the high cost of production. It is a generally accepted idea, he observes, that Japan is a country of low wages and long hours, which is undoubtedly true, the average wage for men being twentyeight cents a day and for women on to comment, it is doubtful, in the ish states of the southern seas. opinion of competent observers, whether the amount of work gone thru does not cost more than in the United German geological delegates as he call-Kingdom or other countries where labor is dearer.

Nevertheless, last year created a record in the annals of Japanese trade, the total figures for 1912 being twenty per cent. higher than those of the previous year. The total export and import trade in 1912 amounted to roundly $580 000.000 as compared with $490. 000.000 in 1911. Of that $315.000,000 presented imports and $265,000,000 rts. Japanese political economists concerning themselves over this erse balance of trade, but the edge of their criticism has been somewhat impaired by the fact that greatest increases in imports have occurred in raw cotton, metals and semi-manufactured articles. Japan has a large foreign debt, and as the government has fully realized that this is a time for economy in 1 retrenchment, the effort to hoist the Japanese bogey, attempted in some quarters in the United States. is certainly not justified by circum-

SHIRKERS AND WORKERS.

One of the problems which confront the social reformer is that which is created by the man who refuses or neglects to support his wife and family. The common method of subjecting the offender to a term of imprisonment rather aggravates than relieves the difficulty, since it is evident that during his term of retirement his opportunity to contribute is even less than it was before. Involuntary failure, even relieves him of the responsibilty which his voluntary act violated.

Ballard, a small municipality near Scattle Washington, hear provided a solution which is provocative of hought. It has purchased a farm, to which the man who fails to support his family is relegated. There he has to work under the order of the superintendent, earning his board and lodging and a dollar and a half a day. The money is paid to his family, and so far so good. But what of the man who is anxious and willing to work and cannot find employment? He surely is at least as worthy of a job as the shirker. HEALTH OF WOMEN AND CHIL-DREN. New Zealand was the first of the British oversea dominions to grant vomen equa' franchise rights. The result has been that the Little Dominion so named on account of size, not progressiveness, has in a measure led the world in provisions for the betterment of ordinary people. And after all is that not what the main object of a lemocratic government and parliament hould be? The improvement of home life, the creation of a standard within reach of each and every section of the recognition and of struggle to attain. Journal is one by Mrs. Massey on what New Zealand does to promote the health of the women and children of hat sister British state. It describes what has been done by the society formed for that purpose about seven years ago. Its aims and objects arehus stated:

1. To disseminate accurate infornation on matters affecting the health of women and children by means of teaching in the home and otherwise.

2. To uphold the sacredness of the body and the duty of health; to inculcate a lofty view of the responsibility of maternity and the duty of every mother to fit herself for the perfect fulfilment of all the natural calls of motherhood both before and after

3. To provide and employ nurses ready at any time to give advice and instruction to mothers, in the home or elsewhere, with a view to conserving the health and strength of the rising generation and render both mother and offspring hardy, healthy and resistive

4. To promote legislative reform in matters pertaining to the health of women and children 5. To co-operate with any present or future organizations which are working for any of the foregoing or cognate

A further object which the society had at first was: To investigate the conditions under which waifs and during the first twelve months of life, and as far as possible to make provision for their proper care where they are found to be improperly housed or

(a) By getting them placed in suitable private houses under the care of women not dependent solely upon the fees received.

(b) In cases where proper provision cannot be made as above indicated, to provide suitable temporary accommodation and nursing at the society's ex-

This latter object was rendered unnecessary by the action of the government and town councils, which have improved their care of waifs and strays. But after some early struggles the society has now obtained full public recognition, and has branches and workers from end to end of the dominion. The society's hospital, which only deals with babies suffering from mal-nutrition, ignorance or neglect, is now subsidized by the New Zealand Government, which in this way has shown its practical approval of the outside New Zeniand, as requests for its book on the care and feeding of parts of the world, This New Zealand fourteen cents, while the hours of society is not the least of the benefits work are about eleven per day, with which the world has received from two holidays a month. Historians have pictured him differently; perhaps because they failed to understand his peculiar sense of humor. But I must conjure up another picture to account for his actions. As a young man I see him the idol of Roman society. His handsome face is crowned with a cluster of curls. His toga, worn with careless ease, reveals the muscular, straight limbs of the athlete, just as the modern slit skirt reveals alike to the gaze of the public,

First of all he discovered the hum bus and trickery surrounding the tem-ples of the Roman gods. He learned also to appreciate the value of pre-tending to believe in the humbug. I can see him give a grim chuckle while arranging for the murder of a powerful patrician. The corners of his month would twitch as he watched the fat and perspiring victim tearing round the arena in a hopeless attempt to escape from a healthy and hungry lion. The humor of the situation lay entirely in the unknown quantity. What happened to these people when they were killed? Did they become they were killed? Did they become to float thru all eternity between the worlds and never find a resting place? Finally Nero killed himself to find out. "Germany enacts many laws for the welfare of the masses, but there is a different spirit behind the German and the English movement. The German spirit is rather patriarchal. In England social justice laws spring from the growing power of the democratic masses."
