Huns Again Raid London; At Least 11 People Killed

Seven or Eight Air Machines Get Across

INJURED NUMBER 46

Feared Six More Bodies Are in Wreckage of Houses—German Spring Surprise by Not Waiting for Moonlight Night

London, Mar. 8.—Seven or eight German airplanes made a raid on England last night. One dropped bombs in the northwest and southwest districts of the city. Another dropped bombs in the north district of London, demolishing several houses. The following statement was made officially:—

"An official report says:—'Last night's air raid appears to have been carried out by seven or eight enemy airplanes, of which two reached London. The first two raiders approached the Isle of Thanet at about 10.55 p. m., and proceeded up the Thames estuary. Both were turned back before reaching London.

"Meanwhile the third raider came across the Essex coast at 11.20 p. m. and dived west. At 11.45 p. m. it was reported over East London. A few minutes later it dropped bombs on the southwestern and northwestern districts. At 11.50 p. m. the fourth raider, which had also come in across Essex, dropped bombs to the north of London, and then proceeded south across the capital, dropping its remaining bombs on the northern district between 12.20 and 12.30 a. m. The remaining enemy machine, of which came across the Essex coast, was turned back before they reached London.

"A certain amount of damage was caused to residential property in London. Several houses have been demolished. The first of these was destroyed in the northwestern district of London. A few minutes later it was reported over East London. A few minutes later it dropped bombs on the southwestern and northwestern districts. At 11.50 p. m. the fourth raider, which had also come in across Essex, dropped bombs to the north of London, and then proceeded south across the capital, dropping its remaining bombs on the northern district between 12.20 and 12.30 a. m. The remaining enemy machine, of which came across the Essex coast, was turned back before they reached London.

"Several persons were killed by the destruction of private houses in northwestern London. The house of a clergyman was destroyed, and the clergyman escaped. He is a special constable and had left home in a motor car. The explosion came a few minutes before the explosion which damaged his residence. The vicar worked throughout the night, assisting the wounded and homeless neighbors.

"A later official report reads:—'The latest police reports state that eleven were killed and forty-six injured in last night's air raid. The house of a clergyman was destroyed, and the clergyman escaped. He is a special constable and had left home in a motor car. The explosion came a few minutes before the explosion which damaged his residence. The vicar worked throughout the night, assisting the wounded and homeless neighbors.

"The greatest damage in London was inflicted in the northwestern section, where four bombs demolished several houses. All the damage and casualties in the district were confined to two parallel streets, although as usual windows were broken in a radius of several blocks. A single raider appeared over this area. Hundreds of persons were just preparing to desert their homes, most of which are three-story buildings, for the more substantial shelter of the two nearby subways when the bombs began to fall.

"The first bomb made a square hit on a three-story dwelling of concrete and brick, crashing through two floors before it exploded. While the police, special constables and volunteer rescuers were busy there three more bombs fell nearby in quick succession. Ambulances arrived promptly and, notwithstanding the confusion, the rescuers worked effectively under the anti-aircraft barrage. For twenty minutes after the bombing of this district the barrage was continued.

"There was a remarkable display of the anti-aircraft lights last night and it is believed by many that this furnished conditions under which the air raiders could work more effectively than under a clear starlit sky. As if to accentuate the advance movement was held last evening at the Church of England Institute. Hon. J. B. Baxter in the chair. The plan of campaign was briefly outlined by Canon Vernon, the organizing secretary of the advance movement.

"PRIVATE STILLS' IN PROVINCE?
Return of Bishop Richardson Delayed—Maxwell Case Will go into Next Week

Fredericton, Mar. 8.—A rumor which has received currency recently is that the strict enforcement of the intoxicating liquor act in the matter of the importation and sale of liquor has resulted in the establishment of illicit stills in the province the produce of which is being distributed. The location of such stills is not known, but some say they are aware of their existence.

"This appears to be a revival of an old industry as under the Canada Temperance Act and even the days of license in Fredericton and vicinity. Nashua and Moncton are two localities in which stills were located in other years. It is reported that distillation on a small scale is being carried on in this city as well as elsewhere in the province.

Debate May Be Closed By Tonight

Legislature To Get Early Down To Business

Ottawa, Mar. 8.—The ceremonies at the opening of parliament on Monday, March 18, will be of a strictly business-like character. In this the example of the British parliament is being followed. There the king and his staff officiated at the opening in service khaki.

"Colonel Chambers, leader of the Black Rod, announced this morning that there will be no invitations issued this year to the floor of the senate and when the governor-general arrives to open parliament, although the time honored programme will be followed in its entirety, there will be no one on the floor of the senate but the senators and floor officers for that purpose.

"A RAILWAY PROJECT
Report Says Proposal of Maine Man Does Not Seem Likely to Meet Favorable Reception—Liberty Committee in Session

Fredericton, March 8.—If preliminary plans may be taken as a criterion this is to be a business like session of the legislature. It is understood that when the house resumes this afternoon, Mr. Murray, leader of the opposition, will be heard on the address in reply to the speech from the throne. Unless the unforeseen occurs, Premier Foster will then close the debate and the reply will be submitted to the House at an early date, thus clearing the decks for action on the regular business without further delay. It is expected that the house will adjourn this afternoon to resume on Monday evening.

"A RAILWAY PROJECT
The committee to nominate all standing and select committees, consisting of Hon. Messrs. Foster, Veniot and Robinson, Mr. Murray (Kings), and Mr. Smith (Carleton), met at noon today. As there have been no changes since last year to affect the situation, all the committees were re-nominated without change.

"W. H. Manfield, of Bangor, president of the Eastern Maine Railway Company, is in Fredericton seeking legislation to aid in promoting a new line of railway. The proposed line would be from a point at or near Fredericton on the Valley Railway to the Maine border. Mr. Manfield says he has charters for the construction of a connecting line on the other side of the boundary up to the Maine border, but would need to complete the line in New Brunswick to make his project of any value.

"Judging from the attitude of the members, due to war conditions and also to the railway problems they now have on their hands as a result of the policy of the previous government, it does not seem at all likely that Mr. Manfield will receive a favorable reception. There seems to be a general feeling that the province will have all it can attend to in the way of railway propositions as a result of the war.

"The first caucus of the government members was held last evening to discuss the programme for the session. Hon. J. T. Burchill, Northumberland, was re-elected chairman and J. E. Michaud was elected secretary.
