

Summer Complaints Easily Avoided

Drink plenty of cool water—not too water—eat sparingly of well-cooked food, including vegetables, and before each meal and on retiring take a tablespoonful of

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

In a little water. Then summer complaints will have no terrors for you—your stomach and bowels will be in fine condition to do all the work called upon

It, through neglect, any of these complaints have taken hold on you. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is again "the friend in need."

In emergencies, prostration, chills at any time, it is the best and should always be kept near at hand.

At druggists, dealers or hotels. Be sure you get Duffy's and that the seal over the cork is intact. Refuse substitutes and imitations; they are injurious. Send for free medical booklet and doctor's advice.

The Duffy Malt Whisky Co., Rochester, N. Y.

The Canadian Whisky Co., Ltd., Local Distributors.

WOMEN SHOULD BE PROTECTED

Against So Many Surgical Operations. How Mrs. Bethune and Mrs. Moore Escaped

Sikeston, Mo.—"For seven years I suffered everything. I was in bed for four or five days at a time every month, and so on. I cramped and had backache and headache, and was so nervous and weak that I dreaded to see anyone or have any one near me in the room. The doctors gave me medicine to ease me, but it did not help. I would not have an operation. I was told that when a friend of my husband told him about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for his wife, I was willing to take it. Now I look the picture of health and feel like it, too. I can do my own housework, raise my garden, and milk a cow. I can entertain company and enjoy them. I can visit when I choose, and walk as fast as any ordinary woman, any day in the month. I wish I could talk to every suffering woman and girl."—Mrs. DEMA BETHUNE, Sikeston, Mo.

Murrayville, Ill.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a very bad case of female trouble and it made me a well woman. My health was all broken down, the doctor said I must have an operation, and I was ready to go to the hospital, but I read so that I began taking your Compound. I got along so well that I gave up the doctors and was saved from the operation."—Mrs. CHARLES MOORE, R. R. No. 3, Murrayville, Ill.

FARM SETTLEMENT.

The first meeting of the Farm Settlement Board, recently created by the local government, took place last evening in the government rooms, Church street.

A discussion of plans for getting information on available farms in the province took place and T. W. Butler was selected as permanent chairman. It was decided to meet again on September 3. Those present last evening were: Hon. J. C. Fleming, premier of New Brunswick; J. C. Thompson, immigration agent for the Province; James O'Rourke, secretary for the Northern Farmers' Union; A. B. Wilcox, James O'Rourke, secretary for the Northern Farmers' Union; and Wm. Hay. The members of the board decided to get all the possible information on farming lands in the province and the idea of settling on it farmers from the old country, and it is understood that immigration department of the Northern Farmers' Union, Ltd., will assist with the work.

In nature not one seed in a thousand lives to make a plant or a tree, and of those that live not one in a hundred reaches the blossoming stage.

WOULD SCREAM FOR HOURS WITH ECZEMA

Baby Dreadful Sufferer. Could Not Keep Him from Scratching. Every Joint Ached. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and He is Well.

"Enclosed find my son's photo and I feel by writing these few lines to you I am only doing my duty, as my son was a dreadful sufferer from eczema. As the age of two weeks he began to get covered with red spots on his legs and groin, which mother thought was red gum or thrush but day by day it grew worse until every joint and crevice were affected and baby started screaming for hours day and night, such a thing as sleep was out of the question. I took him to two of Sydney's leading doctors; one said it was one of the worst cases he had seen, but other did not think it so serious; one ordering treatment for thrush, the other a dusting powder. I followed their prescriptions over four months and still baby kept scratching. I could not keep him from scratching to great wear and tear.

"When he was five months old I tried the Cuticura Remedies and I am very thankful to say my baby is to-day free from all his sufferings. His groin was bleeding when I started using Cuticura, under the knees, arms, in armpits, and on his neck. After two weeks of Cuticura Ointment I began to see a difference and by the use of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and health was restored. My baby was nearly two years old, but he is now ten months old, has not had any further trouble, and is a healthy, happy child. My son, J. Martin, 2 Knight St., Esplanade, Sydney, N.S.W., Mar. 31, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold throughout the world by the largest sample of each, with a 32-page book on the care and treatment of the skin and hair, will be sent free on application to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., of Columbus Ave., Boston, U.S.A.

