isfy the aesthetic requirements of Hon, Raymond Prefontaine.

The tearing down of a fence on Ward's Island by the city's orders brought a letter of protest from W. J. Kliner, lessee of the hotel property there. He declared it a ruthless act, and one performed without notice, but the controllers will not have the fence replaced. The fence, which trespasses on the city's Moss Park property, will also be removed.

Discussion of the new assessment act brought the suggestion from Controller Spence that the court of revision be asked to hold night sessions so as to allow the workingman a chance to file his protests. The controller predicted a lot of trouble in collecting taxes this year under the new act, and Controller Ward termed it an unjust measure. The objection taken to the location of a public lavatory at Yonge and Cottingham-streets will have the effect of moving it back 75 feet.

Discussion of the new assessment act brought the suggestion from Controller by shake off the home surroundings and strike for the rolling prairies. He wound up at the Pacific Coast, and then again successfully worked the box car game back east.

A week ago he fell into the hands of the superintendent of the Children's Aid Society, and his parents were communicated with. The city relief officer received a wire from Mrs. Boyle to send the youngster home, and yesterday Gordon, who had had enough of wandering, had the luxury of traveling as a bona-fide passenger.

The board of arbitration dealing with the case of Mr. Duckworth re the property no definite conclusion was reached. The arbitrators are inspector J. L. Hughes, which was considered a most generous one. It seems that when R. G. Reid was in St. John's the other day Sir Robert Bond to sell out his rights in the Newfoundland Railway, and also the several steamers now rounting in connection with the road for a next sum of a little over a million dollars. The prime minister asked for a next sum of a little over a million dollars. The prime minister asked was in St. John's the other day Sir Robert Bond to Sir Robert Bond to Sir Robert Bond to barley prospects are good, and the wheat, at time of writing, was just beginning to head out in large quantities.

The wet weather in the Emerson district has had a rather retarding affect on the crops there, but it will cause no diminution in the output of grain from that section.

There have been light showers all thruout the Brandon area, and the crops will be some weeks behind, but it is very doubtful if the amount will in any measure be decreased. In this district the wheat was last week from 35 to 40 inches high.

Around Wawanesa the wheat has reached the short-blade stage, and in the Souris section, the grain, with rorain to trouble it, has progressed vonciderfully. Barring rust or accident of any kind, the grain which, last week, was in the short blade, will be better than in any previous year. There are occasional showers in this section, but nothing to do any damage.

In close acquaintance with the stellar lights of politics of that period of our history, the venerable judge has a mass of material upon which to work. Recollections of men who have made the history of our province and country will form the basis of the proposed volume to be written by Justice Mac-Mahon.

From 1867 to 1883 he took more than active interest in the politics of the western part of the province, and in this time was accumulated a weaith of experiences. This biography should be more than a dry recital of political history; it promises to be the most interesting contribution yet made to the too-scant literature of our province.
