week, with regular Wednesday and Saturday matinees. In "The High Road," his most important work. Edward Sheldon, author of Mrs. Fiske's former graphic success. "Salvation Nell," is said to have felt the pulse of the moment and to have written a play with a purpose but without a preachment. It is a story, so to speak of soul progression. From the ignorance and sordiness of her early surroundings. Mary Page starts upon an uphill journey, and educates, broadens and develops a naturally great mind and heart. After a material experience of the beauties and luxuries of the world, there comes, not a moral awakening exactly, but a stage in her moral development when these things can no longer satisfy, and when her broadened vision and augmented understanding show her a great field of usefulness to humanity. This she entountered so many strange mishaps, is all well known, not only to the children of today, but their elders, who have been entranced by Mr. Ames, remarkable presentation of the story upon the stage. Those wno recall the splendid production of "The Blue Bird," which was initially presented by Mr. Ames, will be assured that "Snow White" has been prepared with the same high regard for artistic and realistic effect. More than forty people are engaged in the performance, including the seven dwarfs, who are impersonated by men, none of whom is more than four feet in height. The incidental mustc, which is a feature of the performance, will be interpreted by an augmented orchestra. At the afternoon performances the curtain will not rise until 0.30 o'clock.

cal comedy waltzes of the past few years, including "The Merry Widow," "The Pink Lady" and the Count of Luxembourg" Waltz. Lionel Monckton wrote this waltz one evening in a London cafe, as the producer had asked him to write a number to cover up a bare spot in the second act. The range of the waltz is so wide that there are only about six baritones in America who can sing it. It was only after trying the voices of a great many famous singers that Phil J. Moore, who sings the number, was secured.

next----summer

The Muskoka Lakes season is fast drawing to a close—the fleets of jaunty pleasure boats are hastening to cover-the joyous shouts of bathing parties, the laughter of the tennis courts, the merry lilt of the dance, and the witchery of the nightly bonfire are all creeping away with the ghosts of the past. Nature will soon be left undisturbed until another season in her beautiful fastnesses, the Muskoka Lakes.

The great increase in July and September traffic shows the desire of the wise holiday seeker to avoid the always heavy August travel. Travel into Muskoka this September shows an increase of 200% over last year.

But already many a mental pair of eyes is being turned towards the joys to come in 1914. For nothing like this season's tourist traffic has ever been known in Muskoka, and greater things are promised for next season. The glamor of Muskoka has seized thousands, and the famous Muskoka Lakes, Rosseau, Joseph and Muskoka, are coming into their own as never before.

A feature that singles the Muskoka Lakes from other resorts is the fact that all sanitary arrangements are Government inspected. No sewage from the hotels or cottages is allowed to reach the waters, and the lakes preserve their primeval purity, adding the final note of excellence demanded by the discerning when choosing a place to spend a vacation.

For convenience to Toronto, for excellent hotels, headed by the ever-attractive Royal Muskoka, for health and recreation, the Muskoka Lakes stand head and shoulders in popularity over other re-

"More real holiday enjoyment for less money than any other resort in the world." That's the Muskoka slogan. Don't you think it a good one?

band that ever piayed in a foronto park. The band will give two con-certs today and two on Sunday. On park. The band will give two concerts today and two on Sunday. On Saturday night the band will play by request as special numbers the "1812 Overture" and "Il Trovatore". No doubt there will be a great crowd in attendance. There will be a feature film shown on the open air moving picture machine tonight. It is to be hoped that it will be possible for the park management to arrange for a return visit of D'Urbano next season, even if only for a couple of weeks, for the public will not willingly hear the last of this fine organization.