LA MARQUISE de FONTENOY

New Governor-General Bears Title Which Gladstone Wanted—Financial Troubles of Baronet

(Copyright, 1912, by the Brentwood Co., Ltd.)

Lord Liverpool, who has just been appointed Governor-General of New Zealand, in the place of Lord Lansdowne, bears a title which the late William E. Gladstone was extremely anxious to obtain for himself. It was his inability to secure it that led him to determine upon remaining a commoner, and to go towards the end of his life as plain William E. Gladstone, instead of plain William E. Gladstone, Earl of Liverpool.

The obstacles which he found in the way of taking his title from the city with its family and political associations, which he had taken over from his father, were not so easily overcome as he had hoped. Victoria pressed an earldom upon him, but the queen's lord in waiting, George Foljambe, Lord Hawkebury, was in turn the queen's lord in waiting.

His mother, Lady Selina Jenkinson, was daughter and heiress of the late "Jenkinson" Earl of Liverpool. It is a matter of unwritten law that no peer or peeress shall select as his title one which has belonged to a family that still exists and has expectations of having the dignity in question revived in its favor by the crown. This is exactly what King Edward did in 1905, when he advanced Cecil Foljambe, Lord Hawkebury to the Earlship of Liverpool, formerly held by his maternal grandfather.

The present Lord Liverpool is his son, and has been in turn A. D. C., chamberlain, and state steward to the Viceroy of Ireland, and comptroller of King Edward's and King George's households. He also served as an officer of the Rifle Brigade through the South African War.

Mothered by the only daughter of Lord Monck, Lord Liverpool may be said to have family associations with the great colonial dominion of which he has just been appointed governor general, for his father, the late earl, a sailor by profession, served in the Royal Navy, and took part in the storming of Rangoon.

So keenly interested was the late earl in the colony whose peace and prosperity he had thus promoted, that he invested in and there which has since become extremely valuable, and constitutes an important source of income to his son the new governor-general.

Lord Liverpool's English country seat is at Harewood, an exceedingly picturesque building, standing in the midst of a 3,000 acre estate in the fairest portion of Lincolnshire, and within sight of the towers of Lincoln Cathedral.

The pages of "Burke" give as the founder of his family the first of the "Jenkinson" Barons of Liverpool, and also as the founder of the house of Foljambe, of which he is the chief, and which he inherited in the reign of Henry III., and Edward I. This first "Jenkinson" earl was the principal lieutenant of George I. in the American colonies against the English crown. Indeed, Jenkinson is recorded in history as having succeeded Bute in the sinister capacity of secret adviser to the king.

He was the eldest son of Sir Charles Jenkinson, who was in command of the Royal Horse Guards at the battles of Dettingen and Fontenoy. In his youth he lodged with Beau Brummell's grandfather, a retired butler, in Bury Street, St. James, and succeeded by his father as seventh baronet, was advanced, first to the Barony of Hawkebury, and then to the Earlship of Liverpool, which he managed to remain in office as minister of state almost without interruption from 1793 to 1804, and died leaving a considerable fortune to his two sons, the elder of whom, as premier in 1812, was the statesman who determined upon the banishment of Napoleon to St. Helena.

He held the premiership for fifteen years, and was portrayed by Lord Beaconsfield in his novel "Coningsby" as "the Arch-medocrity." Having no children, he was succeeded by his younger brother, George Foljambe, in favor of whose son, Cecil George, first one and then the other of his family peerages was revived.

Sir Francis Vane, for whose arrest as a fugitive, that is to say, absconding bankrupt, a warrant has been issued by the London Court of Bankruptcy, according to a report in the "Standard," has sought refuge in Italy, at Lucca, where his wife owns the Villa Bombarde, and whence he will be extradited unless he returns to England to face his creditors. He is the instigator of an anti-militarist boycott movement, an abject rival to that organized by General Sir Robert Baden-Powell. The latter is the only one who has received official recognition.

