

respect those who do propose to go, and let them be wise and generous in making preparation to support the government in its present plans for mobilization and equipment, for pensions, for insurance, and for all measures looking to the national safety, and to the protection of the wives and families of those who are going to defend the Empire on foreign soil. Let it be remembered that Canada may well have to make such sacrifices as little Belgium has already been making, in order that the Empire may be kept secure, inviolate and triumphant, and that the men who are presenting themselves for foreign service are entitled not only to respect, but to the gratitude of all who for one reason or another are to remain at home.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

Read Mr. Carvell's closing argument in the matter of the timber graft. Read it with an open mind. That's enough.

Springfield Republican: "There is no fundamental hostility between France and Germany save the bitterness on one side over the lost provinces, and the fear on the other side that France meditates revenge. Thus each side has been obliged to keep armed to the teeth for fear of a sudden blow by the other, and with the enormous growth of Russia the financial strain on both France and Germany has increased unbearably. German rivalry with Russia was perhaps inevitable, but it would not have taken so acute and menacing a form if Bismarck had not made France a permanent enemy and given her a powerful ally. Bismarck was a great man, but he overestimated blood and iron."

Detroit Free Press: "Common patriotism demanded that the British people sidetrack the home rule controversy and all other serious domestic disputes as long as there is danger that the nation may be plunged into war, and those who feel interest in the fortunes of the Empire must contemplate with satisfaction the prompt response given Premier Asquith's appeal for forgetfulness of all partisan differences. This indicates that the British nation is still sound at heart and that no matter how much its people may engage in family quarrels they are a unit against outside danger. The Ulster trouble has gone only skin deep."

Speaking of the reduction of the bank rates, the Boston Herald says: "The reduction of bank rates by the Bank of England and the Bank of France is susceptible of several interpretations. One is that in the two great centres of European financial opinion German victory is not anticipated. Another is that the two great banks are intimately associated with their respective governments have reasons to believe, or at least hope, that the war will not be prolonged. A third is that the purpose of raising the rate to a point preventing the outflow of gold having been accomplished a reduction may now be safely granted. Whatever is the right interpretation the action of the banks is a ray of light from among the clouds. It will stimulate the reopening of our stock exchanges. The report is current that the London Stock Exchange will resume business tomorrow on a 'strictly cash basis.' If the report is confirmed there is nothing to prevent our exchanges following suit."

New York Journal of Commerce: "Those who now regard the war situation in Europe as likely to be beneficial economically to the United States are the shallowest of superficial reasoners. The immediate phenomena will be scarcity and higher prices of necessities; the next, readjustment of industrial demand and of manufacturing; the ultimate, falling off of consumptive power, the destruction of markets and the erection of inflated and temporary enterprises. Every careful business man of foresight will find his duty and his final advantage in proceeding cautiously, refraining from speculative undertakings and commitments that depend upon continued war and hoarding his resources. To consumers it is a time for economy of means and provision against sudden changes in employment and opportunity. Nationally the emergency demands large economic state-manship, for the providing of transportation, the safeguarding so far as possible of export business and the development of new domestic sources of revenue. Complete economic readjustment and reorganization necessarily result from such a world struggle as this threatens."

Not to be Disparaged. "Pedestrians," said the angry motorist, "are the greatest nuisance every way." "Maybe so, maybe so," replied the philanthropist, "but don't go on about them. I do hate to see them run down."

CONDENSED NEWS; LOCAL AND GENERAL

The St. John bank clearings for the week ending yesterday were $7,518,300, for the corresponding week last year, $7,765,077, an increase of $246,777.

Mrs. John Collins, wife of the I. C. R. policeman, who was injured a short time ago while attempting to stop a runaway, is reported to be recovering rapidly and is expected to be out again before many days.

Michael Barrett, who was appointed I. C. R. policeman when the station recently, has wearied of the position and left after a few days' service. J. Roberts, who has been in the employ of the I. C. R. for some time, has been appointed policeman, and is doing duty in the station in place of Barrett.

A mark of recognition in honor of a lengthy and faithful career in the service of the I. C. R. was bestowed upon Frederick E. Hamilton, in the office of the terminal agent, L. R. Ross, yesterday when the superintendent, J. T. Hallissey, of Truro, presented to him, in behalf of the board, a certificate of appreciation for his services with commendable efficiency and for thirty-four years, a long service medal, making a brief recapitulation of which Mr. Hamilton replied.

In the absence of the pastor of the Portland street Methodist church, Rev. M. E. Conron, Sunday, the regular services were taken in charge and the pulpit filled very acceptably by the pastor's wife, Mrs. Conron, who had considerable pulpit experience previous to her marriage. As Miss Rose Shore was very young and inexperienced in the "pulpit," both in the old country and in the difference parts of Canada where she was engaged in an extended series of evangelistic work.

Harold, the fourteen-year-old son of James Ingraham, 53 City road, was drowned while bathing at Lock Le-mond Sunday afternoon. He was swimming on water wings, only a short distance from the shore in front of his father's house, when he fell and was unable to get up. The family was spending the day, when it is thought he was seized with a cramp. He slipped suddenly from the wings and sank. Thomas Taylor rushed into the lake, but when he rescued the boy he was dead. All efforts at resuscitation were futile.

So far this year according to the statements of the secretary of the Tourist Association, and the hotel men, the summer and also in part to the financial depression that is being felt in the United States more than here. In view of the more recent developments in the European situation, it is thought that this last will become more noticeable and will effect the plans of possible tourists in the immediate future.

So far also there has been no great number of advance notices of people coming on to this province for the summer, and already one or more parties from the continent of Europe have cancelled their engagements for the hunting season.

Miss Leah, head of the Victorian Order of Nurses here, has notified the board of governors that she is a member of a British volunteer corps and will go to the front if her services are required.

Last night Miss Daisy K. Gayton, of 28 Harrison street, also a graduate nurse, was called to the aid of a woman who would go wherever her services were required. It is understood that several other young nurses in the city are willing to enter the Red Cross service and to Europe if they are required.

Now is the Time to Plan for the Summer

We will not give a summer vacation this year as a number of students from long distances would be inconvenienced thereby.

Our summers are so deliciously cool that St. John is a harbor of refuge during the hot season, and study just as pleasant as at any other time. Students can therefore enter at any time and send for Catalogue.
