GARMENT WORKERS LEAVING TORONTO

Two Hundred and Fifty Strikers Seek Work Elsewhere This Week.

S. Koldovsky, business manager for the I.L.G.W.W., referring again to James G. Merrick's refutations of Mr. Koldovsky's alleged statements in the press, stated that the garment strike in Cleveland had been settled, and that while it was true piece-work was that while it was true piece-work was carried on there this was only because the agreement drawa up by Secretary of War Baker in 1914, respecting the garment industry in Cleveland, was inviolable until December 24, 1919. Cleveland and Philadelphia were the only cities except Toronto where piecework prevailed, and in Cleveland only 50 per cent, of the workers adopted this method, and only 40 per cent. In Philadelphia. A conference is now in this method, and only 40 per cent. in Philadelphia. A conference is now in progress relative to this matter in the Quaker City.

The following authentic figures have been presented showing the cities which have abolished the piece-work system and the number employed in the cloak and ladies' garment trade: New York, 45,000, abolished; Philadelphia, 4,000, conference; Cleveland, 3,000, piece-work; Boston, 4,000, abolished; Baltimore, 2,000, abolished; Chicago, 5,000, abolished; Montreal, 1,200, abolished; Toronto, 2,000, strike; Winnipeg, 40, not known; total number nipeg, 40, not known; total number engaged in cities which have abolished the system, 58,300; total number in cities where piece-work systems still prevails or is subject of conference, Leaving Toronto.

Union officials stated yesterday afternoon that 250 garment workers afternoon that 250 garment workers had left Toronto for outside points since Monday, and that only 1,250 strikers remained. It was pointed out that the strong argument against the piece-work system was its great incentive to grovel before the almighty dollar, an incentive which sacrificed physique and social interests to purely material gain, a condition which, it was stated, should never be permitted. Several of the strikers related case after case of men and women working nine hours at the factories and often another seven hours at home.