The last occasion on which Sir Francis Vane came prominently before the public was this spring, when he returned to the island of his conferring "knighthood" on Hugo Amos, founder of the "Order of Sir Galahad" in the United States, and who, formerly private secretary to the late Lord Pauncefote at Washington, is now in jail serving a term for bigamy.

Sir Francis had himself photographed in his self-devised uniform and mantle of "grand seigneur" in the act of "knighting" his friend Hugo Amos. This picture was published in many of the illustrated papers of Europe and America at the time and caused much laughter.

Sir Francis, whose bankruptcy by the way is of a very serious character, served on the staff of General Sir John French in the South African war, held a commission for five years in the Scots Guards, was until his bankruptcy the other day a member of Boodle's Club in London, is fifth baronet of his line, and succeeded in lineal male descent from Sir Henry Vane, who was knighted at the battle of Poitiers.

Another member of this family was Sir Henry Vane or "Harry Vane," a famous Puritan statesman, celebrated by Milton in verse, adversary of Cromwell, and Governor of Massachusetts, who in 1622 was beheaded on Tower Hill.

Sir Francis would be much better off financially had it not been for the untoward headship of his father, Major Frederick Henry Vane, of the Twelfth Lancers, who, after his nephew, Sir Harry had been the enjoyment of the baronetcy and estates for nearly thirty years, suddenly saw fit to bring against him for the possession thereof on the ground that Sir Henry's father, that is to say, his own eldest brother, had been illegitimately born. With a most glaring disregard for the fair name of his mother, he declared in court that she had lived a full year with his father before marriage took place between them, and that their eldest son, Francis, who succeeded as third baronet,

Before and After Taking

BY RUTH CAMERON.

TWO young people who were unusually reserved and unromantic during the six months of their engagements have developed into a surprisingly affectionate and demonstrative married couple. They have been married over two years, and seem to grow steadily more affectionate in their manner towards each other.

A group of the wife's feminine friends were discussing this phenomenon. "Why, when they were engaged I thought John was the most unromantic lover I ever saw!" one of the girls contributed, "and I said, 'Goodness, if he's like this before marriage, what will he be afterwards?' But I never saw such a change in my life. He can hardly keep his hands off of Barbara even in public, and every time he looks at her you feel as if he were kissing her and you ought to go out of the room. That after they've been married two years."

"And Barbara's just as bad, too," put in the wife's most intimate friend. "You know before she was married she was the strictest thing. She wouldn't even let John kiss her until they were actually engaged with a ring, though they had an understanding long before that. And now she's just as affectionate as he is. Isn't it queer?"

In the group of girls was one young married woman—a bride of six months. The intimate friend turned to her. "Well, Jane, what do you say?" she asked lightly. "Is it that way in your family, too?"

The unassuming girl which Jane gave as she answered was a keener commentator on her answer than she would probably have deliberately given. "Oh, no," she said, rather bitterly, "nothing like that in our family. We did all our love-making before we were married."

There was a little silence while some of the girls recalled what an excessively demonstrative lover even in public Jane's had been, and how very different he was as a husband, and then someone opened another subject with nervous haste. How many couples there are who could explain not only post-nuptial unromanticness, but far graver troubles by that sentence, "We did all our love-making before we were married."

The question of how far love-making should go before marriage is something besides a moral question. It is also a question of expediency, as many girls who have married after ultra-refined courtships can testify. Every undue liberty a girl permits before marriage she will bitterly rue sooner or later.

I know some girls who are even now committing such indiscretions in thinking, "But my case is different. I know my lover will never tire of me." We did all our love-making before we were married."

No, little girl, it's ten million to one that your case isn't different. And I wish with all my heart that you might hear the bitterness and the sigh that went with that bride's revelation. If you could, I'm sure you would never give yourself reason to say, "We did all our love-making before we were married."

