FREEDOM OF THE OPEN AIR KEEPS BALL PLAYERS YOUNG

A Notable Example is Hans Wagner, Who Has Completed Seventeen Years on the Diamond—Baseball News of the Day.

A Pittsburgh doctor, friend of the great living all-around infielder, scores in a newspaper article some fine points on the benefit of the open-air life of the ball player.

"Hans Wagner's remarkable vigor year in and year out isn't so remarkable when you look at his record. The local press shows where the movies may be showing African game hunts or some sort of adventure in the jungle, woods or on sea. The next morning he may be up bright and early and within an hour or two he will be 45 minutes from Broad-way where the fishes have no idea of the closeness of Little old New York town.

Yes, it is funny, how the Dutchman keeps in shape year in and year out.

"Honus has a poetic nature in this respect, he is anything but a poet. But the open air, the trees, the streams and the wide freedom of the woods have a fancy for him and in this environment only is he happy. Is it any wonder then that he retains his vigor and consumes so much of that dash and speed that makes him the annual wonder on the ball field?

"Let us fancy another kind of a Wagner. What if Honus had been an individual of a club who had a fancy for the limelight and the streets of the city in the off-season? What if he just loafed around and did nothing? Four or five years ago Honus would have passed from the realm of the true great. But to his loving nature and his love for the simple life the Pittsburgh Club and the fans of Pittsburgh owe the fact that Honus came around every year and is the mainstay of the first nine.

"Our friend, the doctor, certainly has a good line on Wagner. He calls the turn of a leaf when he discusses Wagner's fondness for open air and says: 'There is nothing so simple as to get a lot of fresh air and sunlight when you are in the city. The simplest kind of care and plenty of it, Honus would stop at the Waldorf Astoria and calmly order a ham and eggs. There while ignoring with characteristic contempt the all-weather bathing order, for 15 years they have tried to wine and dine Honus and educate him up to modern notions in the culinary art, but the German would rather order his own meals and pay twice as much for them as the

Horsemen Disciplined By Board of Appeal

Four are Expelled and Two Suspended at American Trotting Association Meeting.

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—Four horsemen were expelled and two were suspended pending settlement of their cases by the board of appeal of the American Trotting Association. About three cases were disposed of, but most of them were of little importance.

J. R. Kirby of Wheaton, Ill., Rex or A. C. Truitt of Swift Current, Sask., and L. B. Bell of Xenia, Ohio, and William Leroy of Princeton, Ill., were expelled. Kirby was expelled for betting on his own horse, "Belle Mac," which formerly raced under the name of "Patience" and was ordered suspended until his winnings at Wauwatosa and Stevens Point, Wis., were returned and a fee of $50 paid for changing his name.

J. E. Prater of Dayton, Tenn., and J. M. Courtney of Knoxville were suspended until they return all the winnings of "Lucky" during the winter racing season for proper distribution. Prater also was cited to appear at the May, 1913, meeting to show cause why he should not be expelled.

Baseball Figures Show Toronto Best Fielders

Bill Bradley is Champion of the Third Basemen—The Official Averages.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Toronto, winner of the 1912 pennant, was the best fielding team in the International League this year, according to official averages issued at league headquarters today. The club's percentage was 90. The Newark, Jersey City and Baltimore follow closely in the order named. The Newark catchers are charged with but three passed balls for the entire season.

Of the individual players, the position leaders are: First base—Swain, Newark, .905. Fielder—Manser, Rochester-Jersey City, 1.000. Five other pitchers, including Steele of Toronto, fielded faultlessly.

Four right fielders, eight center fielders, two left fielders, one second baseman and two first basemen, playing in ten or more games, had perfect records.

The club fielding averages are as follows: Clubs. G. T.C. Per. Toronto 133 6295 .938 Newark 133 6297 .938 Jersey City 133 6138 .928 Baltimore 133 6138 .928 Buffalo 133 6138 .928 Rochester 133 6138 .928 Montreal 133 6138 .928 Providence 133 6138 .928

MILK ICE BLOCKS TO COOL MILK. A new and novel method of preparing milk for long-distance shipment has been adopted in the Province of Minas Geraes, Brazil. It is said that the inventor, explains a writer in the Popular Magazine for December, that R. O. Janeiro draws most of its milk supply from the mountains.

The securing of dynamite. The frequent use of the dynamite bomb with which to wreck vengeance for a fancied wrong seems to indicate that it is as easy to procure quantities of high explosive as to buy a pound of beefsteak or a yard of muslin. The protection of the public against assassins by some process of surveillance in the sale of high detonating products is singularly inadequate. Nearly a score of houses have been damaged and the lives of many persons imperiled in the southern section of this city by the last decade by the bomb method, yet there never seems to have been any serious attempt made to ascertain whether the explosive had been bought.—Philadelphia Ledger.

THE T. EATON CO LIMITED

THE KING'S GARDENER.

The head gardener at Windsor Castle finds himself very busy at this time of the year. He receives almost daily visits from the representatives of some of the leading firms of horticulturists both at home and from abroad.

The "travelers" in bulbs, roots, and shrubs, come with illustrations and price lists of the various plants and shrubs that may be required for "forcing" purposes. The plants are planted out in the early spring, when put into forcing hot-houses now and the beds become a glorious blaze of color.

Between 300 and 500 pounds are spent every year on plants for forcing purposes. The head gardener has to make his plans of cultivation for each year very much in advance. These plans are submitted to their majesties for approval. It frequently may happen that the King or Queen may desire to buy out some of the garden in a particular manner, and, of course, any such suggestions are made part of the general scheme of cultivation for the coming year.

The head gardener has a staff of forty-six assistants under him. Several of them are specialists. For example, there is a "bulb" specialist, who has devoted years to various methods of bulb cultivation; and there is, of course, a rose specialist. For example, there are a dozen men who devote all their time to the management of hot-houses, and the cultivation of tropical plants.

The work in the royal gardens begins in the winter, and 6 to 10 in the summer, and there is enough to be done to keep the large staff fully employed throughout the year. One of the duties of the head gardener is to supervise the cutting of flowers required for the royal tables and for bouquets. There is a special room in Windsor Castle where the flowers are packed for despatch by post.

There is a large experimental garden at Windsor where new methods of cultivation are constantly being tried, and any that prove conspicuously successful are adopted, but the general system in the royal gardens is more or less conservative in character. No new scheme is ever adopted simply because it happens to be fashionable at the moment, but if it is proved by experiments to be useful and effective, it probably would be.

Mr. Henry Black. What a helpless mass of flesh and bone the human body is, once the nerves become exhausted. Extreme weakness comes over you, and you lose control of the limbs. The next step is paralysis.

You will be fortunate if, like Mr. Black, you get the building-up process in action before it is forever too late. By forming new, rich blood Dr. Chase's Nerve Food carries new vigor and energy to every organ and every member of the human body.

Mr. Henry Black, 81 St. Catherine street east, Montreal, Que., writes: "The wonderful results obtained from the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food constrain me to write this letter in order that others who suffer from nervous exhaustion and weakness may use this medicine with equal satisfactory results. As the result of overwork I became completely exhausted, and was unable to work for fourteen months. As I am the father of a family, these were sad days for me, but after I had used six boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I had improved so greatly that I continued the treatment until I was completely restored to health and strength. I now work as greatly as I continued the treatment in excellent health."
