O. R. A. PROGRAM.

Large and Attractive Price List Offered—Entrance Fees Reduced.

The program of the Annual Matches of the Ontario Rifle Association has just been issued. The matches will take place at the Long Branch Ranges, Tuesday to Friday, August 21-24.

Cash prizes to the amount of $500, besides numerous valuable cups, trophies and medals are offered.

Several important changes have been made, which will be of interest to competitors and will tend to make the competition more attractive.

The entrance fees in all the regular matches, which are to be held in the grand aggregate, have been reduced.

The Cadets' Match continues to be a special feature and is to be held in the grand aggregate, as usual.

Four team prizes in cash are offered, and in addition, the Pelletier Challenge Cup, donated by Col. Sir H. M. Pelletier.

Special team prizes are also offered in this match, open to the teams from the several military districts in Ontario, the object being to secure, if possible, attendance at the matches by at least one team from each of the different military districts.

A few important changes of special interest to competitors are to be noted: Any $50 rifle as issued by the government may be used. This will admit of the use of the new Ross rifle. The use of the wind gauge back-sight is also permitted. The British war office is also permitted.

Copies of the program or information relative to the matches may be obtained upon application to the secretary, Captain C. C. Harbottle, Confederation Life Building, Toronto.

VARSITY EVENING LECTURES

Short Course of Interesting Addresses Which are Open to Public

A series of popular scientific lectures open to the public will be given at the University in connection with the summer session.

The first one will be given to-night in room 16 of the main building, by Prof. J. C. McLennan, on "The Metric System," including and measuring, a demonstration of their utility, and the discussion of some proposed modifications in the system.

The remaining lectures are: July 12, "The Modern Epochs of French Painting and Sculpture," by Prof. J. Squair.

July 17, "Plant Relations and Adaptations," by Dr. J. H. Pault.

July 19, "The Cobalt Mining Region—Past and Present," by Dr. W. A. Parks.

July 24, "Organic Chemistry in Manufacturing," by Dr. F. B. Allan.

July 26, "The Experimental Investigation of Complex Mental Operations," by Dr. A. H. Abbott.

The lectures will be illustrated by means of lantern projections and experiments. The public is invited.

Charge Withdrawn

Magistrate Ellis dismissed a case yesterday morning, after it had been adjourned for the 13th time, on account of the illness of the chief witness, who ultimately died. The charge was against Mrs. Cruttenford for stealing scrap brass from the Canadian Brass Rolling Mills Co. of Swansea.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Etiquette.

Much can be told of a person's good taste and breeding by her correspondence. In her stationery, in her style, in her handwriting will show many traits and characteristics. The one style of stationery that is always in good taste, is a plain white envelope, which folding once into its unfolded lines of blue, grey, green or buff are sometimes used, and as long as quiet and unobtrusive as possible, but one is, always sure when one uses a good white paper. The use of good stationery is never in good taste, and certainly should be of the faintest and most elusive character. Sealing wax may be used if desired, but a soft dull color should be chosen, and the sealing should be very carefully done. It should be unnecessary to say that a married woman should sign her name "Mary Blank" not "Mrs. John Blank," the latter, if the correspondence is being put in brackets beneath her signature.

It is well to remember that one cannot be too careful in one's correspondence, as any neglect or delay may occasion serious consequences, and any carelessness in paper, style, or matter is a slight upon one's correspondence, consequently never make apologies for such carelessness. If an apology is necessary its occasion is very uncomplimentary to the receiver of the letter, and naturally he or she will not be very well pleased to have it drawn to his notice.

Mabel—No, let the gentleman take care of his coat and hat when he calls. It is an evidence of poor breeding if he asks you to help him on or off with his coat.

Richard—TV—in Canada it is considered in best taste for the gentleman to walk on the outside of the street, when walking with a lady, unless there be some special reason for his taking the other side. Going up or down stairs the gentleman goes first, the lady following, but going up the stairs at church, theatre or concert hall the lady always precedes the gentleman.

Madame—A widow on remarrying should never be accompanied by a bridesmaid. Neither may she wear a veil or orange blossoms, or may she be married in white. She should be attended by her father, brother or some near friend. Yes, she removes her first wedding ring before the second ceremony.

The idea prevalent among the majority of Canadian women as to the superiority of progressiveness of their country, the other side of the line is rather trying to those who have given thought to the comparison.

Those who believe that the Canadian woman and her British sister are quite as "advanced" in the modern sense of the word, the disparaging remarks which are made should be better better are extremely annoying. And that the women of the United States should arrogate to themselves the title of "American" is a term "American" women and that this should be acquired in quietly by Canadians is even more exasperating.

While it is true that the south has gone perhaps to the extreme of over-estimating its powers and capabilities, there is no reason why Canadians should not under-estimate themselves and their country, but allow others to do so. There is nothing which says that according to a man's valuation of himself will be the valuation of the world, and the truth then may be aptly applied to a nation as well.

One of the things about which the Canadian woman is especially envious of her sister to the south is her club and yet a Canadian woman's club would be the last in the country across the border. Their women are continually talking about their clubs and their country, but allow others to do so. There is nothing which says that according to a man's valuation of himself will be the valuation of the world, and the truth then may be aptly applied to a nation as well.

Their women are continually talking about their clubs and their country, but allow others to do so. There is nothing which says that according to a man's valuation of himself will be the valuation of the world, and the truth then may be aptly applied to a nation as well.

One of the things about which the Canadian woman is especially envious of her sister to the south is her club and yet a Canadian woman's club would be the last in the country across the border. Their women are continually talking about their clubs and their country, but allow others to do so. There is nothing which says that according to a man's valuation of himself will be the valuation of the world, and the truth then may be aptly applied to a nation as well.