A LACE GOWN

Heavy crochet lace here successfully combines with finer net lace. Pearl buttons are used as a trimming on each side of the corsage.

had been born three weeks prior to the ceremony, instead of three days after it, as stated by the standard "Persees." He further alleged that the register entry of his elder brother's birth had been fraudulently altered in such a fashion as to legalize his otherwise illegitimate birth.

The litigation dragged along over a period of five years, involving the washing of a large amount of unromantic family lines in court, and the expenditure of enormous sums in legal fees, the suit being finally dismissed with costs. Indeed, all that old judge Frederick Henry Vane succeeded in doing was to defame his mother and father, to ruin himself, and to diminish the family heritage that would have been diuine circumstances have reverted in due time to his own son, since the late baronet was childless. As it turned out, Sir Harry's property was left absolutely to his widow, with a request that none of it should ever go to the major, or to his son, the present baronet.

The widowed Lady Vane is still living, and makes her home at a country estate, Luton-in-the-Forest, near Perth, in Cumberland. For many years the place was said to be haunted, and finally, after the death of the late baronet, the specter of the late Sir Harry carried the walls of the apartment frequented by the ghost to be examined, with the result that the skeleton of a woman was found bricked up there. After the bones had been buried in the neighboring church yard, the ghostly visitations ceased, and there has been no reappearance of the manifestations so far.

Sir Francis Vane has no son by his marriage with Baroness Costa-Rice, and consequently the baronetcy will become extinct at his death.

MARQUESS DE FONTENOY.

To Keep Skin in Fine Condition in Summer

(From The Family Physician.) It would be much better for the skin if little cream, powder or rouge were used during the heated term. Mixed with perspiration, dust and grime, these things are anything but beautifying. Ordinary unperfumed wax will do more for the complexion, and without giving any oily, shiny, streaked, spotted or pesty appearance, it not only keeps the pores clean, but daily removes particles of dirt or weather, by constantly keeping the complexion clear, white and satiny. It does more towards perpetuating a youthful countenance than any of the arts or artifices commonly employed. One ounce of merozole, well dissolved in a quart of water, will completely remove the worst complexion. It is applied to the face like cold cream and washed off in the morning.

To keep the skin from sagging or wrinkling, or to overcome such conditions, the only thing better than a face bath made by dissolving one ounce powdered exaltol in half pint witch hazel.

Daily Hints For the Cook

ORANGE PUDDING.

Mix 2 tablespoons of cornstarch with 1-2 cup of sugar, add 1-2 cup of cold milk, turn the mixture into 1-2 cups of hot milk, cook over boiling water for 10 minutes, then pour into the well-beaten yolks of 2 eggs, and 1-2 tablespoon of salt and continue cooking until the eggs are set, stirring constantly. Remove from the fire, flavor with vanilla and chill. Put peeled, sliced and seeded oranges into a pudding dish, sprinkle with 1-2 cup of sugar, pour the custard over the fruit, cover with the whites of the eggs beaten until stiff with 2 tablespoons of sugar, and brown delicately.

LAMB IN ASPIC.

Soften 1 box of gelatin in 1 cupful of cold water, stir it into 1 quart of lamb broth highly seasoned with vegetables, stir until dissolved and strain through a double thickness of cheese-cloth. Rise a plain mold in cold water, pour in a little of the broth, and when it begins to harden cover with thin slices of cold cooked lamb and sprinkle lightly with mint sauce. Cover with broth and when firm enough repeat as before and continue until the dish is full, having jelly on top. Place on ice several hours before serving.

Nothing more dainty or more easily digested than Kellogg's Toasted Corn Flakes. Its delicious flavor tents the failing appetite, its nutriment gives strength quickly. Order Kellogg's.

INVALIDS ENJOY IT

Nothing more dainty or more easily digested than Kellogg's Toasted Corn Flakes. Its delicious flavor tents the failing appetite, its nutriment gives strength quickly. Order Kellogg's.

REGAL FLOUR

Nothing more dainty or more easily digested than Kellogg's Toasted Corn Flakes. Its delicious flavor tents the failing appetite, its nutriment gives strength quickly. Order Kellogg's.

