London, Oct. 3. Dr. B. Charles Adderley, Conservative member of parliament for North Staffordshire, addressed a large meeting of his constituents at Burton last night. He alluded to the work of the Geneva tribunal and the settlement of the disputes between England and America, and said the property of the world depended upon a cordial understanding between the two nations. England had made a great sacrifice to terminate the state of semi-alienation and relieve the anxiety of Canada. The settlement of the difficulties arising out of the depredations of Confederate privateers had been dearly purchased by England, and the parties who fitted out those vessels and made fortunes at the risk of the honor of the country ought to bear the burden imposed by the Geneva tribunal.
