

NUMBER OF VETERANS EXCEEDS TOTAL OF POSITIONS READY

Over Seven Hundred Men Are Resident Throughout City.

MANY IN INSTITUTIONS Temporary Discharges Are Being Granted in Numerous Cases.

According to the records of the Soldiers' Aid Commission here there are at present somewhat over 700 returned men actually residing in London in addition to the large number who are patients in the various institutions here.

Ed. Lance, secretary of the commission, reports that only a small number are still in the service and that the majority had been placed in positions or had returned to the occupations which had been theirs previous to going to the front.

At present owing to general conditions difficulty is being encountered in finding vacancies, which the men can fill, last enough to keep up with the rate at which they are being discharged, as, owing to a recent regulation permitting the military authorities to issue what is known as a temporary discharge, the men are being released in large numbers daily.

Every returned soldier upon discharge has the opportunity of perfecting himself in some trade, says a semi-official statement of the commission, if he is so disabled as to be unable to return to his former employment.

Those who do not need retraining have every facility provided for the assistance at the offices of the commission in the Royal Bank Building.

Cites Official Thanks. That the authorities appreciate the efforts of the commission on behalf of the men is evidenced, says the secretary by the letters received from time to time, expressing thanks for the work.

Lieut. Col. T. G. Delamere, officer commanding "P" unit, Military Hospital Commission, and an original 1st Battalion man, has on more than one occasion, says Mr. Lance, expressed himself in terms of praise of the good work done for the men of his unit, thanking the secretary for the consideration shown in dealing with the many cases.

Major A. C. Prince, a former member of the 1st Battalion, has been another returned officer to add his appreciation for the work that is being done for the men of his old battalion.

Major Prince is quoted as saying in his concluding paragraph: "Your kindness and courtesy is doubly appreciated in the knowledge that you have chosen to extend the splendid activities of your commission into a district other than your own."

A most complete checking system has been put into operation in the commission's office. Immediately upon the return of a party of men files are opened for each man based upon a record made at the time of his previous occupation, his service, disability, etc.

This file is kept up to date at all times, entries being made as the man is moved or his status changed. In this way when the man applies for assistance of any kind his case can be given immediate attention, full details being at hand and no time lost in obtaining information.

Two Thousand Records. At present there are over 2,000 men whose records are on file, and this number is being added to weekly, as the Soldiers' Aid assists a man from the time of his return, and not only after he has been discharged, but also as he is being sent to the front.

It is to be kept in an efficient state.

It is not generally known that the Soldiers' Aid Commission is in a position to assist the returned men in such a practical way as to be able to make loans, but it is a fact that during the past year thousands of dollars have been loaned to men who were temporarily needy.

Temporary need of assistance, said the secretary's statement. "These advances, as they are called, are made only when it is shown that the men will be really assisted by receiving them. As a general rule, some commensurate advance as a strictly business proposition, and notwithstanding the fact that all loans are made with interest, they have all been, with one or two exceptions, kept to pay the man back in order that the man who was in need, might be able to obtain the accommodation."