August Furniture Sale For Prospective Housekeepers

A welcome to your greatest opportunity of the year to start housekeeping in the economical way. Come in with your PROSPECTIVE—select the furniture you need for your coming home and by paying a deposit we will store your purchase free till wanted.

Don't Delay! Don't Wait Till Tomorrow. Our Sale Ends August 24.

J. MARCUS, 30 DOCK STREET

SALVATION ARMY LEADER PASSES AWAY

General Booth's Wonderful Career Ended Last Night—Some Features of His Life

London, Aug. 20.—The Reverend William Booth, general and commander in chief of the Salvation Army, passed away at 10.12 o'clock tonight. He was born at Nottingham in 1829.

The veteran Salvation Army leader was unconscious for forty-eight hours previous to his death. The medical bulletins had not revealed the seriousness of the general's condition, which for a week past, it is now admitted, was hopeless.

Twelve weeks ago General Booth underwent an operation for the removal of a cataract in his left eye. For two days after the operation indications justified the hope of the general's recovery. Then, however, septic poisoning set in and from that time, with the exception of rallies, the patient's health steadily declined.

The general recognized that the end was near and often spoke of his work as being finished. Throughout the commander in chief of the staff of the army, and Mrs. Bramwell Booth, gave their unremitting attention to him, both night and day.

The aged evangelist died at his residence, the Rockstone, Healdwood, some eight miles from London, where he had been confined to his bed since the operation. Present at the bedside when the end came were Mr. and Mrs. Bramwell Booth and their daughter and son, Adjutant Catherine Booth and Sergeant Bernard Booth; the general's youngest daughter, Miss Sarah Booth; Mrs. Booth Heber, and Commissioner Howard, Colonel Kitching and Dr. Wardlaw Mills.

Public interest now centres in the question of a successor to the late commander. Under the constitution of the Salvation Army, the general nominates his successor. That General Booth did several years ago, placing the name in a sealed envelope which was deposited with the Salvation Army's lawyer with the instructions that it should be opened after his death.

While nobody knows what name the envelope enclosed, the general belief among the Salvation Army is that the name will prove to be of Bramwell Booth, for thirty years his chief of staff.

Where General Booth will be buried has not yet been decided. While every English member of the Salvation Army is convinced that no man is more worthy of it than the general by the Abbey authorities, it is the general belief that the commander in chief's last resting place will be along side of his wife, who twenty-one years ago was buried in Abbey Park, Stoke Newington.

SHIPPING

ALMANAC FOR ST. JOHN, AUG. 21.

High Tide.....6.23 Low Tide.....12.28 Sun Rises.....5.38 Sun Sets.....7.14 The time used is Atlantic standard.

PORT OF ST. JOHN.

Sailed Yesterday.

C. G. S. Earl Grey, with Governor General and party, for St. Andrew.

CANADIAN PORT.

Newcastle, Aug. 19.—Old bktn Rts, Olan, for Valencia Island; strm Broomfield, Harris, for Belfast.

BRITISH PORT.

Vineyard Haven, Mass. Aug. 19.—Ardr schrs Calabria, from Port Reading for St. John.

New York, Aug. 20.—Ardr schrs Dora C, from Eatonville (N. S.); Batrios, L. Corkum, from Duxart (N. S.); schrs Melos, Irak and Sarah A Reed reported sailed yesterday put back to City Island on account of adverse winds.

Portland, Me. Aug. 20.—Ardr schrs Peter C Schultz, from St. John, and sailed for New York; Samuel Castner, for Calais. Sunderland, R. I. Aug. 20.—Ardr schrs Exalta, from Port Reading for Port William (N. S.).

"What are you doing here, dear?" "Looking for a husband."

"But you've got one!" "That's the one I'm looking for."

It must satisfy you.

If it doesn't, your dealer, backed by us, gladly returns your money.

Isn't that a sincere way to invite you to try it?

REGAL FLOUR

Nothing more dainty or more easily digested than Kellogg's Toasted Corn Flakes. Its delicious flavor tents the failing appetite, its nutriment gives strength quickly. Order Kellogg's.

INVALIDS ENJOY IT

Nothing more dainty or more easily digested than Kellogg's Toasted Corn Flakes. Its delicious flavor tents the failing appetite, its nutriment gives strength quickly. Order Kellogg's.

August Furniture Sale For Prospective Housekeepers

A welcome to your greatest opportunity of the year to start housekeeping in the economical way. Come in with your PROSPECTIVE—select the furniture you need for your coming home and by paying a deposit we will store your purchase free till wanted.

Don't Delay! Don't Wait Till Tomorrow. Our Sale Ends August 24.

J. MARCUS, 30 DOCK STREET

SALVATION ARMY LEADER PASSES AWAY

General Booth's Wonderful Career Ended Last Night—Some Features of His Life

London, Aug. 20.—The Reverend William Booth, general and commander in chief of the Salvation Army, passed away at 10.12 o'clock tonight. He was born at Nottingham in 1829.

The veteran Salvation Army leader was unconscious for forty-eight hours previous to his death. The medical bulletins had not revealed the seriousness of the general's condition, which for a week past, it is now admitted, was hopeless.

Twelve weeks ago General Booth underwent an operation for the removal of a cataract in his left eye. For two days after the operation indications justified the hope of the general's recovery. Then, however, septic poisoning set in and from that time, with the exception of rallies, the patient's health steadily declined.

The general recognized that the end was near and often spoke of his work as being finished. Throughout the commander in chief of the staff of the army, and Mrs. Bramwell Booth, gave their unremitting attention to him, both night and day.

The aged evangelist died at his residence, the Rockstone, Healdwood, some eight miles from London, where he had been confined to his bed since the operation. Present at the bedside when the end came were Mr. and Mrs. Bramwell Booth and their daughter and son, Adjutant Catherine Booth and Sergeant Bernard Booth; the general's youngest daughter, Miss Sarah Booth; Mrs. Booth Heber, and Commissioner Howard, Colonel Kitching and Dr. Wardlaw Mills.

Public interest now centres in the question of a successor to the late commander. Under the constitution of the Salvation Army, the general nominates his successor. That General Booth did several years ago, placing the name in a sealed envelope which was deposited with the Salvation Army's lawyer with the instructions that it should be opened after his death.

While nobody knows what name the envelope enclosed, the general belief among the Salvation Army is that the name will prove to be of Bramwell Booth, for thirty years his chief of staff.

Where General Booth will be buried has not yet been decided. While every English member of the Salvation Army is convinced that no man is more worthy of it than the general by the Abbey authorities, it is the general belief that the commander in chief's last resting place will be along side of his wife, who twenty-one years ago was buried in Abbey Park, Stoke Newington.

SHIPPING

ALMANAC FOR ST. JOHN, AUG. 21.

High Tide.....6.23 Low Tide.....12.28 Sun Rises.....5.38 Sun Sets.....7.14 The time used is Atlantic standard.

PORT OF ST. JOHN.

Sailed Yesterday.

C. G. S. Earl Grey, with Governor General and party, for St. Andrew.

CANADIAN PORT.

Newcastle, Aug. 19.—Old bktn Rts, Olan, for Valencia Island; strm Broomfield, Harris, for Belfast.

BRITISH PORT.

Vineyard Haven, Mass. Aug. 19.—Ardr schrs Calabria, from Port Reading for St. John.

New York, Aug. 20.—Ardr schrs Dora C, from Eatonville (N. S.); Batrios, L. Corkum, from Duxart (N. S.); schrs Melos, Irak and Sarah A Reed reported sailed yesterday put back to City Island on account of adverse winds.

Portland, Me. Aug. 20.—Ardr schrs Peter C Schultz, from St. John, and sailed for New York; Samuel Castner, for Calais. Sunderland, R. I. Aug. 20.—Ardr schrs Exalta, from Port Reading for Port William (N. S.).

"What are you doing here, dear?" "Looking for a husband."

"But you've got one!" "That's the one I'm looking for."

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

ALL KIDNEY DISEASES

PREPARED BY DR. J. C. DODD, 23 THE PR